Hanoi Hints Shift, Dispatches New Peace Talk Aide

High-Powered Delegate May Speed Up Paris Conference

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam may be preparing to outflank its own barrier to progress in the Paris talks and move the discussion to broad peacemaking issues without insisting on an immediate end of bombing in the North.

This possibility is being studied by U.S. officials. It arises from wording used in the North Vietnamese Communist Party paper Nhan Dan today.

Nhan Dan said that before other problems in the peacemaking process can be discussed, the United States "must first of all clearly acknowledge its responsibility to put a definitive and unconditional end to bombing and all other acts of war on the whole Democratic Republic of Vietnam territory."

NEW ADVISER

This new formulation of an old North Vietnamese demand coincided with the assignment of a new North Vietnamese adviser to the delegation here headed by Ambassador Xuan Thuy.

On his way to Paris, according to the North Vietnamese announcement, is Le Duc Tho, 57, a member of the Politburo of the North Vietnamese Communist Party's Central Committee.

Disclosure yesterday that Tho has been assigned to the Paris talks aroused speculation that North Vietnam might be planning a tactical shift of position with Tho bringing fresh instructions to Xuan Thuy.

WHAT NEXT?

Bitter Fighting House To House Through Saigon

SAIGON (UPI) — Allied forces today battled house-to-house against at least 1,000 Viet Cong staging their third invasion of Saigon in five months.

Nearly 500 guerrillas have been killed since the Viet Cong sent infiltrator bands into the capital six days ago. But spokesmen said today's fighting mushroomed into major combat with the Viet Cong entrenched in two sectors, one a 10-block area in the heavily Chinese Cholon area.

The battling has not—as yet—reached the size of the fighting in February and May when tens of thousands of guerrillas and North Vietnamese troops were thrown against Saigon. But almost overnight the guerrilla bands have turned into battlefields the crowded streets of Cholon on Saigon's southwest side and the Binh Loi Bridge area on the capital's northwest.

In other developments, South Vietnamese troops—in the first such action of the war—freed two U.S. Marines captured two months ago by the Viet Cong near the city of Hue, 380 miles north of Saigon. Also today, U.S. jets and artillery knocked out two Soviet-made 100mm guns just 48 hours after the big guns opened fire against a Central Highlands American base. It had been the first time such large Communist guns had been used so far south of North Vietnam.

Near Hue, American and South Vietnamese troops yesterday surrounded and killed 142 guerrillas. They also captured

WHAT MARIN WILL VOTE ON

Tuesday, Marinites, along with other Californians, will go to the polls in an important primary election.

To help acquaint the voters with the candidates and the issues that will appear on that ballot, today's issue of the Independent-Journal Marin Magazine is a special edition devoted largely to that election.

You will find in its pages brief biographies of the candidates, summaries of their stands and explanations of measures and propositions that will be up for decision.

IN OAKLAND — Sen. Robert F. Kennedy got an overly enthusiastic, clutching reception in Oakland's Defermery Park yesterday. Just behind him, Assembly Speaker Jesse Unruh also found the going rough.

IN PASADENA — Campaigning in Southern California yesterday, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy took his stand on the issues at a supermarket in Pasadena. He flew today to San Francisco to debate Kennedy.

Kennedy, McCarthy Square Off Tonight In TV Debate

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—With three days to go before the do-or-die California primary, Sens. Robert F. Kennedy and Eugene J. McCarthy square off tonight on television.

A debate, confrontation or joint appearance was in prospect, depending on which political camp was talking.

Kennedy was satisfied with the arrangements. McCarthy was unhappy because there was no provision for rebuttal. The debate was scheduled live over ABC-TV at 9:30 p. m. EDT for all time zones except the west, where a tape re-run is planned for 9:30 p.m. PST.

Radio station KGO (810 on the dial) will carry the debate between Sens. Robert F. Kennedy and Eugene J. McCarthy live today from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. and a re-run from 10:30 to 11:30 p.m.

The network stayed strictly neutral by calling the program a "joint appearance."

The format, similar to that used in ABC's "Issues and Answers" Sunday show, called for the first question to go to both senators, then alternated questions with the candidates allowed to comment on each other's answers.

Kennedy canceled all public appearances to prepare for the debate. McCarthy scheduled only a brief San Jose rally while enroute from Los Angeles to San Francisco.

The Minnesotan had long demanded that Kennedy agree to a debate. But, it was McCarthy's upset victory in the Oregon primary that forced the New Yorker to decide upon a confrontation as they went down to the wire for Tuesday's California election, the last major primary in the nation.

After the ground rules were

Hot Spell Brings Marin's First Rash Of Grass Fires

The first major heat spell of the year brought with it a rash of grass fires throughout Marin County yesterday.

One, a 30-acre grass and brush fire west of Novato fanned by high winds, raged uncontrolled for several hours before it was finally brought under control by the combined forces of the Novato and Marin County fire departments.

The other eight grass fires were minor and spread throughout the county. Three were apparently caused by children and three others by discarded cigarettes.

The Novato fire which apparently started from a lighted cigarette tossed into the dry grass at 1:14 p.m. at the edge of Novato Boulevard, one-half mile west of Sutro Avenue, burned to within two miles of Stafford Lake.

Eight fire trucks and 30 men fought it for over six hours before it was finally extinguished, the Novato Fire Department reported.

The other grass fires were reported in Fairfax, San Rafael, Kentfield, Larkspur, San Anselmo and Sausalito.

$675,000 Sought For Toll Plaza Planning

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

A $675,000 contract to prepare plans and a cost estimate to widen the Golden Gate Bridge's toll booth plaza was proposed yesterday by a New York engineering firm to bridge and highway district directors.

The firm, Ammann and Whitney, recently did the $265,000 study for a second deck, a proposal that was shelved by the directors before the study was complete.

The district's engineer, Robert E. Shields, has estimated the cost of the project at $12 million.

The present 14-lane plaza would be widened to 18 lanes, and would be moved 800 feet south of the present plaza.

The new plaza "could be expanded later to handle traffic capacity for a second deck," reported Gen. Mgr. James Adam.

He also said that the district will have to spend more than $100,000 to buy about 11 acres from the Presidio of San Francisco to widen the plaza.

Ammann and Whitney's proposal was referred to the "committee of the whole." No date for a hearing on the proposal

Paris Strikes Ebb Despite Marchers

Holiday Mood In Effect

PARIS (AP) — Tens of thousands of students and workers, brandishing the flags of anarchy and revolution, demonstrated against President Charles de Gaulle here today and urged the millions of strikers still out in France to stand firm.

But Parisians by the scores of thousands motored away from the turmoil, as gasoline supplies returned to normal, for a long Pentecost weekend in the sunny countryside.

NEW CABINET

The newly revamped French Cabinet held its first meeting with De Gaulle and appealed for massive support for the 77-year-old chief of state and his followers in the election, set for June 23 and June 30, of a new National Assembly.

A timid back-to-work movement that set in yesterday continued.

Any major break in the strike wave still crippling the country was postponed at least until Tuesday.

Government and union negotiators, however, reached agreement on a strike settlement to get Paris buses and subways moving again after 16 days. This remained subject to approval by the striking rank and file. The package included a pay raise of 12 per cent.

The state-owned gas and electricity industries and union negotiators reached an accord reported to include wage increases of 20 per cent for the lowest paid workers and 12 per cent for those at the top.

TRAINS RUN

Some suburban trains were running in Strasbourg. They were the first to move out since strikers sidetracked all French trains in mid-May.

The National Students Union sponsored the antigovernment demonstration, staged in the Montparnasse quarter on the Left Bank of the Seine.

TEEN-AGER SAVED

Novato Brothers Dash Into Blaze

Two Novato brothers braved a raging house fire last night to rescue an 18-year-old youth trapped in an upstairs bedroom of his home at 698 Cherry Street, Novato.

The brothers, Wallace, 23, and Michael Halkovich, 21, of 205 Cherry Street, performed a "fantastic rescue," according to Novato Fire Chief George J. Cavallero.

The trapped youth, Thomas Snyder, 18, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Snyder, was saved uninjured from the fire which totally destroyed the upper story of the 75-year-old house owned by Joseph P. Hemm of Petaluma.

The youth's father attempted to rescue him from the bedroom but was driven back by the flames, Cavallero said. Snyder then ran outside, got on the roof and was attempting to get to the boy through a window when the two Halkovich brothers ran up 14 steps through "searing flames, smoke and heat" to pull the boy out, the chief reported.

The Snyders, their four other children, Mrs. Snyder's sister and her child all escaped from the home when the fire was first noticed at 7:49 p.m. firemen said.

Cause of the fire is under investigation. It caused $7,000 damage to the house and $2,000 damage to its contents. The main floor received mainly water and smoke damage, firemen said.

The Novato Fire Department had 32 men and two trucks fighting the fire for nearly two hours before it was extinguished.

Dope Raiders Report Price Is Going Up

State and local narcotics officers arrested 16 persons at two Marin County locations last night, part of a continuing series of raids which police say have boosted the price of marijuana from $75 to $90 a kilo, and tightened the county's narcotics scene.

Four persons were arrested at a San Rafael address early in the evening and 12 later in a raid at Slide Ranch, near Stinson Beach, a hippie beach house compound. In the second raid, someone inside the house threw a bolt on the door and narcotics officers took it completely off the hinges, hitting it with their shoulders.

"It had its amusing aspects," said an undercover officer for the Marin County Drug Abuse Bureau. "We could look in the window and see all these people just sitting

Assessment Roll Gain Slows, Broemmel Says

Marin County's total assessment roll for 1968-69 will rise by only about 4 per cent over the current year, the smallest increase in years, Assessor Bert W. Broemmel predicted yesterday.

Basing his forecast on incomplete information available to date, the assessor estimated that the new assessment total will be $519,900,000, as compared with this year's total valuation of $500,066,000. These figures do not include public utilities.

This 4 per cent rise, compares to an annual increase during the last decade averaging 10 to 12 per cent.

What impact will this small increase have on the county's tax rate, "frozen" at $2.30?

"That is not the problem of the assessor's office," said Broemmel. "Our sole endeavor is to produce a roll that is realistic and equitable to market conditions."

The smaller the total assessment roll, the less revenue will accrue from the same tax rate.

Here is the assessor's estimate of the percentage of increase in the assessment roll in each of the cities for 1968-69: Belvedere, 9.9 per cent; Corte Madera, 4.7; Fairfax, .4; Larkspur, 4.8; Mill Valley, 5.1; Novato, .9; Ross, 7.3; San Anselmo, .8; San Rafael, 5.1; Sausalito, 3.1; Tiburon, 14.2; unincorporated areas, 2.9.

Of the school districts, seven will face drops in total valuation, largely because of agricultural preserve agreements which dropped the valuations of large

RIOTERS IN ROME ECHO PARIS CHAOS

Students Seize Campus, Mob Burns De Gaulle Effigy Outside Embassy

ROME (AP) — The streets of Rome were littered with charred automobiles, shattered glass and dried blood today in an echo of the chaos that has rocked France.

The disorder here began with student seizure of the University of Rome yesterday and swelled into a major street riot in which demonstrators, mainly students, battled helmeted police with clubs and makeshift fire bombs.

The riot was confined to a small section near the French Embassy and was quelled in little more than an hour, but it touched off fears for more of the same as leftists in Rome followed the pattern of the rebellion in France.

The students who occupied the university put up a poster at the main entrance reading: "Rome like Paris."

The massive demonstration outside the French Embassy, which included burning President Charles de Gaulle in effigy, was spurred by the powerful Italian Communist party and by pro-Communist Socialists.

The Rome upheaval came as Italy functioned under a lame duck government after parliamentary elections which strengthened the Communists and weakened the Socialists. The Socialists were divided on whether to bolt the Center-Left coalition with the Christian Democrats. Some Socialists said the coalition had robbed the party of its progressive image. Moderate party members said a pullout could play into Communist hands and lead to the kind of crisis now convulsing France.

Heart Patient Fights To Survive In Canada

MONTREAL (UPI) — Canada's first heart transplant case was in "critical" condition today following new complications, the Montreal Institute of Cardiology announced.

Blood coagulation problems cut short a brief rallying period for 58-year-old Albert Murphy, who received the heart of a 38-year-old pregnant woman early yesterday.

The institute has previously used the word "serious" to describe Murphy's condition.

It was the second setback suffered by the onetime butcher who became the world's 18th person to undergo the surgery.

A mechanical heart has been used intermittently to boost the circulatory powers of the heart implanted in Murphy.

A 10 a.m. bulletin issued by the cardiology institute said Murphy had improved enough during the night that the mechanical heart did not have to be used for a five-hour period.

"However, blood coagulation problems have appeared and his condition remains critical," the bulletin said.

Doctors in Buenos Aires who performed the world's 19th heart transplant operation on an Argentine noodle salesman said today their patient's continued unconsciousness had them worried.

"It's a shadow over his prospects," said one doctor of Enrique Serrano, 54, who yesterday received the heart of Emilio Tomasetti, 47, head of the Argentine Poultry and Egg Union.

Despite their disappointment at Tomasetti's failure to regain consciousness doctors said their patient was "notably better neurologically" than immediately after the surgery.

Almost 6,000 miles to the north in Montreal, Canada, Albert Murphy, the world's 18th heart transplant patient, who also underwent the rare surgery Friday, was declared in a "stabilized" condition following earlier expressions of concern by surgeons who performed the four-hour operation.

Survival of Murphy and Serrano kept at nine the number of transplant patients alive in the world. They are Philip Blaiberg, 53, a South African; Joe Ferreira Da Cunha, 23, a Brazilian; Frederick West, 45, an Englishman; Rev. Jean-Marie Boulogne, a Frenchman; John Fierro, 54, Elmont, N.Y.; Everett C. Thomas, 47, Phoenix, Ariz.; and Joseph G. Klett, 54, Orange Va.

Klett was operated on in Richmond, Va., last Saturday but he was not identified until Thursday. The hospital did not identify the donor, but unofficial sources said he was Bruce O. Tucker, a 58-year-old Richmond Negro.

Japanese Open Press Parleys To Foreigners

TOKYO (UPI)—For the first time since World War II, foreign correspondents will be allowed to attend the Japanese prime minister's news conference and ask questions.

Kenneth Ishii, chairman of the foreign press in Japan, announced yesterday that the prime minister's doors have been opened to foreign newsmen accredited to the Japanese government.

Foreign newsmen have been negotiating for years for the same privileges extended to Japanese reporters in Washington, London, Paris and other world capitals.

In Japan, the prime minister's news conferences are open only to members of the Sori Kantei Kisha Kurabu (Prime Minister's Press Club). This club was composed solely of Japanese.

Two or three Americans were admitted to the club several years ago, but they were never allowed to ask questions. Then the club closed its ranks to foreigners, because of unfavorable accounts of club activities in newspapers and magazines in the United States.

One Contract Reached In Aluminum Talk

NEW YORK (AP) — The AFL-CIO United Steelworkers, which represents half of the 60,000 workers in the aluminum industry, reached agreement today with the remaining members of the industry's "Big Five."

Marathon talks continued in an effort to reach new contracts with the AFL-CIO Aluminum Workers International Union and the United Auto Workers, which represent the other half of the workers.

The Aluminum Workers International struck following a midnight contract deadline at a number of plants of the Aluminum Co. of America and the Reynolds Metal Co.

The steelworkers agreement followed the pattern of a settlement reached last night with Alcoa, which immediately announced price increases.

The agreement was described by a union spokesman as exceeding the 6.1 per cent yearly wage increase won recently in the can industry.

NUCLEAR TREATY

Changes Gaining New U.S. Support

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — A proposed treaty to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons has gained new support after its authors, the Soviet Union and the United States, changed it in line with suggestions from other U.N. members.

A 29-nation resolution to have the U.N. General Assembly commend the treaty for signature and ratification picked up three additional sponsors—New Zealand, Nigeria and Italy—after the changes were announced yesterday in the assembly's Main Political Committee.

Meanwhile, an informed diplomat said 23 Latin American delegations agreed to seek their governments' permission to cosponsor the resolution.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov and U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg explained the changes and made appeals for broad support of the treaty as the committee finished five weeks' general debate on it.

Nonnuclear countries had demanded that the treaty pledge the big powers to pursue nuclear disarmament, protect them from nuclear attack and share with them the peaceful benefits of nuclear energy, including explosions.

So the big powers put into it new commitments to refrain from the threat or use of force; to "undertake effective measures" toward nuclear disarmament; to "facilitate" the exchange of nuclear equipment, materials and information for peaceful purposes, and to sell peaceful nuclear explosions to nonnuclear countries.

Soviet Tanks Will Not Stay, Czechs Contend

PRAGUE (UPI)—Soviet tank forces took up positions in Czechoslovakia today for what officials said was preparation for Warsaw Pact maneuvers. The Ministry of Defense denied the Red army units would stay permanently.

The Czech people saw on television last night six Soviet tanks moving into a Slovak village. The TV film clip showed children welcoming the Russian force.

The defense ministry repeated its denial of rumors about an alleged permanent presence of Soviet troops in Czechoslovakia where a new liberal Communist regime has worried the Soviet Union, East Germany and Poland. The scheduled maneuvers were announced after a May visit here by Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin and Soviet Defense Minister Andrei Grechko.

A ministry spokesman refused to publicize more details of the maneuvers, "certainly not about the number of troops because secrecy is essential in the interest of our country's defense."

Yale Cleric Denies Plot With Spock

BOSTON (AP) — Yale Chaplain William Sloane Coffin Jr. has testified that he goaded the government into prosecuting him on antidraft charges, but claims he was not involved in a conspiracy with Dr. Benjamin Spock or anyone else.

"What a man must finally do," he said "is not surrender his conscience to the state. A man is responsible to God and his conscience before he is responsible to the state."

The 43-year-old minister told an all-male jury yesterday that he intended to precipitate a test case.

But under questioning by his lawyer, James St. Clair, Coffin said he did not contemplate being charged with conspiracy and did not conspire with anyone to violate the law.

Coffin and Spock, 65, are on trial in U.S. District Court with Mitchell Goodman, 44, a New York writer and teacher; Marcus Raskin, 34, a Washington research director; and Michael Ferber, 23, a graduate student at Harvard.

They are charged with conspiracy to counsel, aid and abet young men to avoid military service. If convicted, they face possible five-year prison terms and $10,000 fines.

Police said the beast was tame and had been declawed and defanged, but residents who called to report seeing it didn't know that.

Three persons at the scene said the lioness belonged to them, and a fourth caller claimed it was his. But police said the animal would remain behind bars because it was illegal to keep one inside city limits.

Terrorists Quit

BANGKOK (UPI) — A terrorist band of 50 Meo tribesmen surrendered to Thai authorities in Chiengmai province, 600 miles north of Bangkok yesterday, after they were promised an amnesty, reports said today.

The leader of the tribesmen said about 1,500 more Meo and Yao tribesmen were prepared to surrender once they were convinced that the government would not punish them for their previous activities.

There was heavy fighting in northern Thailand between government forces and the Communist-backed tribesmen from November, 1967 until the middle of May.

Beckas was arrested in his Santa Rosa home.

HOUSTON (UPI) — Miniskirts were declared unfashionable yesterday by County Clerk R. E. Bob Turrentine when he banned them from his office.

Palace Sneak Jailed

LONDON (AP) — A 25-year-old laborer arrested while trying to break into the apartment of Princess Margaret in Kensington Palace was jailed today for nine months.

Police said Kenneth Blackwell told them he had a couple of drinks and thought he was in Hyde Park. When told it was the palace grounds he replied: "I must be mad."

Canada Hippie Raid

MONTREAL (UPI) — More than 250 juveniles were arrested at two coffee houses last night on charges ranging from drug possession to "protection."

A police spokesman said some were charged under a "protectection."

The spokesman said the police could not make any of the drug Code, permitting the arrest of juveniles "for their own protion" provision in the Juvenile charges stick because "they just threw everything on the floor."

SLEEPY DRIVER, SMASHED CAR

Donald I. O'Rourke, 37, of 171 Cobblestone Drive, San Rafael, escaped injury when his 1962 Ford Thunderbird ran through a cyclone fence, ending up against a tree adjacent to Highway 101 south of the Villa Street turnoff in San Rafael shortly after midnight today, according to the California Highway Patrol. O'Rourke told Patrolmn Louis Disser, surveying wreck, he apparently fell asleep at the wheel of the car while driving home. (California worked out by McCarthy and Kennedy aides, however, the Minnesotan was disenchanted he would be unable to debate Kennedy directly.

"They're not setting up a debate," said McCarthy. "They (the candidates) are going to sit around and try to be nice to each other..."

Kennedy made no direct retort. Instead, he made it known that the show ought to be a threesome to include Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

While Kennedy said Humphrey should join the program to "insure serious discussion of the issues within the Democratic Party," McCarthy said he saw no reason for the vice president to participate. "We'll include him when the right time comes," McCarthy added.

Humphrey, who declined on grounds of other commitments, is generally favored on an uncommitted delegation on the ballot. However, he has made no open overture for support by the delegates, who originally were pledged to President Johnson before he withdrew.

Kennedy's decision to debate McCarthy reflected a go-for-broke mood that seized him after his Oregon loss earlier this week. His supporters made it clear Kennedy wants a big win in California.

With polls showing Kennedy as the front-runner, however, he has more to lose in a confrontation with McCarthy. If McCarthy is trailing, it could give him a chance to catch up or provide Kennedy an opportunity to attack the Minnesotan for alleged distortions.

In his first major attack on McCarthy yesterday, Kennedy accused the Minnesotan of "distorting the truth" in newspaper advertisements on the New Yorker's participation in the Vietnam War, Dominican Republic intervention and the Bay of Pigs invasion.

The Kennedy camp is aware, however, that the complexion of the race could be changed overnight following a debate.

shift in Hanoi's bargaining tactics. But what kind of a shift was not known.

Despite Tho's reputation as an uncompromising opponent of the West, his choice could mean that Hanoi anticipates a speeding up of the talks and a possible move to discuss the situation in South Vietnam.

Tho's greater authority as a member of the Politburo, close to President Ho Chi Minh, means that the chief delegate, Xuan Thuy, presumably can now act on most questions after consulting with Tho rather than having to wait for advice from Hanoi.

The official biography indicates that Tho is an expert on South Vietnamese affairs, having served as deputy secretary of the Central Committee's Bureau for South Vietnam during the war against the French which ended in 1954.

WAR

44 North Vietnamese troops, an unusually large number. Five American troops were wounded in the fighting. South Vietnam troop losses in the fight were "light," spokesmen said.

In the air war, U.S. jet bombers flew 95 missions yesterday against North Vietnam's southern panhandle supply lines, hitting six bridges, five trucks, three warehouses and other targets. In South Vietnam B52 Stratofortresses bombed red posts in the central highlands in 11 missions, trying to break up a threatened North Vietnamese offensive threat.

The engineering firm also is the prime contractor in the first complete inspection of the bridge since it opened 31 years ago. The cost of that contract originally was $275,000, but bridge district directors yesterday authorized Ammann and Whitney to subcontract repairs of rusted suspension cables for $320,000, or $177,000 more than estimated in the original contract.

Ammann and Whitney also raised engineering costs from $132,000 to $140,000, hiking the total cost to the district for the inspection and repairs to $460,000.

Adam had indicated at the directors' May 10 meeting that the $140,000 would be in addition to the original $275,000 contract, but apologized yesterday for his error.

The directors voted 9-4 to authorize the subcontract.

Among the dissenters from the vote was director John E. Dearman of San Francisco. He asked if he would be personally liable if a taxpayer's suit were filed against the district on the ground that the subcontract should have been put out to competitive bid.

The district's attorney, Jerome B. White, said the directors would not be liable in such a case. He previously advised them that Ammann and Whitney's contract with the district allowed the firm to choose the subcontractor without competitive bidding.

RAID

there on a couple of couches, waiting for us, while we hit the front door."

The undercover man said he had made narcotics buys at both the San Rafael and beach locations. He said the price he has to pay for marijuana has jumped from $75 to $90 since a big February sweep, when 67 persons were arrested. A Larkspur-San Rafael raid last week netted 14 arrests.

The drug abuse officer said most of last night's drug confiscations were marijuana, but there were small quantities of other narcotics taken —opium, LSD and methedrine.

He said undercover agents have been coming across an increasing quantity of mescaline (peyote) during incursions into the drug scene the past two months in Marin County. He said some drug users are mixing "speed" and mescaline, for a very fast mescaline trip—in the same manner that cocaine is used as a booster for a fast heroin trip.

Arrested in a raid at 109 Clorinda Avenue, San Rafael, early in the evening were Robert John Miller, 22, booked on suspicion of sale or transportation of drugs; Nora Maria Wicor, 19, same address, suspicion of possession and sale and transportation of marijuana; Robert S. Jones, 21, of 870 Estancia Way, San Rafael, suspicion of possession of marijuana and being in a place where narcotics are being used, and Timothy L. Groeppner, 20, possession of marijuana and being in a place where narcotics are being used.

Those taken in the more extensive raid at Slide Ranch were:

Martin C. Christians, 20, 139 Paseo Way, Greenbrae, suspicion of possession and sale of marijuana and possession of marijuana; Louise K. Foerster, 23, Miracle Hot Springs, Kern County, suspicion of being in a place where narcotics are being used; Pauline R. Stamberger, 27, of 519 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, suspicion of possession of dangerous drugs; Paul S. Gladman, 21, 3321 Rubin Drive, Oakland, suspicion of being in a place where narcotics are used.

Robert D. Patterson, 23, Box 398, Stinson Beach, suspicion of being in a place where narcotics are being used; Gilbert B. Foerster, 22, Miracle Hot Springs, suspicion of possession of marijuana; Robert L. Leoni, 22, Star Route, Sausalito, suspicion of possession of marijuana; Kenneth William Sherfey, 24, Box 297, Stinson Beach, suspicion of being in a place where marijuana is being used; Donald F. Simon, 24, Star Route, Sausalito, suspicion of possession of marijuana; James W. Crowther, 25, 12 Cedar Avenue, Kentfield, suspicion of possession of marijuana, and John Michael Brown, 22, of 6 Fernhill, Ross, suspicion of possession of dangerous drugs.

Craig J. Lieber, 22, of San Francisco, who, police said, took a swing at a state narcotics officer at Slide Ranch, was charged with resisting arrest.

The drug abuse bureau officer said Christiansen, of Slide Ranch, was not taken at the ranch, but showed up at the Marin County Sheriff's Office with three girls an hour later and declared he intended to bail out the other people.

A pipe, with some marijuana in it, was found on him, said police, and $1,130, which police confiscated. Christiansen and Miller, arrested in San Rafael, were the two for whom police had warrants charging them with being sellers.

Reds Close City

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Black Sea port and resort city of Odessa has been temporarily closed to foreigners, authoritative sources said today.

An American newsman who was booked to fly to Odessa today to board a ship for Istanbul was told officially "Odessa is closed."

No reason was given.

Assistant Coroner Eugene R. Fontaine reported she had suffered emphysema in the past.

Mrs. Lee was a native of China and had resided in Marin County since coming to America 40 years ago.

Survivors include her husband, Tong Lee, and several sons and daughters.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Cathay's Funeral Home in San Francisco.

Sub Searchers Have No News

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI)—The mammoth sea hunt for the nuclear submarine Scorpion extended to underwater mountains near the Azores today but failed to uncover a trace of the ship and 99-man crew.

As the most extensive search in naval history entered its sixth day, officials acknowledged prospects for recovering the men were growing increasingly doubtful.

"There are no significant contacts now under investigation anywhere," a Navy spokesman said. "The search continues."

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Seven Good Reasons Why Not To Sniff Glue Or "Pop The Bag"

DEAR HELEN:

I've got a real weird problem. I'm getting hung on glue sniffing — otherwise known as PTB (popping the bag.) I want to quit but can't.

My crowd and I started doing it just to see why the kooks get their kicks out of it. We found out it makes you feel kind of crazy like.

We don't think it is hurting us but want to know for sure. One girl gets headaches about an hour afterwards and another gets a sharp pain in her head. A guy goes sort of paranoid. I'm kinda dumb afterwards. I can't think and feel like a vegetable.

Would you please tell us what harm there is in it? I read somewhere that they've taken out the stuff from airplane glue that ruins your liver and kidneys. — WORRIED P.T.B.

DEAR WORRIED:

Don't be too sure about that. There are many kinds of glue. While most are quite safe when used as intended, they can still be deadly dangerous to kids who pop the bag. Here's how:

1. Possible delayed liver and kidney damage — and this is permanent.

2. Threat of mental deterioration. Those headaches and feeling like a vegetable are warnings.

3. Decrease in white blood cell count, which leaves you open for infections. While laws governing the manufacture of glue have tightened, don't ever kid yourself that intensive inhalation, via PTB, isn't harmful.

4. Asphixiation. If you pass out with a plastic bag over your face, you may be out for good.

5. Caught while under the influence, you face a misdemeanor charge at juvy. (This is the law in your state — California.)

6. If you think you are hung on glue sniffing, then you've got a psychological problem and need professional help. Otherwise, you may go on to illegal drugs that put you even farther out of touch with the world. Anyone who repeatedly risks his health and future for a high is afraid of reality. He may end up as a real psycho.

7. As with marijuana, PTB usually slows down physical action while disorienting the mind. But its effects are unpredictable. You may go paranoid, psychotic — get the feeling you can risk anything — all of which might lead to the morgue.

If these reasons don't persuade you to kick the bag then re-read Answer Number 6 and make an appointment with a doctor! — H.

DEAR HELEN:

You said transcendental meditation was over your head. That reminds me of Alan King's remark: transcend means going above and dental has something to do with teeth. So a guru is talking over your head while putting the bite on you. N'est pas?

— IT IS WRITTEN

DEAR HELEN:

We hope the war will soon be over, but we know the men will be in Vietnam a long time. Our club would like to send useful gifts as well as letters. How can we go about it, if we don't know the guys personally? — MARNYA

DEAR MARNYA:

Vietnam Mail Call, a non-profit organization, has worked up two standard, inexpensive, gift packages which clubs and individuals may send to servicemen at below cost.

For further information, send a stamped, self-added envelope, marked "Gift Package Information" to VIETNAM MAIL CALL, BOX 3104-A, COLUMBUS, GA., 31903—H.

Sleeveless Season A Problem?

By EUNICE FARMER

DEAR EUNICE,

With the sleeveless season in full swing, I am making clothes for the girls in my family as well as myself. Would you please publish the instructions for finishing the facings when the armhole and neck facings are cut in one. I kept the last set of instructions as you suggested, read them faithfully and they have become completely destroyed with tears!

MRS. B. R.

DEAR MRS. B. R.:

Besides giving me a good laugh, your sincerity certainly rates a rerun of this very popular technique. I would suggest that all of you cut this out and save it for the time you will be working on a garment with a one piece facing. It's best not to try to figure these instructions out while reading the column, instead save them and follow them step-by-step in an actual application.

Join the underarm seams of the facings as well as the garment itself, press open. Pin the facing to the garment at underarm, front and back neck edges, but end your pins two inches from the shoulders at all points. (They haven't been stitched). In order to keep the facing from peeking out from the sides of the shoulders and neck edges, pin from the garment side, bringing the cut edges of the straps back ⅛-inch from the cut edges of the facing. This will actually make the garment area a little puffy within the seams of the straps. Your seam allowance for machine stitching would be measured from the facing side. Be sure to end your machine stitching two inches from all the shoulder points, and secure stitches.

Next, grade your seams, keeping the facing seam slightly shorter than the garment seam. Clip all the curved areas carefully all the way to the stitching line.

You are now ready to turn the front straps right side out. It's best to work with one side at a time to avoid confusion. Fold your garment together so that the right side of the bodice front is touching the right side of the bodice back. Slip the turned front strap up into the unturned back strap, and you will find to your amazement that the two right sides of the shoulder are touching each other as well as the two right sides of the facing. Machine stitch the shoulder seam of the garment first, on the ⅝-inch seamline. Press seam open. Next machine stitch the facing seam at the shoulder, taking a ¾-inch seam, and press open.

You are now ready to machine stitch the area across the shoulders that you left open at the beginning. Just simply pull out the shoulder strap a little further until you can see just how to connect the seam that was left unstitched (about 3 inches). Don't forget to again hold the garment back ⅛-inch from the edge of the facing. After you have machine stitched both sides of the strap through the shoulder area, trim seams and pull through to the right side. It's just like magic with a beautiful neckline every time. If you've struggled with this before, it will seem like a dream come true. Complete the facings by understitching at the neckline and the underarm just as far as it is possible to go. It isn't necessary through the strap area since you have already provided for extra fabric on the right side to prevent the facing from showing.

DEAR MISS FARMER,

I am an avid reader of your sewing column and have learned so much from other women's problems. Keep up the good work. My problem is that I am much shorter in the back than I am in the front. I was taught to shorten the back 1-inch and taper to nothing at the sides, but when I do this, it throws the pattern off. If I shorten the back bodice 1-inch, my two sides from top to bottom are shorter and the hip notches don't meet. Please tell me the correct way to alter the pattern.

MRS. A. T. C.

DEAR MRS. A. T. C.:

You unfortunately didn't give me your measurements, so I will have to assume that you have a larger size bust than the usual pattern allowance. All of us are slightly longer in the front than the back, and that is why there is a side dart opposite the bust.

I would suggest you shorten the back from side to side the same amount. In order to make the side seams come out even, make the underarm dart that much deeper. This should also give you a much better fit at the side seams.

DEAR EUNICE FARMER,

I have seen the most beautiful heavy crepe that almost resembles a dull satin. It is washable, 100 per cent polyester and comes in glorious colors. The only thing that concerns me is that I notice on the label that it comes from Japan and since your article about Japanese raw silk and the terrible odor, I am afraid to buy this lovely new fabric. Would it be the same or can I have enough confidence in it to try it? MRS. S. S.

DEAR MRS. S. S.:

I am familiar with the fabric you are speaking about, and it is the most beautiful new fabric to be produced in many years. It is also completely washable and requires no ironing at all. It's perfect for easy-to-care-for garments. The label does say it is made in Japan, but since it is 100 per cent polyester yarn, it wouldn't have the same effects as the silk and consequently, there is no unpleasant odor at all. It is perfect for blouses as well as dresses. Try it, you'll love it because it looks like silk and feels like silk.

ON THE AGENDA

Lawyers' Wives Plan Luncheon To Benefit Legal Aid Society

Lawyers' Wives of Marin feel a close association with the Legal Aid offices as their organization has contributed funds to the society since the inception of both groups.

The Legal Aid Society has been operating in Marin over twelve years maintaining itself on funds from United Crusade, the Marin County Bar Association and the Lawyer Referal program. Members of the Bar Association are also called upon to contribute their time in counselling and representation for clients who are eligible for assistance. Federal aid to the Marin program had been in the offing for several years; however, Legal Aid Society president, John Bernt, has stated that as of now Marin does not qualify for government assistance.

Lawyers' Wives of Marin was organized in 1955 with a dozen members. This year the legal wives, whose numbers now pass the 100 mark, have planned a bridge luncheon as a means of adding to the Legal Aid budget. Chairman of the event, Mrs. Donald McCaw, has announced that eight homes will be open for luncheon and bridge commencing at noon Thursday.

Hostessing will be Mrs. N. Charles Brusatori of Fairhills with her co-hostess, Mrs. Salvatore Bossio; Mrs. Robert Carpenter of Greenbrae with co-hostess Mrs. Charles Convis; Mrs. Roger Garety of Greenbrae with co-hostess Mrs. Colin Claxon; Mrs. Harold Haley of Peacock Gap with co-hostess Mrs. John Buresh; Mrs. William MacKay of Kentwoodlands with co-hostess Mrs. Jay Jackson; Mrs. Aaron Rucker of Kentfield with co-hostess Mrs. Donald McCaw; Mrs. Francis Walsh of Kentwoodlands with co-hostess Mrs. Robert Huber; and Mrs. Richard Williams of Kentwoodlands with co-hostess Mrs. Arthur Bailey. Other committee members are Mesdames Thomas Keating, reservations and Lloyd Postel, Richard Williams, Sterling Hilen, Westerdahl Gudmundson, Henry Casey and James Mayer, luncheon arrangements.

Proceeds from the benefit will be presented to Joseph Forest, president of the Legal Aid Society, at the June meeting of Lawyers' Wives. Liaison officer for Lawyers' Wives with Legal Aid is Mrs. Melvin Stidham.

THE WOMEN of the Sausalito Yacht Club are having a noon luncheon Wednesday.

The pre-luncheon get togethers will be held at 11 a.m. for members. Those who live north of Sausalito will gather at the home of Mrs. James M. Doody, 259 Richardson Drive, Strawberry, and those who live south of Sausalito will meet at the home of Mrs. Betty Rogers, 106 Bridgeway, Sausalito.

A short brain storming session will be held to collect ideas to rejuvenate the club.

THE SISTERHOOD of Congregation Rodef Sholom will have its annual installation of officers Thursday at noon in the sanctuary of the temple.

New officers are Mesdames Aaron Schwartz, president; Paul Winton, first vice president; Fred Kirschner, second vice president; Herschel Lurie, third vice president; Herbert Heller, recording secretary; Joseph Dienstag, financial secretary; Chester Sipkin, treasurer; Marshall Peal, corresponding secretary; and Albert Budde, parliamentarian.

A champagne hour will be held in the social hall immediately after the installation. Committee chairmen will submit reports following a buffet luncheon.

BETHEL 246 of the International Order of Job's Daughters of Larkspur will hold the annual kick-off night Tuesday at the Masonic Temple. The 6 o'clock pizza dinner will precede a 7 p.m. meeting.

Honored queen, Janine Nielson will preside. Co-chairmen are Kareen and Judy Bauman.

MRS. JEROME Downs will represent the League of Women Voters of Southern Marin on a panel which will also include members of the Central San Mateo, Oakland and Hayward Leagues.

An educational forum to be telecast over Channel 2, KTVU tomorrow at 9:30 a.m.; it will include the topics of election procedures, the choosing of delegates and the state propositions. Moderator will be Ray Jacobs. The Leagues of Women Voters panel representatives will be experts from their respective Voters Service Committees.

MRS. ANDREW Schwighofer will be installed grand regent by Court St. Raphael 1416, Catholic Daughters of America, Tuesday at 8 p.m. at St. Raphael's Hall, San Rafael. Other new officers to be installd are Mesdames Charles Wettstein, vice grand regent; Robert Pidcock, prophetess; Henry Augusto, financial secretary; Irving Hobbs, historian; Joseph Nevi, treasurer; William Webb, monitor; Mike Cummisky, sentinel; Irving Chapman, lecturer; A. J. Matkovich, organist; and Kerry Fitch, Margaret Schwager, Jenne Becker, Chris Muzinich and Miss Maria Villareal, trustees.

THE ADULT Education students at Novato High School will have a public fashion show at 8 p.m. on June 5 in the lecture hall at Novato High School.

Models participating in the fashion show will be students of the past school year of Mrs. Marette Poehlman, sewing instructor; Mrs. Joan Derbyshire, millinery and accessories; and Mrs. Sylvia Campbell, knitting and needlecrafts instructor.

Live background music will be provided by the students of organ instructor, Mrs. Norma Porter and during the intermission, the Woman's Choral Group, directed by Mrs. William Wilson and Mrs. Ludford Elvy as accompanist will perform several choral selections.

The purpose of this show is to exhibit the accomplishments of the students and to inform the community of the many available offerings of the Novato Adult Education Program.

The unusual feature of this show is that every item displayed or modeled is made by hand during the school year. Most items shown are highly individual and include articles for children, women and men.

In each classs, stress is made on individuality, originality, economy and stylishness, as well as the basic skills involved.

Mrs. Stevens Heads P-TA

The San Jose Junior High School Parent-Teacher Association has elected Mrs. Ernest Stevens president for the 1968-69 year.

The new president says she and her husband, a staff technical assistant at Stanford University, have lived in Marin County "on and off" since 1953. They have five children, Mike 16, Steve 14, Cass 12, Scott 8, and Kaydee, 7 years old.

Kay Stevens has an honorary life membership in the P-TA, has served as secreatary of the Novato Little League and as district 3 representative for Auxiliaries of Little League, Inc.

"I enjoy above all, my four sons and daughter and husband" says Kay "and next would be baseball, sewing and animals."

Other San Jose Junior High School P-TA officers are Mrs. Willis Spitzer, first vice president; Mrs. Jack Caruso, second vice president; Mrs. John Ahlers, secretary; Mrs. Donald Estler, treasurer; Mrs. James Cermak, historian; Fred Loback, auditor; and Mrs. Stuart Juiffre, parliamentarian.

Nostalgia On Wheels: The Super Skunk

RECENT WARM WEATHER has turned thoughts to vacation time.

Some of us are so lucky as to be able to sneak away for a few days for a kind of vacation preview.

It is hard to imagine a more delightful place for this than the Mendocino coast.

The No. 1 tourist attraction there is now the Skunk train operated by California Western Railroad, a subsidiary of Union Lumber Co.

Oldtimers remember the Skunk as a smelly, oversized bus on rail wheels. It was hot, stuffy, uncomfortable. Its diesel engine made it odoriferous, whence came its name.

It whistled a friendly greeting as it passed isolated settlements in the woods. It stopped to deliver groceries, mail and a passenger or two to an occasional hamlet.

Inevitably, tourists found it.

It was overrun.

Cal. Western located a turn-of-the-century model steam locomotive and matching chair cars.

THUS, THE SUPER SKUNK was born in 1965.

Now it is hauling passengers by the thousands each season. The 1968 season began not long ago and, of course, a press party was aboard.

You find the Super Skunk waiting at the station on platform at the appointed time in the Union Lumber yard in Fort Bragg.

The train crew is dressed in old-time costume appropriate to the age of the train. There's a peddler aboard, hawking candy and chewing gum.

But something new has been added. There are mini-skirted stewardesses. The train is equipped with a P.A. system, like the trains in Disneyland. As you travel the 40-mile route up and over to Willits, you get a running commentary on the history of the railroad and the natural history of the route.

Unlike Disneyland, it is NOT make-believe. It is real.

There are a few other concessions to modernity. The ancient sticking wood framed windows characteristic of yesterday's trains have been replaced with metal framed ones that don't stick. That bit seems more make-believe than real.

WHEN THE TRAIN STARTS you are reminded of things you haven't thought of for a long time.

Train tracks always carry you through the "wrong" end of town.

Trains start and stop with a jerk that will nearly knock you off your feet if you aren't safely seated.

The Super Skunk is not air conditioned. As you leave Fort Bragg's cool, damp coastal climate and climb into hot interior valleys, you recall that trains in the summer were always hot and stuffy. Dust comes in through open windows, as does smoke from the locomotive.

If you day-dream a bit, you can imagine that a century ago when railroads were replacing horse-drawn stage coaches, many must have lamented the change. You can recall how coast-wise passenger steamers were superceded little more than a generation ago and their passing was sadly lamented.

ABOUT MIDWAY BETWEEN Fort Bragg and Willits the Super Skunk makes an extended stop for water for the locomotive boiler.

Passengers may leave the train and stroll briefly in the woods along the track. Because there few non-recreational passengers on the Super Skunk, almost everybody emerges with camera.

It must be the most photographed train on earth.

If you ever grow nostalgic about the good old days when you could travel by train, your nostalgia may be relieved by a ride on the Super Skunk.

Raw Rice Not Good For Birds

A little raw rice on the feeding tray won't hurt the birds, but it is not desirable as their regular food. The reason is that when raw rice is mixed with the liquids in the birds' digestive system it swells to about three times its raw size. If a bird is a bit gluttonous (and most birds are) it will become quite distended.

On the other hand, in parts of Southeast Asia housewives cook a tiny portion of their daily rice to share with their friends, the birds. Birds enjoy cooked rice once they are accustomed to it.

One Marin Chinese woman we know does likewise and reports Marin's birds are rice-eaters.

Bouquests And Brickbats

BOUQUETS to San Rafael High School students who staged a mock Republican convention Wednesday at the school that so nearly approximated the real thing it was sometimes hard to remember these were merely high school students playing make-believe — and to the teachers who assisted.

BRICKBATS to those campaigners who insult potential voters who disagree with them, even after knocking on the door and being courteously admitted to homes.

BOUQUETS to Marin County Boy Scouts who showed their skills in last Sunday's successful Scout-o-Rama at Forest Meadows.

HUNGER CURE THROUGH NUCLEAR POWER

How many people can the earth feed? With the help of nuclear-generated electricity, some nine billion persons could be supported at the United States standard of living, or 40 billion at subsistance level.

This is the estimate of Doctor Harrison Brown, foreign secretary of the National Academy of Sciences.

Speaking at the University of Michigan, Dr. Brown maintained nuclear power could make it possible to build cities in arid coastal regions and supply them with desalted water.

These city areas, or "agro-industrial complexes," would be totally run by nuclear-generated electricity and would have highly mechanized agriculture.

"Such a development," he said, "would open up vast areas of India, Pakistan, the Middle East, and North Africa, Brazil, Chile and Peru for human habitation."

Scientists are continually opening new doors. Many of them spell great hope for the future.

Pray that the experts continue to discover practical, long-range remedies for world hunger.

"Be attentive that you may gain insight; for I give you good precepts; do not forsake my teaching." (Proverbs 4:1)

Thanks to You, bountiful Creator, for providing all the food resources needed to feed mankind.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

June 1, 1958

Marin posted an excellent traffic record for the Memorial Day weekend, with no traffic fatality and no serious injury.

A giant weather balloon, one of the largest ever launched, startled Marin residents as it moved northwestward over the Bay Area after being released from an Air Force laboratory at Vernalis, near Modesto.

20 YEARS AGO

June 1, 1948

T. Fred Bagshaw, Third District supervisor, defeated four challengers in the primary vote, while William D. Fusselman, Second District supervisor, was forced into a runoff with Raymond H. Shone.

San Rafael voters gave 4-1 approval to a $950,000 bond issue to construct a sewage treatment plant for the city and outlying areas in the San Rafael Sanitation District.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Tribute To Very Special Person

Editor, Independent-Journal:

After reading the obituaries in the Indepenednt-Journal of Monday, May 27, 1968, I am moved to write you in connection with one in particular, concerning Mildred Lee.

Every once in a while there is somebody special who dies and leaves a legacy to all of us that deserves recognition. Mildren Lee was such a person. Having had her as a member of our family for more than 10 years, I think I can speak with authority when I say that she was a shining example of what people should be to their neighbors, and indeed to all who knew her. I have never known her to be anything but cheerful and happy, provided she was doing something for someone else. This extended far beyond the limits of her family, fourteen in all, of whom six are still at home.

One boy, James Cook, age 14, received the Marin City Teen Boy of the Year award from the Southern Marin Boys' Club, as noted in your issue of April 10. Another son, Stephen Lee, received three trophies also from the Boys' Club — for good sportsmanship, pool, and for basketball. There is another son, Ronald, and three girls, Diane, Kathy, and Judy, at home. Not to mention her mother, Clara Simpson, who really kept the family running while Mildred earned the where-with-all to rent the house and to feed and bring up her family.

But this was not enough for Mildred. She was connected with most of the organizations in Marin City, and helped the Reverend Samuel Banks in his successful attempt to build a new church, only recently completed. During the years she helped many families besides ours, and had many friends, almost too numerous to mention . . .

Warren Report Stand Clarified

Editor, Independent-Journal:

Many thanks for your fair coverage during my campaign for the Democratic nemination in the Sixth Congressional District. However, I would like to correct a misimpression left by your editorial of last Wednesday. I do indeed wholeheartedly support Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison of New Orleans in his investigation of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. For the past year I have worked closely with him, and find him to be one of the most dedicated and courageous Americans I have ever met.

The point is that I am not asking the voters of the Sixth District to accept or reject Mr. Garrison and his case; I have stated this repeatedly. I am asking them to support my endeavor to bring about a joint Senate-House investigation of the assassination. The polls show that an overwhelming majority of Americans do not believe the Warren Report. The other night on national television Sen. Eugene McCarthy said that this is the reaction he has noticed in his nationwide campaign. It is the reaction I have noticed in the Sixth District among the "little people."

Is the name of the game to be power — or truth? That is the issue.

Bay Fill Measure Given 'Fast Shuffle' By Unruh

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Legislation to endorse motherhood could run into trouble in Sacramento, given the right set of personalties.

There simply is no necessary connection between the merits of a bill and how it fares.

The example at hand is not to endorse motherhood, but is to do something almost as good — to prevent open season on filling of San Francisco Bay. A loophole in the law that created the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission apparently would allow filing to begin next January, and Sen. George Miller Jr., D-Martinez, has introduced a bill (SB 231) to close the loophole and give the 1969 legislature time to enact new fill controls.

HIS BILL passed the Senate, and then went for committee assignment to Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh, D-Los Angeles. Every bay fill bill in recent memory has gone to the Assembly Municipal and County Government Committee, but not Miller's bill. Instead, it was assigned to Unruh last week to the government committee, which he controls.

Two reasons have been suggested for Unruh's move. The first, and most likely, is that Unruh simply wanted to insult Miller, with whom he has been on bad terms for some time. The chairman of the municipal and county government committee, John T. Knox, R-Richmond, is a protege of Miller, and by robbing Knox of his power over a Miller bill, Unruh angered both men.

"I'm very upset with the speaker," Knox told this reporter this week, "and I've told him so."

The other possible reason for Unruh's move is that the City of Emeryville, which opposes the bill, managed to convince someone to put it in a committee where the city has a better chance of getting an exemption from the bill.

No hearing has been set yet on Miller's bill by the committee.

UNRUH, INCIDENTALLY, is reported to be uneasily eyeing a possibe contender for the governor's seat — a job that Unruh desperately wants in 1970.

The man in Unruh's eye is San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto, who apparently has more political sex appeal than any other possible candidate today.

Alioto's burden would be that he is not well known in Southern California, where Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty could still be around to disrupt his party's hope to regain the governor's seat.

VICE PRESIDENT Hubert Humphrey is going to get the Democratic presidential nomination.

This was the prediction Tuesday evening by a high-level member of the slate of delegates pledged to Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. He made his prediction about an hour before the Oregon polls closed.

Whether He Wins Or Loses, McCarthy Has Remade Politics

SAN FRANCISCO — Even before the crucial California primary, one sure verdict can be rendered.

Whatever Eugene McCarthy's political future, American politics will not be the same because of him.

He has already shaped the climate of the pre-convention campaign and may well have determined the Democratic nominee.

IT SEEMS EVIDENT that more than anyone else:

McCarthy generated the tide of voter opinion that influenced the president to withdraw.

His willingness and success in challenging LBJ in New Hampshire propelled Sen. Robert Kennedy into the race after he had said that he could "foresee no circumstances" which would cause him to enter it.

He has kept Bobby on the defensive with the result that Kennedy is emerging as a weakened candidate and McCarthy could be the decisive factor that tilts the decision to Vice President Hubert Humphrey.

It has been confirmed that McCarthy did tell reporters that if he can't get the nomination himself, he would back Humphrey over Kennedy.

THIS IS ONLY a part of it. In the judgment of one of his top California organizers, McCarthy's impact on Politics U.S.A., 1968, is far greater than can be measured in delegates.

"Whether or not Gene is nominated, we've won already," he said — and he meant it. This is what he meant:

1.—McCarthy has taken the issue of Vietnam to the people at the highest level of national debate and forced a dialogue among all the presidential candidates. This was not only good for McCarthy politically, it was good for the country emotionaly. It greatly reduced frustrations by providindg the assurance that Vietnam policy be settled not alone in the White House but by open public debate. It was like opening the windows of an overheated room.

2.—McCarthy's candidacy, his centering his campaign on Vietnam and his significant success in New Hampshire — these things together — undoubtedly constituted a factor in persuading Johnson to make another bid to Hanoi to enter peace talks.

I DO NOT LOOK on the president's peace initiative as a reversal of past policy or departure from it. More than two years ago he had offered Hanoi an even greater inducement to negotiate — a 37-day total cessation of bombing before he gave up hope that North Vietnam would respond. But is clear that the mounting demand in the U.S. — in which McCarthy played a considerable part — caused the president to try again and to accompany his actions with an announcement which showed that it had no personal, political motive. Thus McCarthy and his supporters are understandably convinced that he had a vital role in helping to move Vietnam to the conference table.

3.—Finally, this man McCarthy, himself a former college professor and unashamed egghead, has brought thousands of once alienated college and high school students back into the mainstream of American politics. Gene attracts the students to a new form of activism; they are ready to do anything to help further the McCarthy cause. They are finding that using the democratic process is better than trying to destroy it. Even if McCarthy doesn't make it, I doubt if they will withdraw from society.

McCARTHY IS setting a high standard of political campaigning. It's refreshing. His calm, conversational style enhances his credibility. He doesn't tailor his speeches to his audiences; almost the opposite; he aims to persuade the unconvinced, as when he outlined his liberal welfare program to the conservative Commonwealth Club of San Francisco.

McCarthy's stature has been lifted greatly in recent months and, if his future is to be only that of senator, his will be a powerful voice.

A SENATOR'S NOTEBOOK

Grass-Roots Masquerade By Votaries Of Terror

By EVERETT McKINLEY DIRKSEN

I want to expose to you an example of some of the terrible stuff that comes to us in Congress from little organizations that attempt to chip away at the greatness of our freedom. It is a folder of hate and deceit that comes to Washington out of the west.

The theme of the "message" in the folder is one of hate because it proposes terrible things like concentration camps for militant Americans and and work camps for so-called lazy Americans. The theme is also one of deceit because it purports to reflect the mood of the grass roots of our population and because it ties hateful ideas to the most welcome cry of the century — "reduce taxes!"

THIS FOLDER bears no names of officers, directors or even members of the organization. I will not give assistance to it by naming it.

Its front-page tite — or blurb — screams out: "This is what the people want! Based on a meticulous survey in the grass roots." Inside, it sets forth 49 items of demand that send the chils down your back. The items are listed in highly extreme, very racist and quite illogical language. Here are some of the less explosive demands made by the little organization that pretends to speak out for the grass roots, but which, of course, obviously does not:

"Impeach the Supreme Court — people must not rest until this treasonable oligarchy has been curbed!"

Is that what the people want? I think not. Americans are not so foolish in these trying times. They may want change but they also want continuity of law and order.

"Reduce taxes through honest economies!"
related to it.

This folder of so-called "people's demands" calls for trained, expert military units that can be made available to all communities to suppress criminal riots and anarchy. It is a sort of backlash idea that may appeal to some, but it would be bound to end up in suppression. Besides, who would pay for it? It would be no way to reduce taxes.

HERE'S AN AWFUL suggestion the folder makes: "Establish work camps for lazy, irresponsible, undisciplined persons!"

Who shall determine who is lazy or undisciplined or irresponsible? Who would be the Hitler to boss the job?

"Declare martial law in at least 20 of our jungle-ized cities!" the demand continues.

Who shall declare martial law and, indeed, on what grounds? Certainly not the federal government.

This one is frightening in concept: "Enlarge our prison complexes into great outdoor encampments for disciplinary action!"

Who would want concentration camps in America?

THERE YOU HAVE a prime example of racist propaganda that would tear us apart even more than we are torn today.

Nobody in his right mind could believe this stuff that comes out of a hole in somebody's head as an expression of the people, the "grass roots." Yet, it is only one small example of the terrible proposals that are made to congressmen, that try to convince us that Americans are not, after all, freedom-loving, sane people.

No Write-In Votes Legal For Marin

No write-in votes for candidates not on the ballots Tuesday will be counted, the county elections department said yesterday.

Under a new state law, write-in candidates must file notice of their candidacy in each county in which they want their votes counted, and must pay the regular filing fee for the office they seek. Both must be done at least five days before election.

One man attempted to file a notice of his write-in candidacy before the deadline Thursday, but his notice was not accepted because he did not pay the filing fee, the elections department reported.

Larkspur Expects Slightly Less Budget, No Tax Change

The Larkspur City Council will begin Monday to consider a proposed 1968-69 budget which would be about 1.7 per cent lower than this year's budget but which would leave the tax rate at the current $1.90 per $100 assessed valuation.

The budget being proposed by City Manager Kent B. Bathurst toals $838,629 as compared to this year's budget of $853,204.

Larkspur includes in its $1.90 tax rate a sanitary department which services most of the city. Residents who are in another sanitary district pay a $1.24 tax rate to the city.

Larkspur's neighbor, Corte Madera, this year had a tax rate of $.99 but residents also paid an 88.5-cent tax to the Corte Madera Sanitary District, over which the Corte Madera Town Council has no control.

If the budget proposed is adopted by the Larkspur Council, which will hold hearings at 8 p.m. Monday and Tuesday in the city hall, Larkspur employees will receive raises.

Robert C. Bundy, who serves as treasurer, administrator's assistant and director of recreation for Larkspur, said that the increases are 10 per cent for department heads and officers and 7.5 per cent for other employees.

Offsetting these increases are big drops in the amounts budgeted for drainage and sewer projects. Bundy said that the decline from the $33,865 budget this year for drainage to $17,952 proposed for next year represents a more normal figure, since last year Larkspur had several drainage troubles.

Capital outlay for sewage is slated to be cut about in half, from $122,661, to $72,094. This year the city put in new force mains across Corte Madera Creek.

Proposed budget figures for the various departments for 1968-69 (with the 1967-68 figures in parentheses) are:

General government $135,871 ($114,998); public safety $294,635 ($238,206); street department $291,592 ($305,785); park and recreation $13,265 ($12,943); library $31,172 ($26,132); sanitary department $72,094 ($155,205).

The lowest body of water in the Western Hemisphere, Badwater Pool, lies 280 feet below sea level in Death Valley, Calif.

Pacific Sun

Sun endorses Arrigoni in the 2nd

(Re-printed from May 24, 1968)

IF YOU were marooned on a desert island, Ernest Kettenhofen would probably be a good man to have along. He is inventive, energetic and gregarious.

On June 4 there will be an election in Marin's Second District, not for a desert island companion but for supervisor. That being the issue, The Sun endorses Kettenhofen's opponent, Peter Arrigoni.

Many people, including influential early Kettenhofen backers . . . encouraged Fairfax Councilman Peter Arrigoni to seek Kettenhofen's seat and have backed him strongly. Why the disenchantment with Kettenhofen?

STRONG DISTINCTION

Because his votes and actions, as opposed to his statements, have added up in a funny way. A strong distinction must be made between Kettenhofen's statements and his actions. Kettenhofen is a likeable chap, who wants to be liked. He is voluable and persuasive (some would say glib). Further, he has a penchant for memos and letters. The net result is that Kettenhofen has "taken a position" on every subject known to man, and few more besides. The trouble is that while Kettenhofen can produce a memo putting him in such-and-such a position, buried in the files is perhaps another memo in which he is on the opposite side of the same issue.

Kett can look you straight in the eye and say with what appears to be total sincerity that he is a "true conservationist," that he is a veteran fighter against freeways and concrete flood control ditches and that he has always been committed to a mass transit system for Marin. But his actions simply don't add up that way.

HIGHWAY 17

Two crucial issues in the Second District are Highway 17 and the flood control along Corte Madera Creek. Kettenhofen moves around so much on these issues that it is almost impossible to pin him down. Does Kettenhofen favor a freeway through the Second District? Evidence suggests that he once did but doesn't now.

This much is known: The State Division of Highways strongly favored a 70-foot interchange in San Rafael, and then a concrete swath of freeway straight up Second St., the Miracle Mile and Sir Francis Drake. Some of San Rafael's councilmen were secretly shown the plans and approved them. When the cities of San Anselmo and Fairfax got wind of the scheme, they flat rejected the idea of a freeway through their towns. That killed the idea.

Kettenhofen says he knew about the backstage maneuvers. But he made no public outcry against them. Stopping them was left to San Anselmo and Fairfax city councils.

Pretty much the same thing happened with respect to the Army Engineers and their concrete ditch through the Ross Valley. Kettenhofen watched a bad plan get started. It was modified for the better because the cities involved stood up and screamed.

On the issue of Highway 17 as part of the State freeway systems, Kettenhofen's position is particularly confusing. He has adamantly refused to support taking it out of the freeway system, and he will have another chance to do so Tuesday when the issue comes before the supervisors.

DEVELOPER PRESSURE

There is strong developer pressure to build a freeway to West Marin, opening up those lands to subdivisions. Kettenhofen says this is not the reason for his position. He says it is because by keeping Highway 17 in the freeway system, it can be built faster. Once approved, says Kettenhofen, Marin can then insist on a scenic road and not a freeway.

This strikes us as complete nonsense. A freeway is a freeway. It must be built to certain standards, with huge rights-of-way, high-speed curves and elaborate interchanges. If the State has Highway 17 in the freeway file, then that is exactly what it will be prepared to build.

Marin can't come in after approval, tap the engineers on the shoulder and tell them to spend the money on a scenic road instead. They will either build a freeway or dump the whole project.

Kettenhofen's blithe insistence that he is a conservationist looks ludicrous when set beside his actions on the West Marin Master Plan. Five days after the Board unanimously backed a density of .88 with bonuses up to 1.15, Kettenhofen reopened the whole matter. He got the density hiked to 1.15 with bonuses on top of that. When the Planning Commission then displayed some of its legal independence from the Board, Kettenhofen threatened to make them knuckle under to his way of thinking.

NOT COMFORTING

When seeking support from conservationists in months past, Kettenhofen has tried to comfort them with this statement: That if the new Board has a strong developer majority, he will act more like a conservationist to "balance" things.

We don't find this comforting. We find it confirmation of the fact that Kettenhofen can shift positions with incredible ease.

We would feel much more comfortable with Peter Arrigoni on the Board. He is against a freeway through the Second District and will work to prevent it, not wait on the sidelines to see which way the wind is blowing. He supports the BCDC, undergrounding of utilities and the preservation of the beauties of West Marin. He favors a mass transportation system and is against the Golden Gate Bridge autocracy, a group which Kettenhofen has long backed.

In sum, Arrigoni understands what Marin is all about: that there are values here which must be preserved. Kettenhofen can talk a good game, but he gets all tangled up between his pronouncements and his votes. On his record, Kett can be improved on . . . by Peter Arrigoni.

Today is Saturday, June 1, the 153rd day of 1968 with 213 to follow.

The moon is between its new phase and first quarter. The morning stars are Saturn and Venus. The evening stars are Mercury and Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1914 the siesta was abolished in Mexico.

In 1964 the U.S. Supreme Court barred prayers and bible reading in public schools.

A thought for the day: French novelist Anatole France said, "Those who have given themselves the most concern about the happiness of peoples have made their neighbors very miserable."

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Shrewd Player's Secret Is Let Opponent Make Contract Goof

It pays to know the odds, but a really shrewd bridge player will get results that elude the mathematician. His secret lies in giving the opponents a reasonable chance to drop the contract into his lap.

REFUSES TRICK

South refuses the first heart trick and wins the second. Then, with eight tricks in top cards and with reason to believe that the hearts are favorably divided, South must choose between clubs and diamonds for the ninth trick.

Some players would lead out three rounds of clubs at once. If the suit breaks 3-3, declarer gets an extra club trick.

Others would lead a spade to dummy to try a finesse with the queen or ten of diamonds. If that finesse lost, declarer could later try the other diamond finesse.

GOOD AT MATH

If you are a good mathematician and if your opponents never make a mistake, take the second heart, get to dummy with a spade and try a diamond finesse. After the opponents take their hearts, run your spades and clubs, ending in dummy. Then you must take another diamond finesse unless a squeeze has already operated in your favor.

WATCH THE DISCARDS

The really shrewd operator takes the second heart and runs the four spade tricks before he does anything else. East, with very little to guide him, must discard on the third and fourth spades.

If East discards a club, as he well may, you don't have to worry about the diamond finesses. Take the top clubs and give up a club. If East doesn't fall into this trap you still have time to take the two diamond finesses. It costs you nothing to dangle a little bait in front of East's nose as your first step.

What do you say?

ANSWER(Pass.

The hand is not quite good enough for an attempt to reach game. Let your partner play an easy hand at a part-score contract.

Actors Don't Keep Own Preachments

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — While actors clustered on the steps of the Municipal Theater here to protest federal censorship, a passerby stopped to admire a miniskirted demonstrator sitting on the top step.

A male demonstrator stepped in front of the girl to obstruct the admirer's view. The man glared, shook his head and before walking away told the actor: "And you say you are protesting censorship."

Drysdale Record Shutout Sparks Raging Rhubarb

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Don Drysdale owns one National League pitching record today, approaches another and has created the latest in the many rhubarbs between his Los Angeles Dodgers and the San Francisco Giants.

All came about as Big D blanked the traditional rivals 3-0 last night, becoming the first National League hurler to pitch five consecutive shutouts and equalling the major league record.

He needs 1⅔ more shutout innings to better the league consecutive string record of 46⅓ set by Carl Hubbell of the Giants in 1933 when both clubs were in New York.

"If he gets the records, he and (Umpire Harry) Wendelstedt can share it together," growled San Francisco Manager Herman Franks after an unusual call kept the Giants from scoring.

As tension grew before the 46,067 in Dodger Stadium, the 31-year-old Drysdale came on for the ninth inning and walked arch-rival Willie McCovey who returned to action for the first time since he was spiked on May 17.

Jim Hart slashed a single to right and Dave Marshall walked to fill the bases with no one out.

"At that time, I forgot about a shutout and worried about winning the game," admitted the right-hander. He reached a count of two strikes and two balls on catcher Dick Dietz.

Then an inside slider plunked the big receiver on the left elbow. The crowd groaned, but plate umpire Wendelstedt didn't award Dietz first base and force in a run.

Instead, ruled Wendelstedt, Dietz hadn't made any effort to get out of the way. It was merely ball three.

Dietz jumped up and down voicing displeasure. Franks charged out of the dugout and wound up ejected from the game.

The decision stood. Dietz flied to short left field, not deep enough to permit a run after the catch. Pinch hitters Ty Cline and Jack Hiatt were equally unsuccessful.

"Disgusting," fumed Franks. "That's got to be the worst call I've ever seen. He (umpire) said he (Dietz) put his arm out and let it hit him. How can he do that when it was high and inside?"

Dietz added, "I'll tell you, with that big guy out there pitching, I'm not going to put my arm out on purpose."

Drysdale said it was a slider which got away from him, adding, "I thought at first it may have hit the bat."

Los Angeles scored in the second inning on a double by Rocky Colavito and single by Bob Bailey. Another tally came in the third on a three-base error by Marshall on Willie Davis' fly plus a double by Wes Parker. Another double by Parker, a wild pitch and a sacrifice fly in the eighth wound up the scoring.

The Giants had pitcher Mike McCormick on third in the fifth when shortstop Zoilo Versalles went far back to grab Jim Davenport's short fly to end the inning. In the eighth Davis raced to the warning path to haul in another potential Davenport hit.

"Those were great plays," said Drysdale. "All through these games, I've had great support. I never thought Willie could get that ball."

As the Giants prepared to send Gaylord Perry, 6-2, against Bill Singer, 4-5, the San Francisco lead over Atlanta was just one game.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Don Drysdale of the Los Angeles Dodgers equalled the major league shutout record of five straight set by G. Harris White for the Chicago White Sox in 1904.

His record this season stands at 6-3 and all six have been shutouts.

When he notched his fourth straight whitewash, he went in with the group of National Leaguers including Sal Maglie, Bill Lee, Ed Reulbach, Grover Cleveland Alexander and Mordecai "Three Fingered" Brown.

That Was The Week That Was In Oakland

OAKLAND — Quite a week here for baseball.

It started in the rudest possible way — with a brawl. Then followed a business nicety — the firing of an A's vice president. Later, from on high, came a gift to Oakland of "fourth place." And enmeshed in all of these transactions was a vanishing ballpark populace, a regrettable benching and a Hawk with the vengeance of a Mafia member.

Explanations, to wit:

THE SUNDAY afternoon Tiger-A's moundside tiff is still the subject of argument as to how "good" it was. One of the presiding umpires suggested it was "the best" he'd encountered, while Oakland radio spieler Monte Moore reckoned as how a 1967 fray between the same clubs "lasted longer and featured more punches."

Another cultural discrepancy emerging from the vital event concerned what Oakland pitcher Jack Aker was trying to inflict upon Detroit batted Jim Northrup. Of particular note to historians will be the fact that Aker himself wasn't absolutely certain.

YOU'LL RECALL the 50-player ruckus was participated by an Aker pitch slamming against Northrup's skull, which led to Jim charging the Indian from Tulare.

AKer told the first set of newsmen arriving in the clubhouse that he wished to "Move Northrup off the plate, so I threw a brushback except the pitch dipped and Jim couldn't get under it." To a later batch of inquisitors, Chief Aker allowed as how the pitch was intended to be "a knockdown because Jim was digging in."

ASIDE FROM the inherent nonsense of watching grown men spat (Northrup and Aker should simply have settled things in the parking lot later), there was a disgustingly sober moment when the battle died. Some as still unidentified Detroit players heaved a ball into the stands on a line. I watched it happen and still don't believe what I saw. That the woman hit by the ball wasn't more seriously injured is indeed fortunate.

The Tigers should quietly fine their responsible employee — or, better yet, farm him for the rest of the season.

THE FIRST Oakland firing by Finley was upsetting because of its target — the highly respected Bill Cutler, right hand man to two American League presidents over the past 20 years. Cutler, father of 12, was given the title of "vice president" but never precisely told his duties or authority, he contends. I learn from a reliable source that Cutler was offered a top job with the A's when Finley first took over in Kansas City in '61. Bill turned it down then but accepted the "vice presidency" last Winter because the pot was so sweet.

—THE AMERICAN LEAGUE owners were beneficent to the A's in their two-division plans for '69. Among the six clubs in the junior circuit "West" next year will be expansion-spawned Seattle and Kansas City. The A's HAVE to finish ahead of them. Voila, "fourth place."

— THE LACK of attendance against the Bosox was roundly criticized by the Beantown press in their chronically sarcastic manner. "Nobody out here ever heard of Yaz, huh?" mocked one scribe. The small Monday and Tuesday night crowds were particularly puzzling.

— THE UNFORTUNATE benching involved young Reggie Jackson. A's manager Bob Kennedy sat him down Tuesday after Reggie had struck out seven times in three straight games and 52 times in 41 games over-all. The 22-year-old right fielder from Arizona State had his confidence completely shattered and was even making elementary base-running mistakes. Breaking pitches did in Reg; farming might be best for him.

— THE VINDICTIVE Hawk is Ken Harrelson, released outright by Finley in K.C. last August. He was hitting .305 at the time, caught on with Boston and earned a World Series share plus a big bonus for signing. Now the Hawk has a hot bat again — particularly against the A's. In the first five games between the two clubs, Harrelson was hitting well over .500 and had four homers. He likes to beat the A's, he says, and continues to be critical of his former employer.

— ADD TO these gems the season's first appearance of Boston's Jim Lonberg, finally recovered from his skiing-induced broken leg, and you have a noteworthy few days.

Trojans Gain Tourney Finals

By KIMO CAMPBELL

The word for Terra Linda High's baseball team is serendipity — the happy faculty of finding totally unexpected good.

The Marin County Athletic League winners found unexpected brilliance in a second-line pitcher last night at Albert's Park, and exploited it to the full, winning 4-1 over Richmond to gain a spot in tonight's finals of the fifth annual Redwood Tournament of Champions.

The Trojans will meet Oakland Tech, Oakland Athletic League winner and 6-1 victor over Montgomery of Santa Rosa, tonight at 8 p.m.

Montgomery will face Richmond in the 6 p.m. game for third place, while Pittsburg, an 8-3 winner over El Camino, plays St. Elizabeth's of Oakland, 3-2 victor over Tennyson, at 4 p.m., for the consolation title. Tennyson and El Camino fight for seventh at 2 p.m.

The heroes for Terra Linda were Rick Edwards, a senior who had pitched little during the regular season, and catcher Craig Logan. Edwards, who labored in the shadow of the fabled Mike Timmel all year, looked as if he had been pitching crucial games all season, allowing the potent Richmond club, which had pounded out 16 runs (and 12 hits in a single inning) the night before, just five hits, one walk, and a single unearned run. Logan, the stocky Trojan catcher, who had hit a game-winning home run the night before, apparently enjoyed the experience, for he repeated last night, powering a two-run shot in the sixth that sank Richmond permanently.

Oakland Tech got superb pitching from Mike Price, who had a no-hitter for five innings, in addition to two of the Techmen's six hits.

Richmond grabbed a 1-0 lead in the third on a bunt, a wild throw, and a single. Third baseman Randy Murphy tried a bunt, which was bobbled and thrown away, leaving him on second base. Shortstop Mike Branson singled him home.

Edwards walked with two away in the bottom of the third, and Gary Trono smashed one to right field for an apparent inside-the-park home run, but the ball was ruled a ground-rule double, and Richmond's Jim Cash pitched his way out of the inning.

Edwards pitched himself into, and out of, a tough spot in the fourth, putting men on second and third via two singles and a wild pitch before recording the third out.

The Trojans took a permanent lead in their half of the fourth, as Dave Edson walked, Logan reached base on an error, Steve Trono singled, scoring Edson, Dewey Forry forced Logan at the plate, and Trono and Forry worked a first-and-third double steal to take the lead run.

Richmond's last chance was a one-out ball hit by Ron Fletcher that Steve Trono mishandled in right field, sending Fletcher to third. But Edwards struck out Willie Harris and got Marco Gonzales to line out, ending the threat.

Edson was safe on a bobbled grounder in the sixth, stole second and went to third on a bad throw. He needn't have bothered. Logan powdered a slow changeup to right for two runs and the ballgame.

Coach Jess Payan had nothing but praise for Edwards, who struck out eight and walked just one in his first game in three weeks.

"He pitched the game of his life — I just can't say enough about that kid — he became a man out there tonight. He hasn't worked much this year, because it's a short schedule and we went with our big man (Mike Timmel, who goes tonight with Jerry Goodrick in relief) most of the time. But he's improved over the season, and tonight he just wasn't going to be beaten. Edwards, Logan, Gary Trono, they're all great — I've got a feeling I have a great team on my hands and haven't known it."

Leader Weiskopf Out In Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP) — Affluent Tom Weiskopf is learning how to live with adversity on the golf course while unlucky Tommy Aaron is starting to enjoy the game.

Aaron, 31-year-old Georgian who is still looking for his first tournament title in nine seasons on the tour, was two shots in front of the field going into today's third round of the Atlanta Classic.

Weiskopf, who at 25 has already won $85,000 this year, was out of the tournament and held the dubious record of shooting the lowest score in the first round and the highest in the second.

"I'm embarrassed," said Weiskopf after a disastrous 83 put him out of the $115,000 tournament despite his opening 68, which had given him the first-round lead.

Aaron rolled into the lead with a 70 for a 36-hole total of 139, two strokes better than runner-up Bob Lunn. Jack Nicklaus was third at 142 and a handful of veterans were deadlocked at 144.

The cutoff mark of 149, which trimmed the field to the low 70 scorers and ties, was the highest of the year on the tour. Only Aaron has been able to do much against the 7,053-yard Atlanta Country Club course, which winds through the hilly Georgia forests.

"This is the first time I've led a tournament this year," Aaron said, "but I've played better the past five weeks than at any other stretch in my career."

Aaron said he has not been bothered by the notoriety he gained last month at the Masters, when he marked down a higher score on the 71st hole for Roberto de Vicenzo than the Argentine actually shot. De Vicenzo signed the incorrect card and was dropped from a tie for the Masters title to second place behind Bob Goalby. The cut at the Atlanta Classic also claimed Goalby, who had a 36-hole total of 152.

"I felt bad about it," Aaron said, "but I wasn't going to quit the tour over it."

Since that fiasco, Aaron said, he has been playing steady golf and he added that he has been helped at Atlanta by Georgians pulling for him to snap out of his winless streak.

"Nobody has come up to me and said anything about the Masters." Aaron said. "Why should they?"

While Aaron was enjoying the game, Weiskopf was bewildered by his 11-over-par round in which he had four double-bogeys and four bogeys.

"I did the best I could," the former Ohio State standout said, "but I hit a lot of bad shots. I'm embarrassed and I'm disappointed. A lot of things are bothering me."

Weiskopf declined to elaborate, but he is awaiting classification by his draft board after passing his Army physical.

"It was a bad day—but it was only one day in my life," said Weiskopf who once had a reputation for a hot temper but was calm after the disastrous round.

Lee, Harris, Win Heats, Race Into Track Finals

They're in.

Tamalpais sprinter Alan Lee and Terra Linda hurdler Lowell Harris cracked to heat victories in the better half of their specialties yesterday and tried to become the first Marin County Athletic League state winners in nine years this afternoon in the finals of the state track and field championship at Berkeley's Edwards field.

Lee, stung by a bitter fourth-place, out-of-the-money finish in the third heat of the 100-yard dash, shared the 220 spotlight with Willie Deckard, premier southland sprinter from Doresey of Los Angeles, by clipping to a 21.7 third heat victory.

Deckard won the first heat in 21.7 while Ken Jones of South Bakersfield won the second heat in 21.8, setting up a torrid duel in today's finals. Deckard has done a 21.2 while Jones has done a 21.4, but going by yesterday's time, run into an eight-mile-an-hour headwind, Lee stands a good chance to be right in there at the finish tape.

Lee had shaken off a disappointing finish in the 100, where he was nosed out at the tape for the qualifying spot by Andy Watkins of San Francisco Poly. Lee finished in ten flat.

The Tamalpais senior, who chalked up his best time ever against the wind in the 220, whipped two runners with better qualifying times in his heat, including runnerup Tom White of track power Centennial of Compton, who had run a 21.6 section qualifier.

Harris had much the same kind of day in sun-drenched, windy Edwards Field, but his chances would appear to be a little more grim.

The Terra Linda senior, after being tagged for a false start, won the first heat of the 120-yard high hurdles in a breezy 14.3 but his real test in the finals will come from Kerry Hampton of Poly, who won the third heat in a runaway 14.1, best of the three heats.

Harris led the 180 lows halfway through the race but faded to a nose-length fourth-place, getting edged by old rival Craig Fisher of El Molino for the third-place qualifying spot. He finished in 15.7.

Harris won the sectional meet in 14.0 flat and he may need another of the same to be in the money today.

The Tamalpais 440 relay team finished seventh in the second heat, with a 42.9 finish. Dorsey won the heat but favored Centennial blazed to the best time of the day, a hot 41.5.

Ron Sparling of Novato did not place in the shot put.

Heulon Hewitt of Merced, national prep record holder in the long jump at 25-10¾ qualified behind Phil Quinet of Homestead of Sunnyvale in a surprise. Quinet cleared 24-5 while Hewitt trailed off at 23-7⅛.

Another off performance was a 6-4 leap by Otis Hailey of Wasco in the high jump, a national record holder at 7-1¼.

Rolin Luka of Ygnacio Valley, the sectional winner at Santa Rosa last week, had the best shot put toss of the day, a smart 62-7¼.

$177,523 Win Check For Unser And Owner

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Bobby Unser's victory in the Indianapolis 500-mile race brought him a $177,523 winner's check Friday night at the annual victory banquet.

The total purse was $710,219, compared with the $734,634 payoff in 1967.

Unser, 34, of Albuquerque, N.M., will share the first-place money with his car owner, Bob Wilke of Milwaukee. The driver usually receives 40 to 50 per cent. Unser received $109,673 from the speedway, $45,650 in accessory prizes and $22,200 in lap prizes.

Bill Vukovich, 24, of Fresno, Calif., earned rookie of the year honors for his seventh-place finish in Thursday's race. His father, Bill, was killed in 1955 while seeking a third consecutive victory at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Unser also won merchandise prizes, including the Torino pace car, $1,500 worth of clothing and $1,000 in tools.

Vukovich was selected from six first-time drivers at the 500. He received $1,000 and a trophy.

He began racing stock cars in 1963, advancing to both midgets and championship autos in 1965.

Vukovich completed 198 laps in his Shrike turbocharged Offenhauser when all remaining cars were flagged from the track after Unser and four other drivers had crossed the finish line.

Mill Valley Car In First Race

The Winklemann W D.1 Formula car, a completely new designed racer built by Bob Winklemann of Mill Valley, will make its first appearance of the season this weekend at Vina Raceway in Chico.

London-born Winkelmann and Hugh Dibley have combined their knowledge of racing both here and in Europe and formed a partnership to manufacture these cars under supervision of designer Len Wimhurst.

Novato Legion Faces Vacaville

The Novato American Legion baseball squad, defending champions of the Marin-Napa-Sonoma Division, will open their 1968 season tomorrow afternoon against Vacaville at 1 p.m. at Novato High School.

Novato boasts brililant pitching with Novato's Russ Dillon and Terra Linda's Mike Timmel.

White Sox Return To Old Bunt Style

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

On a night when the home run dominated American League baseball, it figured that Chicago would win with its more familiar pitch and putt attack.

The White Sox scorned the long ball and used a squeeze bunt in the 14th inning by Luis Aparicio for the winning run in a 2-1 victory over Minnesota last night.

Elsewhere, homers decided all the games. Three Cleveland homers carried the Indians past Washington 8-3, Willie Horton's shot was Detroit's only run in a 1-0 victory over New York, Bob Rodgers connected in the 12th inning and California beat Oakland 3-0 and Ken Harrelson and Carl Yastrzemski powered Boston past Baltimore 3-0.

The White Sox were stirred up in the 14th by a near fight involving Ken Berry and Minnesota pitcher Bob Miller.

Dick Kenworthy had opened the inning with a double. Berry then thought he was hit by a pitch and got halfway to Miller before Manager Eddie Stanky intercepted him.

The umpires ruled that the ball struck his bat first and was a foul ball. Miller then hit Berry . . . for real this time . . . and the Sox had runners at first and second.

Sandy Alomar sacrificed and Russ Snyder was walked intentionally, loading the bases. Then Aparicio dumped his bunt past the mound and Kenworthy scooted home with the winning run.

Bob Allison had tied the game for the Twins with a seventh-inning homer following a typical White Sox rally which produced a run in the sixth.

Jack Hernandez' two-base error put Tommie Davis on second and then Duane Josephson was credited with an RBI single when Ted Uhlaender and Tony Oliva ran together under hs fly ball and it fell safely.

Harrelson smacked his ninth homer and Yastrzemski added No. 7 while Gary Bell throttled the Orioles for Boston.

The five-hitter was Bell's fourth consecutive victory and snapped a three-game Boston losing string.

Horton's 14th homer of the year turned Mickey Lolich's four-hitter into a victory over Mel Stottlemyre and the Yankees.

The homer was the third in the last four games for Horton and his 12th in the month of May. It extended his hitting streak to 13 games.

Lee Maye, Tony Horton and Tommy Harper all found the range for the Indians and Luis Tiant rode the heavy support to his seventh victory of the year.

The Indians jumped on Washington starter Phil Ortega for a 5-0 lead in the first three innings with Maye and Horton both homering in the first.

Rodgers' three-run shot followed an intentional walk to Jimmie Hall in the 12th inning and ruined a fine pitching job by Oakland's Chuck Dobson.

Dobson struck out 12 Angels and had allowed just three hits until Chuck Hinton opened the 12th with a single. Two outs later, with Hinton on second, the A's elected to pitch to Rodgers instead of Hall and the veteran catcher hit his first homer of the season.

Long Night Work All For Nothing

OAKLAND (AP) — The statistics will show that pitcher Chuck Dobson of the Oakland A's has a 2-5 record for the season.

But the California Angels will swear he's a better pitcher than that. Dobson pitched 11 shutout innings before losing on a three-run homer by Bob Rodgers in the 12th inning at the Oakland Coliseum last night.

It was the second time in the last 10 days that Dobson has been beaten in extra innings by a home run. He lost to the Cleveland Indians May 21 when Jose Cardenal homered in the 11th inning.

"My luck has to get better," Dobson said afterward in the clubhouse. "It can't get any worse."

He got consolation from his teammates but what he really would have liked from them was a base hit at the right time.

The A's had runners on second base four times, but couldn't score. Dobson was in trouble only once, in the last inning.

"I felt a little tired," he said of his longest chore as a major league pitcher.

Angel outfielder Chuck Hinton led off the 12th with a single. He moved to second on a sacrifice. Rick Reichardt hit a rifle shot back to the box that crashed into Dobson's glove and bounced away. But Chuck recovered quickly and threw out Hinton at first base.

Then A's manager Bob Kennedy ordered an intentional walk to left-handed hitting Jimmy Hall to set up a force play.

But there was no force play. The switch-hitting Rodgers hit the ball over the right field fence for three runs.

Dobson said he threw a fast ball just where he wanted to. "And I guess that was where Rodgers wanted it too," he said sadly. The defeat snapped a three-game winning streak for the A's and dropped them into a seventh place tie with the New York Yankees—one percentage point behind the sixth-place Angels.

The A's and Angels meet here again tonight at 6 p.m. with John Odom (3-4) pitching for Oakland and Lefty George Brunet (5-4) for California.

Dobson faced only 12 California batters in the first four innings. The only Angel baserunner was leadoff man Paul Schaal who walked to open the game.

He was thrown out attempting to steal. The Angels got their first hit in the fifth inning, a single to left field by Reichardt with one out. Dobson quickly retired the side and then got the Angels 1-2-3 again in the sixth.

U.S. Amateur Next In Line For Aussie

PARIS (AP) — Herb Fitz-Gibbon, America's 15th-ranked amateur tennis player, stepped up today as the latest challenger to wily Australian professional Ken Rosewall in the Open French Championships.

"Maybe I can take a set off him," said the tall young man from Garden City, N.Y. "That's more than anyone has done so far."

But the fans at the Roland Garros Stadium learned Friday the pros are not invincible. Australia's Fred Stolle, the No. 6 seed, lost 3-6, 0-6, 3-6 to Yugoslav Davis Cupper Boro Jovanovic.

Rosewall was the only professional scheduled to play today, which was set aside largely for doubles play. The other pros still in connection are Rod Laver and Roy Emerson of Australia and Andres Gimeno of Spain.

Cliff Richey of San Angelo, Tex., was paired against Alan Stone of Australia in a postponed third round match.

GENERAL

NEW YORK — Vince Lombardi, former coach and now general manager of the Green Bay Packers of the National Football League, was named to the board of lay trustees of Fordham University.

FORT WORTH, Tex. — Ben F. Boswell, who played for the old Boston Redskins football team from 1932-1934, died at the age of 58.

TRACK AND FIELD

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M., — Southern University's Oliver Ford tied the world record with a time of 10 seconds flat in the semifinals of the 100-meters, then won the event in 10.1 at the NAIA track and field championships.

FOOTBALL

Jarvis: Not Quite Perfect

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Don Drysdale and Larry Jaster both flirted with baseball's record book. Drysdale made it. For Jaster, well, it was a nice romance.

Jaster finished with a two-hitter and a 2-0 victory.

"A one-hitter or a two-hitter, yes, I get 'em," he said. "But not a no-hitter."

Cincinnati edged Philadelphia 5-4, Atlanta beat Pittsburgh 5-2 and Houston took Chicago 3-1 in other National League games, all at night.

Jaster finished with seven strikeouts against the Mets and outdueled hard-luck Tom Seaver, who had a 1.91 earned run average going into the game but has only a 2-5 record to show for it.

The Cards got both their runs in the third. Lou Brock opened with a triple. Curt Flood singled him in, moved to second on a base on balls and scored on Mike Shannon's single.

Larry Dierker pitched a solid four-hitter and John Bateman slammed a two-run double in the Astros' victory over Chicago. Bateman's double with two out in the fourth broke a 1-1 tie and Dierker's pitching made it stand up.

Fred Whitfield singled in two runs in the seventh, breaking a 3-3 tie and pointing Cincinnati to its decision over Philadelphia.

The Phils took an early 3-1 lead on a two-run homer by Bill White and a solo smash by John Callison, but the Reds tied it in the sixth on run-producing hits by Alex Johnson and Johnny Bench.

Atlanta rushed across three runs in the fourth inning, then coasted in against Pittsburgh. Felipe Alou ignited the decisive inning with a single, moved to second on a wild pickoff attempt, took third on a wild pitch and scored on a sacrifce fly. Deron Johnson singled in another run and an error let in the third.

Willie Stargell's two-run homer accounted for all the Pittsburgh runs.

Braves Begin Loop Play

Litchfield Braves of San Rafael open their Western Baseball Association season tomorrow at Albert Field with a doubleheader against the Santa Rosa Elks.

Ron Cole will pitch the opener for the San Rafael nine, gametime at noon. Ben Purch is scheduled to pitch the nightcap, with the entire twin bill free of charge.

The Braves will be taking a 7-3 win-loss practice game slate into the league opener. Some of Marin County's top players of past prep seasons are on the San Rafael team, many of them now playing college ball.

Among these are pitchers Ben Burch, Ron Cole, Bill Clark, Scott Murphy and Gregg Tellis and catcher John Komo. Among the infielders are Ron La Ruffa, Pat Puccinelli and Tom Corder.

Puccinelli and La Ruffa were recently named to the All-Golden Valley Conference baseball team from College of Marin. Corder led San Jose State's baseball team with a .363 average and is currently one of the hottest hitters on Litchfield's team.

Among the outfielders are Doug Wilson, former player in the San Francisco Giants farm system, and Bill DiGrazia, fresh from a season at Fresno State where he led the team in extra base hits and hit very close to the .300 mark, and Jay Widmer, Oregon State.

Tomorrow's games will be the first two of a 36-game league schedule for the San Rafael team. Among stops this season will be Grand Junction, Colo., Yakima and Bellingham, Wash., and Milton Freewater, Ore.

UPSIDE-DOWN COUNTY

(An open letter from Richard Lynch, Candidate for Supervisor, 4th District)

If Baar (who is now the Vice Mayor of San Rafael), is elected to the 4th District which is one half of San Rafael, and McInnis, who is the ex-Mayor and now Supervisor for the 1st District which is the other half of San Rafael, we will have 15% of the voters of Marin controlling 40% of the Supervisors' vote. Why did the Baar backers spend what I think is thousands of dollars for a $9,600 per year job?

DICK LYNCH FOR SUPERVISOR

(An open letter to my good friend Tom Storer)

In the four years that you have been in office my taxes have gone up 51% and my assessed valuation has gone up 45%.

You would like me to believe that Marin Co. should go into the bus business. San Francisco has been in the red in the bus business for years: Greyhound claims that they run in the red in Marin County, and have for years.

Would you like me to help you take the $30,000,000.00 from the Bridge district? That money also belongs to four other counties in addition to Marin; should it be used to finance our hometown "Mini-bus" service? We will surely have to run fast to take over money that belongs to counties other than Marin.

With the slump in construction—and labor—during the last four years, I do not see how the labor unions saw fit to endorse you since you have been on record as being for low density, no new roads, or construction in general.

VOTE FOR DICK LYNCH

My platform is:

1. Operate the county similar to a business.
2. Check all department salaries; some should be increased, but many in the $20,000.00 or more bracket should be lowered.
3. Invite and attract clean industry to the county.
4. Large property tax relief for people over 65 years with limited incomes.
5. If elected I will raise so much hell—if for no other reason than to get us closer to heaven.

Anti-Vietnam Resolution On The Ballot

The world situation has changed considerably since the City of Sausalito put a Vietnam resolution on the June 4 ballot, but the resolution is still expected draw considerable attention when voters go to the polls on Tuesday.

Councilmen, two of whom have since ended their terms, voted 3-2 on April 2 to put the resolution on the ballot, but took no position on the issue as a council. The action came two days after President Johnson announced the bombing halt over most of North Vietnam, but before peace negotiations started.

The resolution submits this expression of opinion to the voters:

"Whereas, we, the citizens of Sausalito, California, are concerned that there is no military solution to the conflicts of Vietnam,

"Let it be resolved that we commend the president of the United States insofar as he had ordered a halt to the bombing of North Vietnam and urge that he further seek a political solution through negotiations with all parties involved.

"Let it further be resolved that we urge the Congress of the United States to use its good offices to implement these changes in American foreign policy."

The resolution was first suggested by Planning Commissioner George C. Hoffman and approved by the planning commission. Hoffman has since been elected to the council.

The measure was adopted a week before the April 9 election in which Mill Valley voters approved a measure calling for a "policy of peace" in Vietnam and orderly withdrawal from the nation's "present untenable position."

Youth To Appear On Drug Charge

James Myron Tupper, 20-year-old College of Marin student booked in county jail Wednesday for investigation of selling and possessing marijuana, was scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court this afternoon.

He is free on $1,250 bail.

Marin County Drug Abuse Bureau agents arrested him at the college Wednesday for allegedly selling an agent two pounds of marijuana for $90 at his former residence, 631-A Magnolia Avenue in Larkspur, two weeks ago, they said today.

Officers said he also had about an ounce of marijuana in his possession when searched at the jail.

The formal living room & dining room are done in quiet elegance — while the kitchen & breakfast rooms have gay imported wallpaper. The den has rich paneled walls & a handsome brick fireplace. Each of the 3 bedrooms is unusually large &, again, the decor is original & charming. Even the laundry-sewing room has sunny flowers on the walls!

THE HOUSE AT THE TOP
We mean just that. The lot is level, yet at the top of Buckeye Circle, with a breathtaking view. The back portion is wooded like a park, with a small creek and your own picnic area. The house is nestled on the front of this spectacular lot, and is brand new and probably the only one of its kind in this area. Built on the lines of a Tahoe ski lodge, the walls are heavy log construction, yet the interior is very plush, with the finest acrilan carpeting, all-elec. kitchen with avocado green appliances, marble top vanities in the bathrooms, cathedral ceilings in the staircase and upstairs bedrooms, natural cedar ceilings accentuate the exposed beams thruout. A rear sun deck is extended over the creek. Spanish tile floors in the kitchen, laundry room and the bathrooms. The whole house is completely insulated beyond what this area calls for. A heavy shake roof completes this truly top house. Price only $32,000.

Kettenhofen Replies On Density Issue

Incumbent Supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen today charged his opponent in the race for supervisor from the Second District with either deliberate distortion of facts or abysmal ignorance of planning matters.

The incumbent was replying to yesterday's statement by opponent Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., who said Kettenhofen "deliberately misrepresented the facts in order to make the voters believe something which is not true."

Arrigoni charged Kettenhofen with claiming to have "prevented a high density factor in West Marin," when, in fact, Kettenhofen had overturned a master plan allowing 88 dwelling units per acre with a possible eventual population of 66,000 persons in West Marin in favor of 1.15 density and a population of 124,000 persons.

Kettenhofen today said, "I proposed this emergency ordinance on August 1, 1967, because I had been informed that a 3,500-unit subdivision on 1500 acres in West Marin was to be proposed. The ordinance was unanimously passed by the Board of Supervisors.

"You must remember that there is a time lag of a year or two between adoption of a master plan and enactment of new zoning to implement it. The A-2 zoning, under which building on 7,500 square foot lots is permissible is now under this emergency ordinance and any proposed building must conform to the West Marin master plan. In this one specific instance this ordinance I had enacted eliminated 1,700 proposed building sites.

"I am sorry that my insistence that the density comparables used in deciding the West Marin master plan be based on accurate figures rather than erroneous ones has brought my integrity into question."

Kettenhofen said, "My opponent either distorts the facts on purpose or is abysmally ignorant of planning matters."

Poisoning Father Sentenced To Die

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — An illiterate fruit picker was sentenced to death in the electric chair yesterday after being found guilty of first degree murder in the death of his oldest daughter, one of seven children who died of insecticide poisoning.

An all-white jury of 11 men and one woman found James Richardson, 31, guilty of sprinkling a lethal dose of parathion in a meal of hogs head, beans, rice and peas eaten by his seven childen.

Guilty Plea Made In Knife Charge

John Kanananaul, 43, pleaded guilty in Marin Municipal Court yesterday to brandishing a knife in a rude and threatening manner at his home, 905 Drake Avenue, Marin City.

Judgment was scheduled for 10 a.m. June 21. A count of battery on his common-law wife, Diane Daisie Ahrendt of the same address, was dismissed upon her request.

Sheriff's officers said she complained that he struck her, then drew a knife at her Thursday.

Best-seller time is tonight

For every I-J advertiser, an advantage in selling

When you, as an advertiser, purchase space in the I-J, your message gains a TIME ADVANTAGE worth dollars and cents in the till. For as an EVENING NEWSPAPER, the I-J reaches your customer prospects at the PRIME BUYING TIME . . . in the evening, when people have the MOST TIME to read and consider your merchandise and prices.

This EVENING READING TIME is nothing to pass over lightly. This is when buying decisions are made . . . when people are relaxed, receptive, actively in search of advertised values. Contrast this with radio, with morning newspapers, with circulars. In the I-J, readers search the ads, page by page. They WANT TO READ, have TIME to read . . . have time to "talk it over," compare, decide. Even the kids get into the act! Small wonder the I-J is Marin's first choice for advertising . . . by both readers and advertisers.

MORE FOR YOUR STORE
The I-J out-sells all other newspapers in Marin. More daily Marin circulation than the Chronicle and Examiner combined.

Everyone's reading

Gilbert Named To State's Water Control Study

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Jerome B. Gilbert, chief engineer and general manager of the North Marin County Water District, has been appointed by the State Water Resources Control Board to study the state's water quality control program.

Norman B. Livermore of San Rafael, Resources Agency administrator, said Gilbert was one of seven "outstanding Californians" selected to make the study.

Gilbert is chairman of the San Francisco Bay Area Regional Water Quality Control Board, and has held positions with the Irrigation Districts Association of California, the American Water Works Association and the Eel River Association.

The study group is to report its findings to the governor and the Legislature in March of 1969.

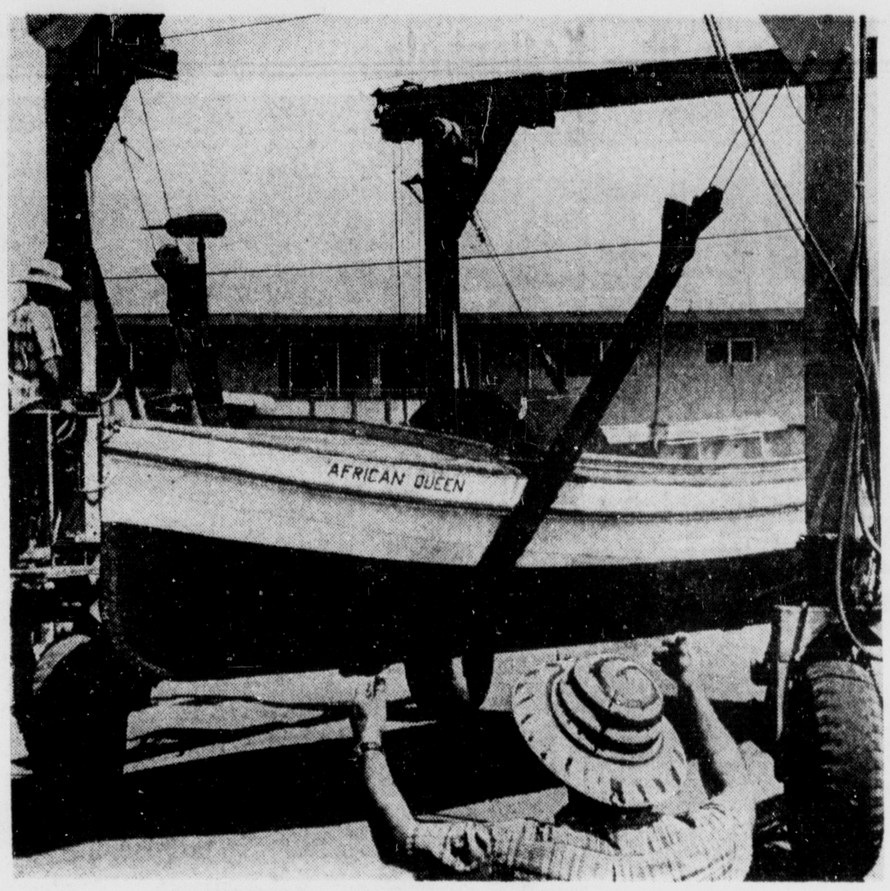
Education Board To Discuss Shift On Budgeting

The Marin County Board of Education will consider action Monday on a resolution to transfer fiscal responsibility for the education budget from the board of supervisors to the board of education.

The board meets at 8 p.m. at the Marin County superintendent of schools office in Corte Madera.

Main change would be that the board of education would set up its own budget without requiring approval by the supervisors, according to Byron E. Mauzy, director of business services. The supervisors would still review the county schools office budget, however, and set the tax rate for county funds to be collected for the education budget, Mauzy said.

The resolution was recommended for board approval by the board's committee on administrative services.



A HEROINE ARRIVES IN SAN RAFAEL

The African Queen, star and holder of the title role in a movie judged America's best-loved film in a poll this spring, arrives in San Rafael. Guiding her in yesterday, as Philip Westcott (left) operated the motorized sling, was Richard McCarthy, owner of San Rafael Marine Repairs at Harbor and Canal Streets. The Queen, which carried Humphrey Bogart and Katharine Hepburn on their epic film voyage, was bought for $700 in Africa by San Francisco restaurateur Fred Reeve, whose plans include exhibitions of the craft for charitable fund raising.

Postal Clerks Spending Most For Lobbying

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United Federation of Postal Clerks ranks at the top of the list of organizations reporting lobbying expenses for the first quarter of 1968.

Whether the union, which reported lobbying expenditures of $52,976, was actually the biggest spender is another matter because the law requiring quarterly reports is loosely enforced.

Other groups that acknowledged expenditures of $30,000 or more to influence legislation were the AFL-CIO, $38,324; American Farm Bureau Federation, $36,566; American Legion, $36,372; National Housing Conference, $35,308; and United States Savings and Loan League, $35,539.

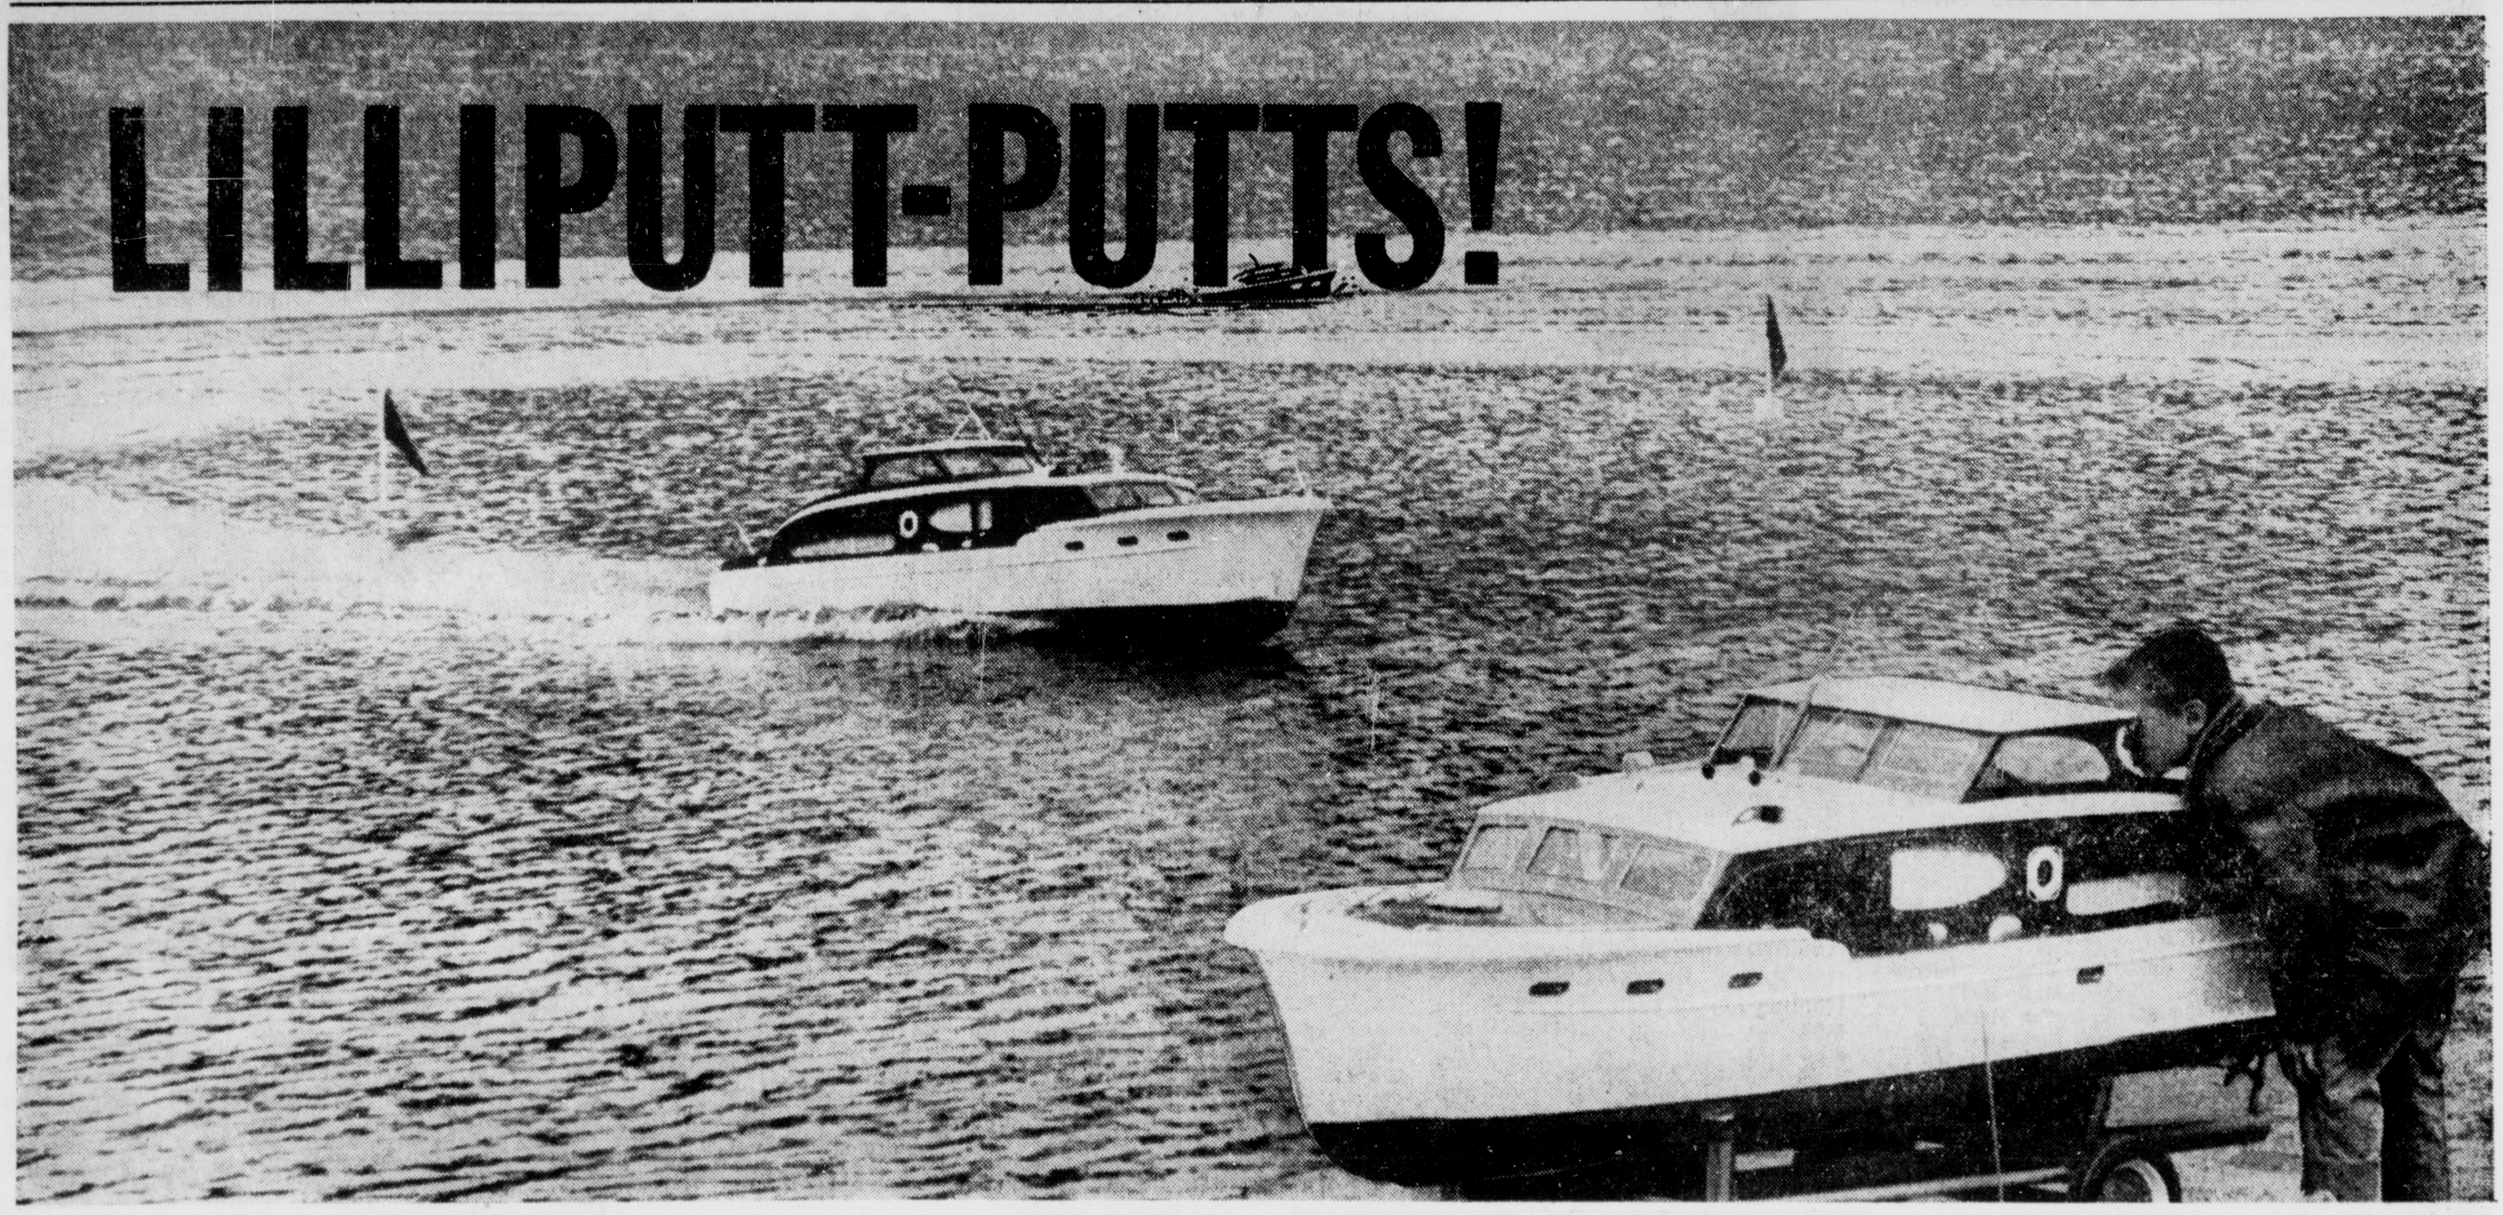
LILLIPUTT-PUTTS!



Last-second adjustment and the entry is ready to compete.

The morning air at San Francisco's Lake Merced fills with the thunderous throb of high-powered engines and, in the North Lake area, the eye catches the trim lines of surging ships sweeping under full throttle through the water's calm.

But wait!

They aren't full-size, these beautifully-produced craft, but individual hand-made creations (seldom more than 75 inches in length), participating in the sectional competition of the San Francisco Model Yacht Club.

From throughout the state entrants come, bringing with them their own interpretation of the two classes, hydro (pontoon-plus hull) and monoplane (single hull), to tune and polish and prepare before launching onto the 700-yard course.

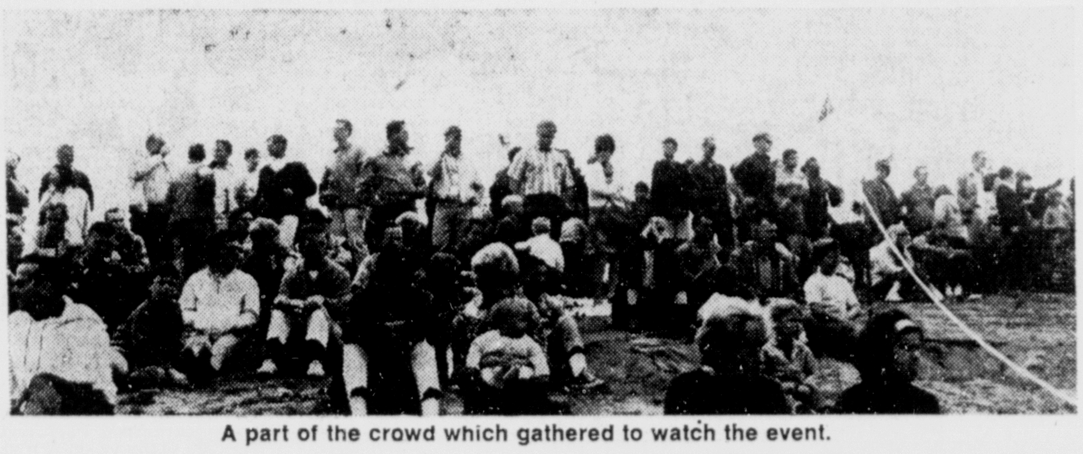
They race only for silver and gold cups, but with each entry is a pride of perfection which, in terms of dollars, can go beyond several thousands in investment.

The competition, begun in 1901 with sailing craft only, has swung slowly to the power-crafts favored mostly by the younger enthusiasts while the oldster's preference still is for the sedate speed of a sailing ship.

It is, however, the power which makes this event the finest and fastest in California, with over 100 entries of gasoline-operated, remote-controlled yachts in each speed competition.

Their lines and times will improve as years pass, yet in the thrill of speed and labor of creation, these enthusiasts fulfill a part of themselves and give to onlookers that same excitement as they race in miniature the ships of their dreams.

Father and sons concentrate on tuning up their entry.



A part of the crowd which gathered to watch the event.

Two participants make final adjustments before launch.

An entry comes in under remote-control as a crew member stands ready to retrieve it.

A young spectator looks over a row of entries.

John's Reign Set In Motion The New Look

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope John XXIII was nearly 77 when he came to the Throne of St. Peter, and he was at first dismissed by the world at large as a "transitional Pope."

Later one of his admirers saw in that description a shining epitaph of his life and reign.

"He was indeed transitional, but not in the way expected nor in the ordinary sense of the word," said Leo Joseph Cardinal Suenens of Belgium.

OPENS NEW ERA

"History will surely judge that he opened a new era for the church and that he laid the foundations for the transition from the 20th to the 21st Century."

Pope John died five years ago Monday, and the transition begun by him is still in motion—not a smooth or untroubled transition, but one that has created a ferment in Catholicism unparallelled in recent centuries.

John himself, who lies in a plain white marble tomb below St. Peter's Basilica, seems well on his way to sainthood, and already is revered as such by many Catholics.

Undoubtedly one of the most popular Popes in history, John did not live to see most of the things he sought to accomplish carried through to fruition. His successor, Pope Paul VI, is still striving to carry out many of them.

VALID TODAY

Despite this, the judgment that Suenens pronounced five years ago seems valid today, and unlikely to be changed by a longer historical perspective.

John did "open a new era" for the Catholic Church, and set it on a course it seems likely to follow for years to come despite opposition to change from some forces in the church.

Some observers see his personal magnetism as the source of his greatest achievement. He created new respect in the world for the papacy, less by concrete actions than by the force of his own personality and style.

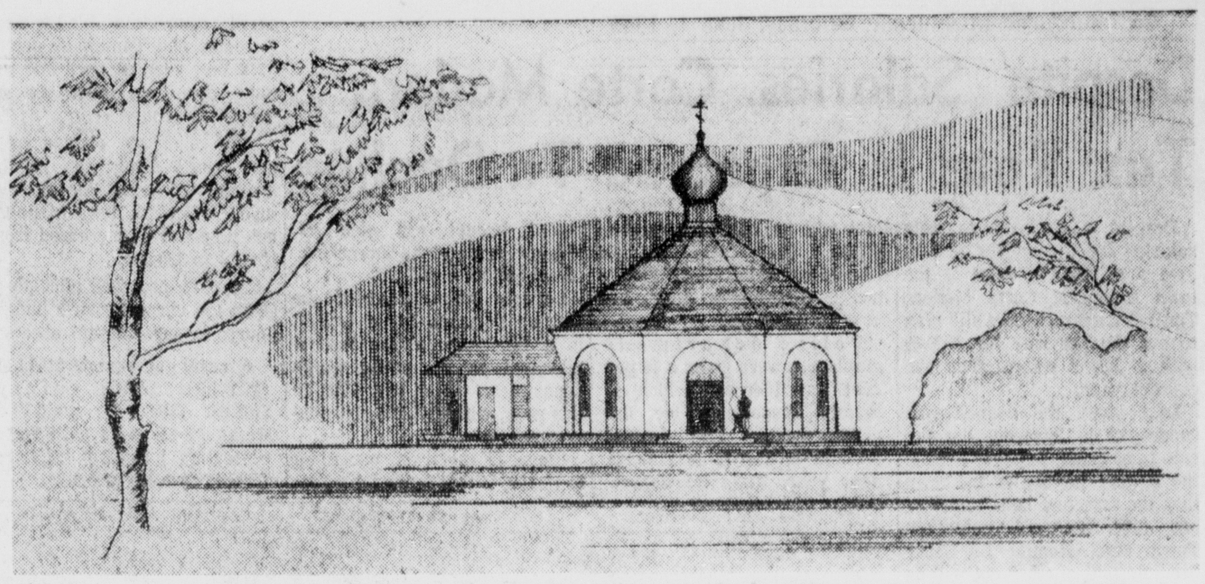
Some historians have seen John as one of three figures who helped to move the world away from the cold war mentality of the immediate postwar era.

The others were U.S. President John F. Kennedy, assassinated five months after John's death, and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, ousted from power the following year.

HISTORIC ONE

From a purely religious standpoint, John's reign is notable and historic most of all for the Ecumenical Council that he called.

He lived for only one of its three sessions, but few would dispute that John was the inspiration for the profound changes it decreed in Catholic practice and Catholic attempts to come to terms with the modern world.



DESIGN FOR NEW RUSSIAN ORTHODOX CHURCH

Site dedication for a new sanctuary for St. Nicholas Parish, Russian Orthodox Chuch of America, was held last Sunday. Officiating at the ceremony was Archbishop John of San Francisco. Corte Madera Church Gets A New Minister

Rev. Joseph L. Hughes has been called as the new pastor of the First Baptist Church of Corte Madera. He will deliver his first sermon at the 10:55 a.m. service tomorrow.

The new pastor has just returned from three years as executive director of the USO Council of Japan where he served servicemen in the Far East.

Before returning to the United States, Reverend Hughes and his wife and 9-year-old daughter made an extensive world tour.

Herbert C. Lency, chairman of the church's board, said Reverend Hughes' wide experience will be "used to lead the church into a more community-centered program for all demoninations."

Prior to his work in Japan, Reverend Hughes served churches in Indianapolis, Ind., Powers Lake, N.D., and Park Forest, Ill., where he coordinated the religious development and activities of a sociologically planned community which has grown to a population of 40,000.

Prior to selection of a permanent minister, Rev. Harold Geisweit of Oakland had served as interim pastor.

Despite Salaries, Corte Madera Tax Rate Is Expected To Decline

Despite a decision to vote salaries for themselves and to give a substantial raise to the town manager, Corte Madera Town Council members still plan to cut the tax rate for 1968-69 with a lower budget than the current year.

Last year, the council was successful in lowering the tax rate to 99 cents, the first time in the 51-year history of the town that the rate had been under $1 per $100 assessed valuation. Town Mgr. Ronald L. Usher predicts that another cut will be made for next year.

Usher said that the decrease has been possible mainly because of sales tax revenue which the town receives from automobile dealers and the shopping center within the town limits.

The new budget, proposed by Usher, started at $760,439 as compared to the 1967-68 budget of $788,776, but the council has increased some of the figures so that the proposed budget now stands at $765,439, a decrease of 3 per cent from the current year.

Adoption of the budget is set for the town council meeting at 7:30 p.m. June 17.

Councilmen voted to increase Usher's salary and allowances and pay him a bonus so that the total will be $20,360 instead of $16,532. They also voted themselves salaries of $150 a month. Previously they had served without pay.

Police department employees were given a 10 per cent pay increase which is mainly responsible for the police budget rise from $128,819 in 1967-68 to $137,161 next year. The fire department budget will also be higher next year, increasing from $35,658 to $41,187.

Largely responsible for the over-all decrease in the budget is a big drop in the amount allocated for the public works department, which was $430,770 this year, with $345,255 proposed for next year.

Cause of the drop, according to Usher, is that funds for a proposed connection between Paradise and Tamalpais drives have now been accrued and the item does not have to be budgeted for next year.

Only other big change from last year's budget is in the amount set aside for reserve funds, which the town manager has proposed be increased from $30,000 to $50,000.

Complete proposed allocations (with the current year's budget figures in parentheses) are:

General government $163,070 ($138,861); public safety $198,297 ($183,945); public works $345,255 ($439,770); recreation $8,420 ($6,100); reserves $50,000 ($30,000).

More Firms Will Join Mill Valley's Paint-Up Drive

Six more downtown Mill Valley firms are preparing to take part this summer in the civic beautification program started last year. Last summer, 32 firms took part in a coordinated paint-up and renovation program.

The program has drawn favorable notice from other parts of California, and was mentioned several times during San Anselmo's recent town meeting as an example to follow.

Delegations from Novato and Livermore have met with members of the Mill Valley program and inquiries have come from Claremont, in Southern California, and Santa Rosa.

Dowd's Moving and Storage, 157 Throckmorton Avenue, has signed up for remodeling and painting in June, and five other businesses are considering colors suggested by coordinating consultants Callister and Payne or waiting for painting bids from Robert V. Kunst, painting contractor.

Janet H. Mountjoy is architectural coordinator for the project. Information about the 1968 project is available from the Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce.

Novato Parks Budget Due Initial Hearing

The Novato Parks and Recreation Commission preliminary budget for 1968-69 will have its first hearing Monday at 8 p.m. at the Novato community house.

Also on the agenda will be a budget request for the San Ramon payground, a report on the little league baseball diamond at Arroyo Avichi and a landscape architect presentation on Pioneer Memorial Park.

First Class To Graduate From St. Hilary's School

A Mass and breakfast at 9 a.m. on June 9, in Lydon Hall, for 22 graduates and their parents, will precede ceremonies for the first eighth grade class at St. Hilary's Church School in Tiburon.

At 4 p.m. June 10, the pastor, Rev. George G. Johnson, will conduct a special Mass in the church and hand out diplomas, as well as awards for citizenship, athletics and leadership.

Deborah A. Brown, student body president, will deliver the valedictory address.

St. Hilary's Church School, at 765 Hilary Drive, was started in 1963 with grades 1 through 4, by the Sisters of the Holy Faith from Dublin, Ireland. One grade was added each year since then, until the ultimate eighth grade level was reached, according to Mrs. Lloyd G. Bentlay, president of the school's parent-teacher group.

Harbor Lease On Council's Agenda

The Mill Valley City Council is again scheduled to review its small craft harbor lease with developer Paul B. Fischer when it meets at 8 p.m. Monday in city hall.

The review has been scheduled at previous meetings but held over because of long agendas.

Fischer and the city drew up a tentative agreement in 1966 under which Fischer would develop the harbor, but this spring Fischer has sought changes by which the city would finance the improvements and he would serve as a $50,000-a-year manager.

The board will also consider resolutions withdrawing parts of the newly annexed high school-tidelands areas from Tamalpais Fire Protection District and Almonte Sanitary District.

Traffic On Agenda

The Corte Madera Town Council will discuss traffic control at the intersection of Redwood and Corte Madera avenues at 7:30 p.m. Monday in the town hall. Also on the agenda will be filling the job of town treasurer, as Col. John R. Vance is submitting his resignation.

The Kennedy record.

No other candidate can match it.

1. In the Cabinet and on the National Security Council:

"The Attorney General has been in the center of every crisis, had a hand in every major decision."

New York Herald-Tribune

Robert Kennedy helped shape the policies of the New Frontier. He played a crucial role in the Cuban Missile Crisis. His advice against precipitous action weighed heavily as the President negotiated a peaceful backdown by Premier Khrushchev and the withdrawal of Russian missiles from Cuban soil.

Robert Kennedy also participated in the delicate negotiations leading to the nuclear test ban treaty — the first major step by the United States and Russia to reduce the risk of world war.

As Attorney General, United States Senator, and Special Presidential Envoy, Kennedy has traveled through Europe, Eastern Europe, Asia, Africa, and Latin America. The respect he has earned makes him the most qualified American to enlist the cooperation of other nations in the cause of peace.

2. As Attorney General:

Robert Kennedy "guided more important legislation through Congress than did any of his predecessors in the past 30 years. He has made the Federal Government, for the first time, a vigorous enemy of organized crime. He has pushed equal rights for all Americans..."

The Washington Post

3. On law-enforcement and crime:

The following statement was recently signed by 33 of the nation's leading authorities on crime, on crime prevention, and on law enforcement.

"We are convinced that lawlessness in America and the causes of lawlessness in America are the most serious problems facing this nation today.

"And we are equally convinced that Senator Robert Kennedy is the only man seeking the Presidency who has the experience, the ability and the compassion to understand and deal effectively not only with the problems of law enforcement, but with the causes of crime."

4. On Viet Nam:

"I do not think that anyone in our politics has attempted a more careful analysis of the conditions for a negotiated settlement than Kennedy in the concluding pages of To Seek a Newer World," said Arthur Schlesinger, Jr. in the New Republic.

Robert Kennedy has never once claimed that either he personally or the Kennedy administration are without blame in Viet Nam. But he has spoken and written time and time again in opposition to the bombing and the escalation of the war. And he was one of the first to speak out on the errors of our policies.

As early as May 6, 1965, he said: "The course of enlarging the war is contrary to the interests of the United States and to humanity's hope for peace. I believe that our efforts for peace should continue with the same intensity as our efforts in the military field."

5. On the cities:

He inspired and helped organize "the most sweeping and comprehensive rehabilitation effort ever brought to bear on a single American community."

Newsweek Magazine

Newsweek is referring to the most important Negro self-help project in America. It is now in effect in the Bedford-Stuyvesant area of New York City, the nation's most heavily-populated Negro community.

Robert Kennedy has also been the major sponsor of legislation to create jobs and improve life in the slums. What he proposes is not just another welfare program. It calls for tax incentives to private industry, encouraging construction of plants in poverty-stricken areas and investment in low-income housing.

6. On civil liberties:

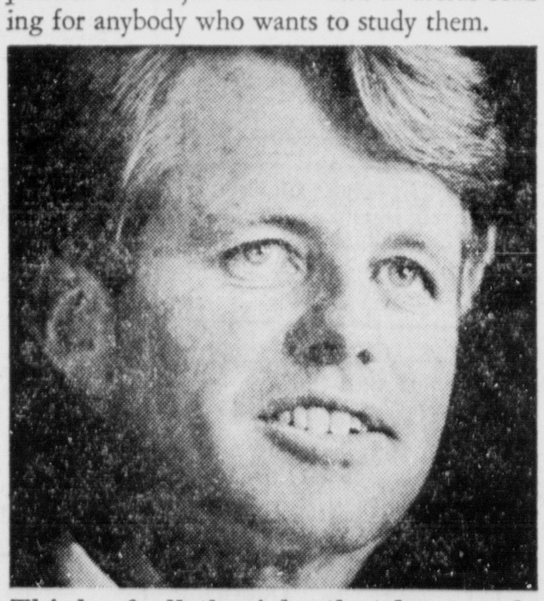
As Attorney General, "Kennedy did more than any of his predecessors for the poor man charged with crime, acting to assure him free counsel and release without onerous bail and a fair opportunity to prepare his defense." The New York Times

And the Washington Post editorialized:

"He is entitled to a high mark for dedication to his task, for a forward-looking concept of criminal law, and for a burning desire to see that justice was done."

For a comprehensive picture of Kennedy's views, read "To Seek A Newer World."

This is Robert Kennedy's most recent book. It was published in 1967, before he became a candidate for the Presidency. It spells out his position on major issues — and is useful reading for anybody who wants to study them.



Think of all the jobs that have to be done in America in the next four years. Who do you think is most likely to get these jobs done?

CHOOSING THE GOWN IS THE FIRST STEP! Miss Melman of the Emporium's Bridal Salon and Better Dress department is showing Janice Baysinger this lovely wedding gown modeled by Miss Diane Brusatori. The gown is a charming flare of white organza sweeping narrowly up to an empire look. It is trimmed in re-embroidered French lace and seed pearls. The trim is a part of the dress and falls gracefully from the empire waist. The neck is high and flattering—sleeves are tapered, wrist length. This gown is an Alfred Angelo Petite, and comes in regular sizes and priced at $120.00. The lovely silk illusion veil of elbow length with blusher has organza roses and leaves of re-embroidered French lace petals and gathered with a bow of organza. Priced at $39.00. Available at the Better Dress and Bridal Salon of the Emporium of Marin in the Northgate Fashion Mall. Open daily 9:30 to 5:30; Wed. and Fri. evenings 'til 9:30. Phone: 472-1111.

WHO WOULDN'T LOOK HANDSOME IN THIS! Charles Jones, manager and formal wear specialist for Roos/Atkins shows Janice Baysinger and Don Holton the ultimate in proper attire for the coming daytime wedding. The cutaway, elegant and comfortable, is a 10-oz. tropical worsted braided coat with 10-oz. pleatless striped trousers with adjustable side tabs. The vest is a pearl gray wash and wear. The soft front-pleated shirt with French cuffs is worn with a striped silk ascot tie. Shoes are plain black oxfords. Jewelry is pearl cuff links and stick pin, a feature item in Roos/Atkins formal rental service. Don selected an Edw. Hawk lightweight, 100% wool suit for their honeymoon. Only $89.50. Formal wear is available from boys' size 4 to men's size 54 long and may be rented at Roos/Atkins, Northgate Fashion Mall. Open daily 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. and Wednesday and Friday nights 'til 9:30 p.m. Phone: 479-4144.

YOUNG AT HEART, LIGHT OF FOOT! Do shoes have a personality? At Leed's (Northgate), Janice was captivated by the youthful, buoyant look of the new styles. Here's Ernie Sanchez, manager and Betty Conkling, Maria Novak and Asst. Manager Frank Weber, showing her new summer tintables and the new square or broad toe with a square last and heavier, square block heel—for Fall, 1968. What will she take—the plain pump or the young pump with its spicy dash of buckles, bows, flowers or pompons? Janice goes for the Now Girl Look! And the QualiCraft look is the look that says today. It can be your look, too, for just $8.99. Matching handbags $2.99 to $4.99. Coordinated hose to complete the new "in" fashion from 69c to $1.19. Leeds QualiCraft Shoes is located at Northgate Fashion Mall, Terra Linda. Open daily 9:30 to 5:30 and Wednesday and Friday night 'til 9:30 p.m. Telephone 479-9822.

BRIDAL REGISTRY HEADQUARTERS! Janice found the Emporium of Marin to be the ideal headquarters for all her present and future needs. She is pleased with the wide selection and depth of items from ready-to-wear to patio furniture. She found it possible to completely outfit herself, buy her luggage and furnish her home all in one store. Miss Dee Myhill of the china department explains how the Bridal Registry makes it possible for all her china, glass and silver gifts to be coordinated, in her patterns, without duplication. This table setting features the magnificent Gold Columbia pattern from Wedgwood, with the beautiful coordinated King Richard sterling silver flatwear from Towle. The single place setting of Brookdale, one of thirty-seven patterns of Lenox also impressed Janice. Other china represented are Royal Dalton and Franciscan while the silver department features Reed & Barton, Wallace and Gorham. Emporium of Marin at Northgate. Daily 9:30-5:30; Wed. & Fri. 'til 9:30 p.m. Phone: 472-1111.

THE SPECIAL JOY OF FURNISHINGS FROM CASA MARIN. Carroll Glasson explains to Janice and Don the refinements of Kindel's Louis XVI Provincial dining room group. Beauclair is the rich finish on the selected wild black cherrywood veneers. The beautifully shaped buffet is 66" long with an abundance of storage. The oval dining table top contains four perfectly matched veneers, bordered with a walnut inlay. The table is 44" x 66" and extends to 114". The antique solid brass collar at the top of the leg, with solid brass ferrule and caster on the foot adds to the richness of design. The handsome oriental Karastan, all wool, is an excellent back drop for the rich design of the Louis dining room group. The well appointed accessories add important detail to finish out the room. Casa Marin's bride service is available to one and all without charge. Information available on all aspects of home furnishings. Casa Marin, 1654 Second St., San Rafael, 454-0502.

SMARTEST WAY TO STEP UP TO STYLE! Janice finds an exciting choice of tintable shoes at GallenKamp's. Just like getting two shoes for the price of one—the white pumps for the wedding; the same pumps tinted later to any color for tomorrow's "happening." Bill Griffin, asst. manager of GallenKamp's at Northgate Fashion Mall shows Janice a peau de soie with an illusion heel and round toe. Other fabrics in the tintables are expresso crepe and gloria satin. The bride and her attendants may select the fabric in either the round toe with latest block heel, the sling pump with block heel, or the snip toe with spike heel. With their color chest of 384 shades, GallenKamp specializes in correct color matching. Wonderfully low-priced at $7.99 and $8.99. Matching handbags, too, from $2.99. Available at all three GallenKamp Family Shoe Stores; Northgate Fashion Mall; Corte Madera Center and downtown San Rafael.

Don and Janice are seeing one of approximately 85 patterns in china, stoneware, earthenware and stainless flatware . . . all in open stock patterns. Mobilia has Marin's most distinguished selection of fine crystal and fine stemware from Denmark, Finland, Germany and Sweden. We feature, of course, the famous Dansk linens in brilliant colors and cookware in exciting new designs. Mobilia is justly proud of the many teak, walnut and rosewood dining tables and an exquisite selection of fabrics in living room furniture. We have domestic lines of furniture and accessories as well as imported. With a Bridal Registry and layaway plan, plus a revolving charge plan, plus all bank credit plans, Mobilia has much for the bride and others, too . . . at 4th & D Sts., San Rafael, 454-3412.

ONE CAR YOU'D LOVE TO GET MARRIED TO! Great way to start a honeymoon . . . driving a Camaro. (Makes for smooth riding through the State of Matrimony.) Here you see our young couple, Janice and Don, putting up no resistance at all to Stan Wisness of Campbell Bishop Chevrolet as he points out the sporty lines and performance of the fleet Camaro convertible. "And priced to fit any young budget, too," Stan adds. "Just right for the young at heart." The car has an important added accessory: any young couple automatically becomes a member of the Campbell Bishop family of satisfied customers . . . with the plus of enjoying Campbell Bishop service. For newlyweds, all directions point to Campbell Bishop . . . with the reputation for fair dealing and the finest Chevrolet service facilities in Marin . . . at 5880 Paradise Drive, Corte Madera.

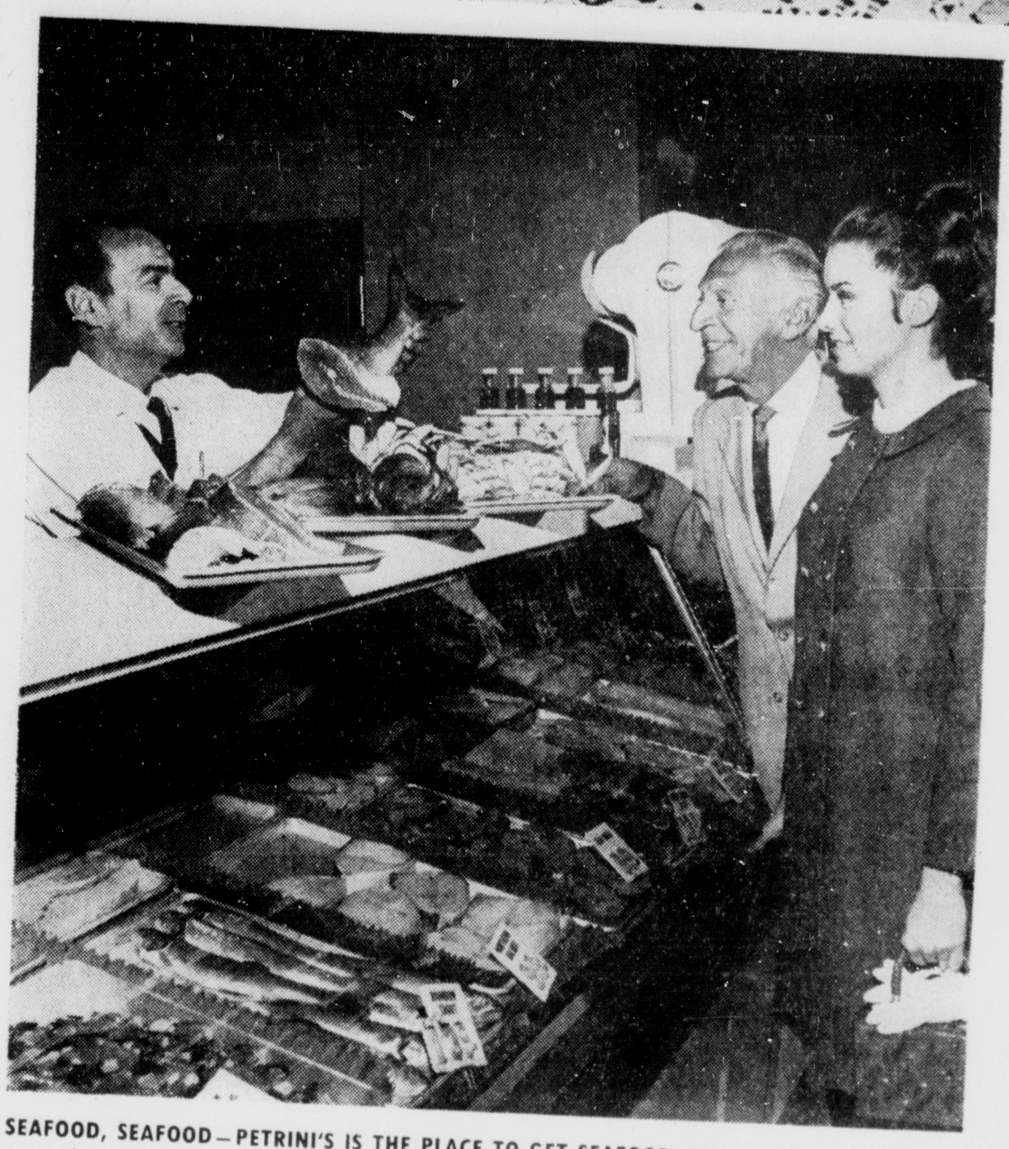
IT TAKES THREE TO PLAN A HOME. Janice and Don find that professional decorator planning as provided by Mr. Jerome Bellach of Bellach's Design Center, 777 Francisco Blvd., San Rafael, makes it easy to work proper color coordination into items they would select for their first home. Jerome points out the correct drapery fabric to blend with the upholstery fabric and wood and cane arms of the Spanish Love Seat. Janice was impressed with the imported Italian crystal swag lamp and Don admired the lamp table with carved wooden doors. Add correct wall decor, a selection of Italian original oil paintings and you complete an important conversational grouping. The viewing of Bellach's selection of complete home furnishings and imported art objects personally selected by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bellach in the lands of their origin, was a rewarding experience for Janice and Don. They left knowing that everything they could ever want was waiting for them at Bellach's.

JANICE BAYSINGER ANXIOUSLY ANTICIPATES HER BIG DAY—while watching Ted Weitzel, president of Lady Baltimore, putting the finishing touches on one of the many, many wedding cakes decorated each year by Lady Baltimore. Even though there are three full time decorators, Ted still gets as big a thrill supervising the operations of the bakery as he did decorating his first wedding cake 36 years ago. Lady Baltimore's reputation has built the business to the extent that they have experts in every department and take pride in giving personal attention to each and every customer's special order. If a customer has special creation in mind, they can talk to Mr. George Schwob (manager and head decorator) personally, who has helped to make many parties a huge success. By the way, have you tried Lady Baltimore's famous Fruit Basket Cream Cake? There are 9 convenient Lady Baltimore locations in Marin. The Main Store is at 1914 Fourth St., San Rafael. 454-4265.—Many years of happiness, Janice.

HOW TO BEGIN A BRIGHT FUTURE. Janice looked at the marvelous chandeliers on display at Marin Lights and quickly added some new items to her "wedding gift hint list." She could just see the flattering shimmer of crystal with her new china. That first dinner party would be elegant. Bill Everest told her about the traditional crystal cuts, the contemporary all crystal pieces, and other chandelier styles she could use. He explained an elegant fixture would add a gracious atmosphere to her first dinner party—and also light up her 25th anniversary party. Janice quickly jotted down "Marin Lights, 650 Irwin Street, San Rafael." That chandelier will be wonderful now and in a few years, when she and Donald build their own dream house, Marin Lights is a name Janice wants to remember.

START LIVING IN A BEAUTIFUL VACUUM! Jack McGrew, owner of J and R Sales, points out to Janice the features of the new Hoover "Slimline." This handsome, hard-working Hoover will make Janice's housekeeping chores a snap with more portability, mobility . . . yet less weight. And it also has non-marking wheels to protect Janice's floors from ugly wheel marks. Thee Hoover has a new high power motor and is equipped with king size throw away bags that hold more dirt and need changing less often. The specially engineered tools mean faster, easier, more efficient cleaning in every room of the house. (Could a bride want more?) J and R Sales has a complete line of vacuum equipment and features sales, service and parts. Just such up all the worry once you own a Hoover. J and R Sales is centrally located at 909 D Street, San Rafael, opposite the Post Office. Please Phone 456-4146.

DON LIKES STEAKS! Janice likes to fix the dishes that Don likes. It's only natural to find her in Petrini's, mecca for brides and experienced housewives. Happily she ran into John Tarantino, general manager of Petrini's. Never too busy to talk to anyone interested in good food, he took Janice on a tour of the store. Here, with Val Costagli, Mr. Tarantino shows Janice where various cuts are found. He explained that Petrini's carry only Choice and Prime grades of meat. Janice was assured that Petrini butchers are both skilled and eager to help their customers with their meat selection. She could easily see that serving the best quality, not only wins appreciation but actually saves money, too. It would be safe to say that Janice will adapt the Petrini slogan "try a little tenderness" with meats from the Bon Air Shopping Center store on her dinner table.



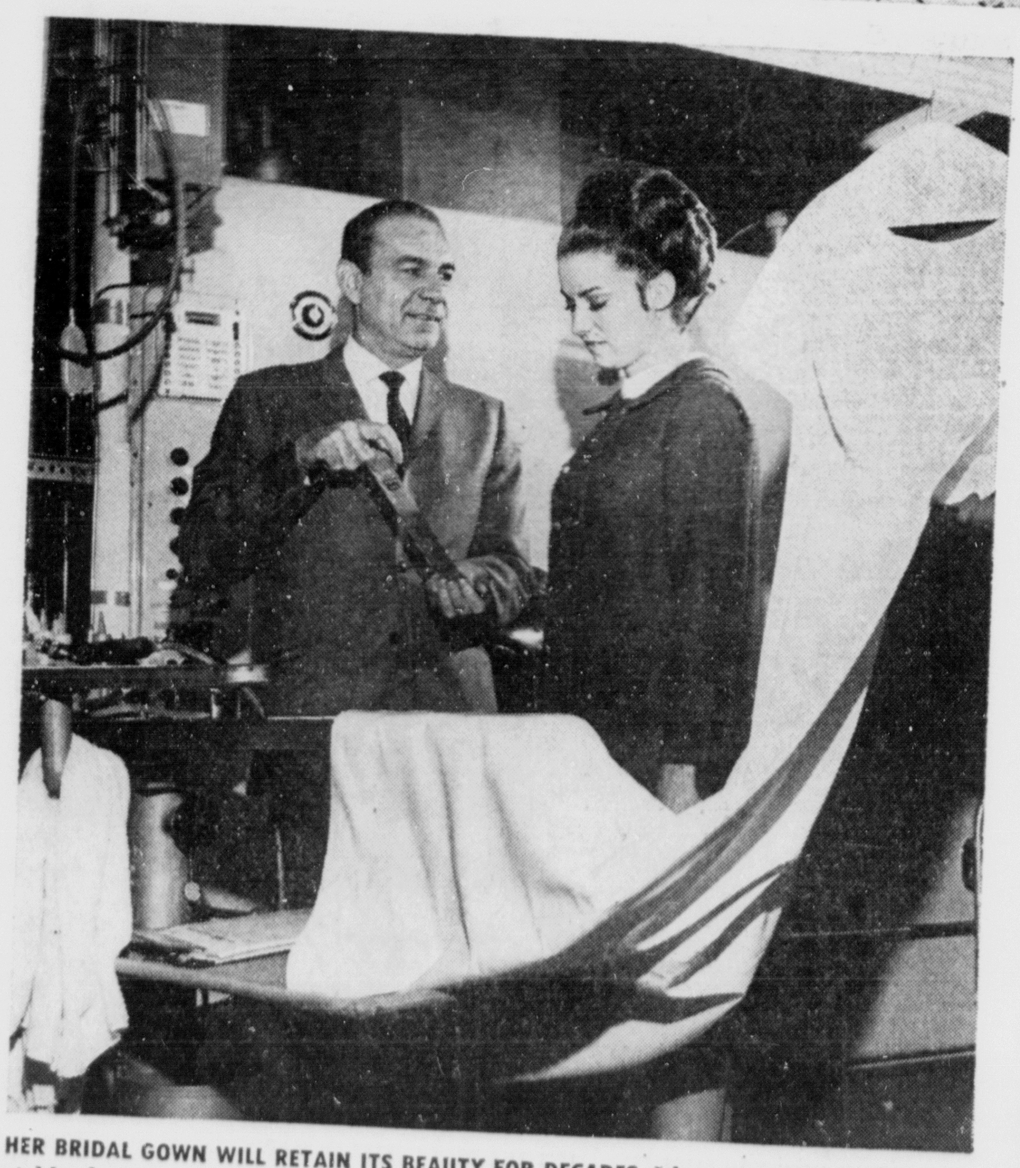
SEAFOOD, SEAFOOD—PETRINI'S IS THE PLACE TO GET SEAFOOD. Petrini's aren't experts in everything, but when they have a department where they are less experienced . . . they go get the people that have the experience. John Tarantino tells Janice that the people that operate their Sea Food and Poultry Department know as much about fowl and fish as Petrini's do about meat. Here, Walt Milani, Fish and Poultry manager, shows Janice a choice portion of the Silver Salmon. Again years of experience bring the finest from the fishing fleet to Petrini customers. What's more, the choice delicacies from other seas are flown into Petrini's, daily. Poultry, however, is California grown, on farms that the Petrini buyers know. Volume buying contracts bring the finest birds to Marin—most always offered at prices less than those asked elsewhere on inferior quality. Janice learns that menu variety is only a few steps away at Petrini's.

PETRINI QUALITY PRODUCE HAS EVERYTHING FROM APPLES TO ZUCCHINI. It's easy to see that Janice can almost taste the lush sweetness of this firm, ripe watermelon Dario Del Testa is putting on display. Petrini's take their customers' confidence seriously. That is why produce selection is more than bargaining at the daily wholesale market. Petrini buyers not only know where the best fruits and vegetables originate, but they know the time of the year that the quality is superior; they know the soil they came from; the method of cultivation; the type of handling—everything about them. Naturally the greatest amount of produce comes from California, but if at certain times of the year a better crop is in (if you'll pardon the expression) from Florida—Petrini's brings it in. John Tarantino tells Janice that Petrini's takes pride in having the greatest selection of top quality produce every day of the year.

NO MATTER HOW YOU SLICE IT . . . IT'S THE BEST CHEESE IN MARIN. Janice visits Petrini's most exotic corner—the MAISON GOURMET. Cheese is only one item that Roland Grazzia imports from all over the world. John Tarantino lets Roland take over the discussion of delicacies, for here again, Petrini's have selected the people that know the gourmet food side of the business . . . that have the same exacting standards in operation. Roland tells Janice she can choose cheese from Holland, hams from Denmark, smoked herring from Norway, salami from Italy, liverwurst from Germany—and many, many others. Maison Gourmet does not ignore the fine domestic foods either, nor the foods that originated in other countries but are now produced in this country. Add top quality delicatessen foods to all these—and you can understand why Janice had a difficult time leaving Maison Gourmet in Petrini's at the Bon Air Shopping Center.

ACCENTUATE THE POSITIVE. The rule for good cosmetic use and even natural beauty as portrayed by Janice, becomes more alluring with subtle accents of her best features. That is why our future bride finds herself in the cosmetic department of the Greenbrae Pharmacy. Here, Milli Lazzarini, one of two cosmeticians on the staff of this popular pharmacy in the Bon Air Shopping Center, helps her select the right shade of lipstick. She can try it before she buys it for you don't leave beauty to chance. More than 50 famous cosmetic makers are represented, allowing the cosmeticians a wide selection in assisting their customers with their individual needs. When something new is discovered in beauty aids, the Greenbrae Pharmacy, is one of the first to have it for their customers. There's plenty of room and plenty of time . . . plus the comfort of the cosmetic bar that helps so much in making the perfect selection.

CAN'T HELP SMILING BEHIND THE WHEEL OF A DATSUN . . . that's why Jim Augustine, manager of Annex Motors, 535 Francisco Blvd., San Rafael, is always smiling. He puts so many people behind the wheel of a Datsun and sees so many smiles—he just can't keep from smiling, himself. Janice has just had a trial spin in the new Datsun '1600' sizzler. She's enthused with the smooth ride, easy handling the ease with which she puts the full synchromesh 4-speed stick through its paces. She admires the vinyl leather upholstery, smart carpeting and sport wheel discs. Don is impressed with the big 1600cc, 96 hp dual-carb engine; new disc brakes up front; new larger 14 inch wheels and that so many features are standard equipment. Both can vision speeding away on a happy honeymoon in the newest, smartest entry in the sports car field . . . and who knows, maybe they will.



HER BRIDAL GOWN WILL RETAIN ITS BEAUTY FOR DECADES. It's possible, Janice finds out at Meaders Cleaners in the Bon Air Shopping Center, Greenbrae. President Joseph J. Kearn explains Meaders' special "Heirloom" process to preserve the beauty of Janice's gown after the wedding. First, skilled spot detectives will uncover, analyze and remove reception spills and stains of which she may not even be aware. Then, the IBM card, held by Mr. Kearn will program the cleaning machine to the exact specifications of her delicate gown. Finally, scientific chemical impregnation and hermetic sealing in a laminated metal and plastic container will insure that it remains dainty and fresh until she is the "mother of the bride," with no fading or yellowing to mar the memory. It's extra services like this that have made Meaders Cleaners the Bay Area's finest for more than four decades. Janice realizes that they do "a little bit more" at Meaders.

EVERYTHING A BRIDE COULD WISH TO GRACE HER TABLE can be found at LOVES'. That is probably why most Marin brides register at this famed spot for fine china and silverware at 909 Fourth Street in San Rafael. For seventeen years this business has been a mecca for the about-to-wed. Janice admires the silver creamer from the coffee set on the table in the foreground as Mrs. Geneva Love points out the fine workmanship that typifies the quality of gift items maintained by the store. The many patterns in chinaware and table silver make it difficult for the prospective bride to make a choice . . . but it's a pleasure to have such a great selection to inspect. Once the decision is made, she can be happy with the feeling her selections are "just right" for her table. Now Janice knows why people just love gifts from Loves'.

FOR THAT MOST IMPORTANT TRIP IN A GIRL'S LIFE! Going-away shoes for the honeymoon should be carefully selected to complement not only the bride's outfits but most important —the bride herself. D'Alden's coordinating knowledge is well known throughout Marin County and makes it a fun day for lovely Janice to decide on her shoe trousseau. Heel and toe shapes must be carefully selected to fit the style and material of each outfit, as well as the personal taste of the bride, not necessarily mimicking what a fashion magazine says is the "in thing". A bride-to-be should select her shoes with her own individual taste and remember what her husband-to-be enjoys seeing her in as well. To make any event an event to remember, the D'Alden Shoe Salon at 890 Fourth Street, San Rafael, is a step in the right direction.

THE STORE WITH THE QUALITY RING. Janice and Don admire the wide selection of wedding rings at James L. Callan & Sons, Jewelers and learn from Jim Cheetham that there's more than quality merchandise within the Callan doors responsible for 39 successful years in the jewelry business. Service and know-how combine to set this store apart from the others. Naturally the collections from famous makers are a great asset. You can't ignore names like Gorham, Towle, Reed & Barton, International, Heirloom, and Kirk & Hunt in silver; or watches by Patek Philippe, Girard Perregaux, Universal, Wyler and others. With wedding band selection that ranges from 14k plain and decorated starting at $10; White and Yellow Gold from $125; and diamond wedding sets, the choice is unlimited. It's no wonder that most brides want to register at James L. Callan & Sons, designers and makers of fine jewelry, Fourth and B Streets, San Rafael.

HOW SWEET IT IS! That's the true, full color and sound of the Sylvania Color TV that Jack Tracy, Klein TV manager, demonstrates for Janice. This particular set is in maple and a decorative addition to any room. However, the large choice of cabinet design stocked by Klein TV gives the customer the opportunity to select the wood and style to fit her home decor. On top of the television is the new Grundig compact, portable tape recorder using cassette tape loading. Not one fraction of the startling Grundig fidelity has been sacrificed in this handy recorder. Janice also learns that Klein salesmen are qualified technicians—they really know the product. They know how to get the best results in all Marin locations. Klein TV stores are located at Francisco & Third, San Rafael; 729 Sir Francis Drake Blvd., San Anselmo; 14 Princess, Sausalito; Pacheco Plaza, Ignacio.

THE SOUND OF MUSIC—Janice listens as Red Dailey of Sherman Clay, San Rafael, instructs her in the simple operation of the Hammond H-100 organ. There has never been anything like it before—a musical adventure for everyone. So versatile, even a virtuoso will find it a challenge, yet so simple a beginner like Janice can play many familiar songs right from the start. Dailey also explained a Hammond H-100 Series organ is unmatched for versatility. With 28 control tabs and 18 pre-set keys, the wonderful sounds of harp sustain, banjo, chimes, glockenspiel, guitar, cymbal and brush, and many other exciting instruments come alive—instantly and automatically. The Hammond model shown here is just one of the many models available, ranging from the J-100 all transistor to the fabulous, incomparable X66 Theatre Console. All are available at Sherman Clay, Fourth & C Streets in downtown San Rafael. Open Wednesday & Friday nights till 9 p.m.

DO I DARE? WHY NOT? Mrs. John Maxson assures Janice that she can wear this striped bikini swim suit with its matching cover up by Cole with perfect ease. Or she can choose another from a wonderful collection of swimsuits at Mademoiselle, Marin. The finest styles for swimming and sunning have been assembled from, not only Cole, but Lanz and Villager, too. The perfect solution, of course, is to pick several . . . right for any occasion. Janice took time out to inspect Mademoiselle's veritable treasure of trousseau complements. She appreciated the time and assistance given by an experienced staff which has counseled so many brides-to-be in Marin. Equally pleasing is the revelation that though styles and materials are the finest . . . prices are most reasonable. Mademoiselle, Marin in the Bon Air Shopping Center, Greenbrae, is a wonderful place for the bride to outfit herself for the wedding and all other activities.

A LIGHT SUBJECT—BUT IMPORTANT! How to make a choice when you have a selection of light fixtures such as those being viewed by Janice and Don. Gene Young gives them a guided tour through a forest of lights at Lights of Rafael in the Rice Center, San Rafael. He points with pride to the imported Swedish pear lights, a masterpiece of fine craftsmanship. One thing is certain for any Marin homemaker: one is bound to find the right fixtures at Lights of Rafael. Further, they can plan interior, exterior and landscape lighting through their combination of decorator's taste and sound electrical engineering—an ideal solution to all lighting problems. What could you do with grand chandeliers or the novelty table lamp with a fire extinguisher base, in the foreground? It's a delight to browse through Lights of Rafael, on Jacoby street, just off Francisco Boulevard West in the J. B. Rice Center, San Rafael.

CARPET IN THE KITCHEN? Not only in the kitchen, but the bathroom, around the swimming pool, on the boat dock or a substitute for lawn if you wish. Janice and Don learn that this great new wearever carpet by Lees can absorb all kinds of punishment—clean easily to new-like lustre for years. Mrs. Frank McAtee, wife of Rafael Carpets owner, tells them of her lawn in Bel Marin Keys that is entirely carpeted and has been featured in the nation's leading publications. She also shows them the great selection in patterns and colors that are available in this magic carpet. Rafael Carpet also carries a complete stock of traditional carpets, and it's a wonderful place for a young couple to visit and gain the aid they need in making the right selection—without straining their budget. You'll like Rafael Carpets, too, in the Rice Center on Jacoby Street, San Rafael—just off Francisco Blvd., West. Please phone 456-5016.

THEY'RE TRAVELING ON CLOUD 9 BUT THEIR CAR NEEDS GOOD TIRES! Don Holton finds the Kelly Springfield tire that suits them best. He points out the features to Janice . . . who's not sure she understands, even with John Farr of Triple S adding a few points. However, Janice can be assured should she have to bring her car into Triple S, they'll not only take good care of it, but will spend all the time needed in explaining their procedures. John urges that the couple bring their car in for the free Triple S safety check before their wedding trip. Triple S not only has one of the most complete selection of tires in Marin . . . they are quite emphatic on auto safety—they like to keep their customers. Oh, yes, Janice asked and John answered—Triple S stands for Service, Savings and Safety. They have two locations in San Rafael: just off Francisco Blvd., West on Jacoby, and at the Wye at Second and Fourth Streets.

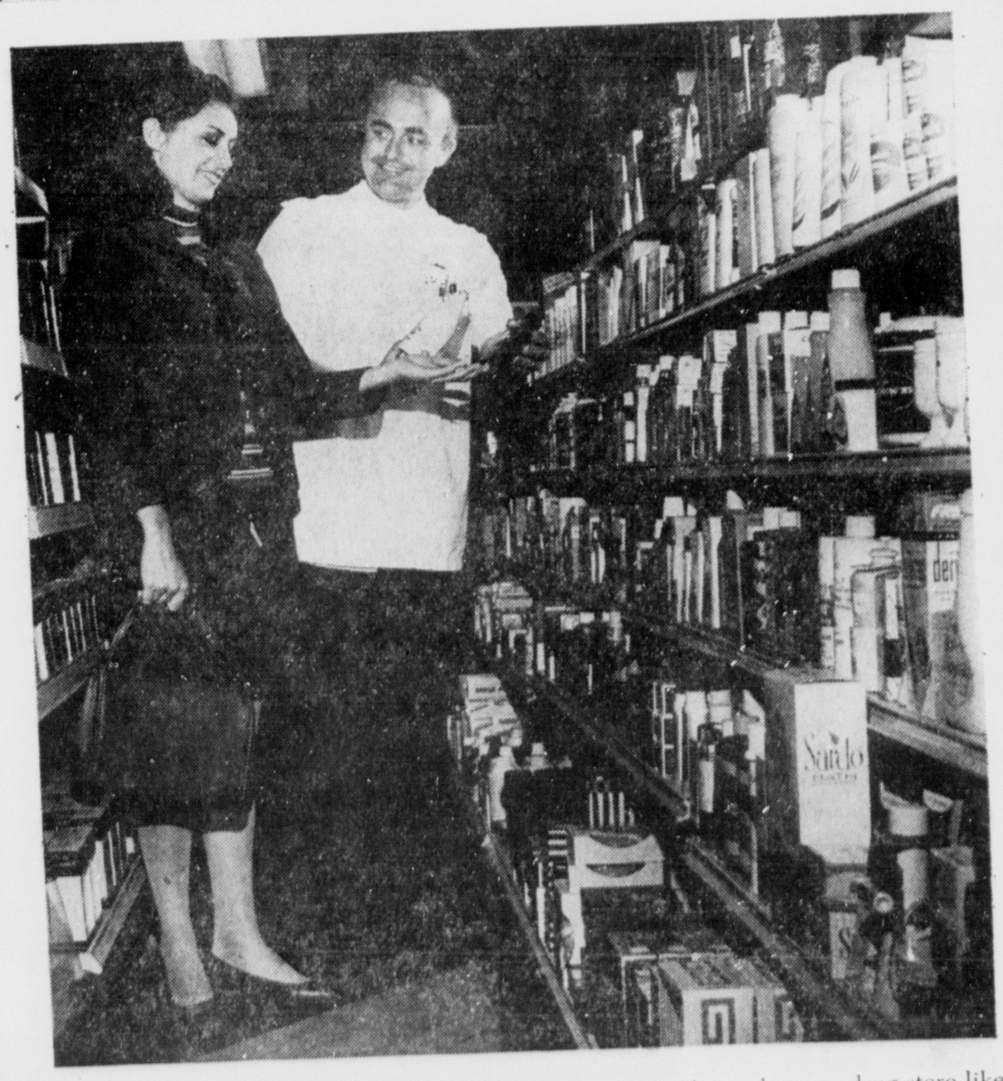
SOMETHING OLD—SOMETHING NEW! Janice visits the holiday and bridal department at the recently opened, new location of Marin Fabric Center in downtown San Rafael. In establishing their new bridal department, Marin Fabric Center and their bridal fashion consultant searched the entire fabric market to come up with an outstanding collection of all the special fabrics and fancies that brides have always loved . . . Venise, Cluny, Chantilly, Alencon and imported re-embroidered laces. Whether your wedding plans are large or small, Marin Fabric invites you to visit and discuss your plans with their friendly and helpful bridal consultant. In addition to the new bridal department Janice will also be interested in the new home decoration department to be opened around July 1, which will include full drapery, upholstery, bedspread and pillow selections, plus a full department of drapery hardware and trimmings. Marin Fabric Center's new location is at 836 Fourth Street, San Rafael, Phone 456-6805.

BRIDES ALL OVER THE BAY AREA are making reservations for their wedding reception to be held at Sabella's of Marin. Family heirloom silver is used in the traditional serving pieces such as the punch bowl, and ornate candelabra. A large reception room will accommodate from 50 to 300 people. Sabella's of Marin, according to Lou Sabella, general manager, features exciting ice sculpture, always a dramatic addition to the superb buffet table that is replete with a mouth watering choice of hors d'oeuvres. Sabella's have an album showing photographs of the different selections available and thus the bride-to-be can choose what appeals to her most. Lou is shown helping Janice select her wedding reception. Sabella's, a family restaurant, is open seven days a week for lunch and dinner. Located on Highway 101 at Richardson Bay Bridge it also operates a retail store.



HELP! THERE'S ALL KINDS AT YOUR PHARMACY! Especially if you choose a drug store like Webb & Rogers. Personalized service is the keynote of this friendly store. Janice is already running errands for her future husband . . . and Allan Hanson comes out of the prescription department to discuss shaving creams and after-shave lotions. As Webb & Rogers owner, Allan points out the items most men prefer. At the same time he reminds her that outfitting the new home, a first aid kit is important—most new homemakers fail to think of this until the first finger is cut. Knowing that budgeting is important, he also explains Webb & Rogers' charge account system . . . and that tax deductible items are progressively totaled on each monthly statement. Janice also learns of the fast, efficient prescription service that includes free delivery. There really isn't another drug store like Webb & Rogers in all Marin, so she'll probably do a lot of shopping in this pharmacy at Fourth and B Streets in San Rafael.

'NEATH THE "OLD MADRONE TREE" Bride-to-be Janice Baysinger relaxes while Kay Belfor of Michelle Craig shows her a pretty new dress. Here at last, Janice has found the perfect casual dresses and sportswear needed for the most important event of her life. She can complete her trousseau in this friendly atmosphere and find in an hour what she's been trying to find for weeks. A white "pucker-up" grouping (on the tree) accented with ivy green sheer dot from Country Set can serve as a going-away suit . . . switch from skirt to pants and she's up, up and away. She's delighted with the black and white voile Denise design as a dinner dress for a romantic evening in a tiny hideaway. MICHELLE CRAIG has two stores to serve the fashion-conscious woman: 307 Third St. in the Montecito Plaza in San Rafael or 2070 Union St., San Francisco.

MARRIAGES MAY BE MADE IN HEAVEN but perfect weddings are created in the Jon Robert Bridal Salon. Miss Vi, Jon Robert Bridal Consultant who has dressed Marin's most beautiful brides for the past eight years, adjusts the head-dress she has created for our bride. It's imported English silk illusion veiling and Alencon lace, crowned with a cluster of seed pearls. The gown, young and fresh as the bride herself, is a tender Empire, A-line shaping of silk organza re-embroidered with Alencon lace. The two-panelled cathedral train is also of imported English silk illusion veiling. Custom veiling is just one of the inimitable personal services Miss Vi provides her brides. She and her staff stand by to carry out all of the wedding arrangements, to the tiniest detail. And there is always a bountiful selection of bridesmaid dresses, mother of the bride fashions, trousseau lingerie and resort clothes at Jon Robert, Montecito Shopping Center.

FOR THE NEW BRIDE AND HER FIRST KITCHEN—everything from basics like a wisk that Julia Child uses, to souffle dishes in all sizes, to casseroles, to frivolous essentials like aprons and potholders in smashing prints and colors plus a hundred other items for colorful cooking and serving. For the Bride's convenience, DESIGNERS' GALLEY maintains a Bridal Registry, listing the Bride's preferences and eliminating duplications. Many brides have arranged for kitchen showers from DESIGNERS' GALLEY as well as picking out those important wedding gifts like a coordinated set of cookware or a foudue set. Owner Jim Hughes shows Janice an item from a set of coordinated cookware. The store even has professional-size butcher blocks for the really serious young housewife. DESIGNERS' GALLEY, 285 Third, in the Montecito Plaza, San Rafael, 453-2421.

BEAUTY ISN'T A MATTER OF OCCASION—whatever your years—these can be your loveliest. And to make the most of your looks, the remarkable JOLIE MADAME SALON is here to help. Andre, the true Virgoan, searches for a romantic line for Janice's wedding. Jacqueline with the "Now" smashing short hair lines to the talented Sandy, a genius with long hair for graduation? Ann, with her exacting clientele from San Francisco; Marion, the Mod London girl, with her mini-perms and curly locks—liable to change any day to waves perhaps. Gerry says a pretty hair style loses its effect if the hand is not well kept. From blonde to raven black, coloring is kept natural . . . combined razoring and scissor cutting with sharp-face outlines for curls, curls, curls . . . permanent waving—thick, soft and durable for the all-curl girl. JOLIE MADAME, 253 Third St., San Rafael, Montecito Plaza, 453-8811.

Marinite Paul Turner Will Again Play Key Role In KQED's Auction

Last year, Paul Turned of San Rafael, director of operations at KQED, Channel 9, let himself get slapped in the face with a pie to draw attention to the annual KQED auction.

This year he hopes he won't have to go that far, but he'll do almost anything to help raise money for the listener-supported station. Paul is just one of 140 employees who will turn themselves inside out from Sunday through next Saturday when the auction is telecast alive and in color from San Francisco's Palace of Fine Arts.

NOW IN ITS 14th season, the auction raises from $200,000 to $300,000 each year, and most of the work is done by some 2,000 volunteers, they work for several months before the auction and weeks afterwards getting items paid for and delivered.

As director of operations, Turner has year-round charge of engineering, remote broadcasting trucks, the art department, film and staging, but when auction week arrives he puts on other hats as well, and a 10-hour day stretches almost around the clock.

He will be an auctioneer and rotating announcer as well as producer in charge of major gifts — things like fast new cars and safaris. He is also in charge of the tremendous logistics problem in moving all of the innards of KQED — lights, cameras, video machines and people — from their scattered digs in downtown San Francisco to the Palace of Fine Arts.

PAUL TURNER
A pie in the face

NEW PROBLEMS will confront the operations director at the Palace.

Lighting for color telecast is crucial and will be a challenge in the sprawling hall. Sound reproduction is another problem, but with 14 years of television experience behind him, Turner is equal to the challenge.

Turner's work at KQED is a series of conferences. With a million-dollar budget for his department he has to work closely with the program manager, chief engineer and the art department to coordinate everyone's job into a smoothly running operation. Since KQED has increased its hours by some 60 per cent this year and has hired 20 staff members, including eight engineers, operations has become a department of its own, with Turner as coordinator and trouble shooter.

THE AUCTION is a seven-day marathon with no retakes and hundreds of complications. The pace is breathtaking, with 50,000 items to be shown and sold to the highest bidder.

The need for dollars is greater than ever at KQED for two reasons — Ford Foundation funds are not forthcoming (the station has outgrown this support) and Channel 9 has plans to break ground next year for a new station suited to its particular needs at Second and Harriston streets.

"We need three million dollars over the next few years for a second channel — an ultra high frequency station, Channel 60, and for new equipment, principally a transmitter," Turner explained. Only through another channel can requests be met for high school and college courses and special series for business, industry and the medical profession, he said.

KQED IS supported entirely by community contributions and has 2,000 members in Marin alone. Donations are tax deductible, as is merchandise donated to the auction.

When Turner isn't at KQED he enjoys hiking and exploring beaches toward Sonoma with his 16-year-old son, a sophomore at Terra Linda High, and an accomplished artist and musician, his father says proudly.

Turner has lived in Marin for seven years and finds the county a welcome relief from the hot lights and increasing demands of a television career.

Negroes Make TV Job Gains

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Peyton Place" adds a Negro family this fall.

Diahann Carroll stars in her own dramatic series. Three Negroes will be among its script-writers.

Yes, as you may already have noticed, more Negroes than ever are working in television.

IN MOVIES, too. The first feature film ever directed by a Negro rolls this summer. And in two films Negroes will co-star romantically with whites — Lena Horne with Richard Widmark, Raquel Welch with Jim Brown.

Brown, the football star, turned actor, will play love scenes with the shapely Miss Welch in "100 Rifles," an outdoor adventure drama from 20th Century-Fox.

Miss Horne will portray Widmark's sweetheart who marries him near the end of a Universal Western, "Patch." It will be Lena's first non-singing movie performance.

ONCE NEGROES were almost non-existent on the screen, or were caricatures, the foils for harsh, stereotyped comedy. In response to pressure from civil rights groups, they began getting more and better parts. "Tokenism," many called it.

A bigger break-through has come in, roughly, the last year.

Not that Negroes have it made in their drive for more work before and behind the cameras. Far from it, especially behind.

DIAHANN CARROLL
A series of her own

Negro comedian who became a civil rights activist.

He says: "They're not fooling anyone with what they're doing, throwing out a bone here and there."

Don Mitchell, Raymond Burr's Negro aide on "Ironside," says more Negro actors are working, but behind the camera "There's not a single Negro stuntman, electrician, cameraman — you name it. They just don't exist."

A NEGRO booker of Negro movie-television talent says her business is up nearly 150 per cent over last year.

Latest available statistics compare the third quarter of 1966 with the third quarter of 1967:

1967 — 30 movies, 93 Negroes.

The television comparison is similar. For Negro technicians hired in both movies and television in the three-month periods the increase was: 1966 — 84; 1967 — 108.

ANY TELEVISION viewer realizes that more Negroes now appear in commercials, usually with white performers.

Negro players plug deodorants, mouthwash, toothpaste, salad oil, carbonated water, soft drinks, airlines, toys, beer, cigarettes, life insurance, cameras, etc.

The movies' first Negro feature director is Gordon Parks, author, composer and for 20 years a Life magazine photographer. He's filming tests before taking his cameras to Fort Scott, Kan., to film his autobiographical novel, "The Learning Tree," for Warner Bros.-Seven Arts.

PARKS CREDITS studio head Ken Hyman with "a lot of guts for hiring me. He gave me the chance because he believes I can do it and not because I'm a Negro," Parks told the Hollywood Reporter.

Exclusive of actors, Universal Studio employs 393 Negroes, an increase of about 10 per cent over a year ago and nearly 10 per cent of its total employment — 4,200. Many are office workers.

Three years ago, Variety noted, the television industry "was truly surprised when NBC-TV and executive producer Sheldon Leonard cast Bill Cosby as co-star with Bob Culp in 'I Spy,' but today crossing television's color line is a common occurrence."

THREE ABC-TV shows premiering this fall, "Land of

LENA HORNE
First non-singing role

the Giants," "The Outcasts" and "The Mod Squad," will have Negro regulars. At NBC, "I Spy" has been dropped, but Miss Carroll will start her series, "Julia," with a 6-year-old playing her son. Negroes continue on "Star Trek" and "Ironside." NBC has signed comedian Flip Wilson to what it calls a long-term contract.

Why the upsurge in Negro employment?

Says Lillian Cumber, the talent agent whose business has increased nearly 150 per cent:

"Basically it's economics. Civil rights groups have been demanding that the industry use more Negroes and if it doesn't they're going to boycott certain products. Movies see that something is successful, and they follow the tide."

Record Marin Turnout Expected On Tuesday

Election Showdowns Near As Heated Campaigns Move Into Final Stages

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Marin voters are expected to turn out in record numbers Tuesday in a primary election that has been hotly fought from the presidential to the supervisorial levels.

The polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Marin's deputy county clerk for elections, John F. Musser Jr., predicts that more than three-quarters of the 88,262 registered voters in the county will go to the polls.

Republican registration for the election is 43,688, with Democratic strength up to 39,718.

CALIFORNIA'S two new parties have small registrations in Marin, with the ultra-liberal Peace and Freedom Party totaling 1,869, and former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace's conservative American Independent Party totaling 161.

A total of 116 candidates for the U.S. Senate, House of Representatives, California Assembly, Marin County Board of Supervisors, Marin Superior Court, Marin Municipal Water District, nine sanitary and community services districts and county central committees filed for the election. However, the names of candidates for some offices will not appear on the ballot because there are no contests for those offices.

In the presidential race, Gov. Ronald Reagan, running as "a favorite son," will be the only name on the Republican ballot, although a former Californian, Richard M. Nixon, is the front-running GOP aspirant. Neither is his major challenger, New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, represented on the California ballot.

On the Democratic ballot, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy will be at top, followed by California Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch, who is heading an uncommitted slate of delegates to his party's convention, and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy. Vice President Hubert Humphrey is not entered in the California primary.

THE COVER

THIS special issue of the Independent-Journal's Marin Magazine is planned to help Marinites to acquaint themselves with the issues and the candidates in Tuesday's important primary election, and to aid them in reaching their electoral decisions. Most of its pages have been devoted to the various contests and propositions. Cover art, showing major presidential election figures, is by I-J staff artist Jack Lucey.

THE AMERICAN Independent Party will not have a primary contest for president because it is thoroughly committed to Wallace as its candidate. The Peace and Freedom Party is to hold a state convention in July to select its presidential and vice presidential candidates.

In the U.S. Senate race, state Public Utilities Commissioner William M. Bennett of Kentfield will appear first on the Democratic ballot, followed by Walter R. (Buck) Buchanan of Venice, Los Angeles County, an educator; Alan Cranston of Los Angeles, former state controller under former Gov. Edmund G. Brown, and state Sen. Anthony C. Beilenson of Beverly Hills.

Republican candidates for the U.S. Senate are the incumbent, Thomas H. Kuchel of Anaheim, Orange County; Max Rafferty, state Superintendent of Public Instruction; James A. Ware of Los Angeles, business executive; Phil Cammack of Santa Monica, engineer, and W. C. Jones of Los Angeles, publisher.

THE PEACE and Freedom Party's candidate for the U.S. Senate, writer Paul Jacobs of San Francisco, is unopposed in the primary.

The American Independent Party has no candidate for U.S. Senate.

Musser estimated last December that the qualification of the Peace and Freedom and American Independent parties on the county ballot would hike the cost of the primary election by $6,000 to pay for printing the special ballots and for additional voting machines. He estimated the total cost of the primary in Marin at $25,000 to $30,000.

SEVENTEEN basic ballots are required in Marin Tuesday because of various district elections, and, because five ballots are required in each district, the county elections department has had to draw up a record 85 different ballots for Tuesday. Five are required for the four political parties' contests and one for voters who declined to state their party preference.

Write-in candidates are allowed in California only if the write-in candidate files a declaration of his candidacy with the county clerk where he wants his write-in votes to count. He also must pay the regular filing fee for that office.

Both the filing and the fee are due five days before the election.

FOR CONGRESS

Marin To Ballot In Two Districts

Tuesday's primary election will be the first in which Marin voters will cast ballots in two congressional districts.

The First District, represented by Republican Don H. Clausen of Crescent City, ran from the Golden Gate Bridge to the Oregon border until last year, when the Legislature redistricted the state and put most of Marin in San Francisco's Sixth District. The Sixth includes the western half of San Francisco.

The redistricting was ordered by the state Supreme Court to meet the U. S. Supreme Court's "one man, one vote" edict.

THE FIRST District now includes only Novato and West Marin north of Muir Beach. Clausen is seeking re-election to a fourth term. The Sixth District is represented by Republican William S. Mailliard, who is seeking a ninth term. Both are unopposed in their primaries.

Two Democrats are entered in the race in the Sixth District, Phillip Drath of San Rafael and William W. Turner of Mill Valley.

Two Democrats also are entered in the Democratic race in the First District, Donald W. Graham of Laytonville, Mendocino County, and Barry Gill of Napa.

NO PEACE and Freedom or American Independent party candidates filed in the Sixth District. In the First District, Adolph N. Hoffman of Santa Rosa is the unopposed candidate for the Peace and Freedom nomination, and Mrs. Gladys L. O'Neal of Carmichael, Sacramento County, is the unopposed candidate for the American Independent Party's nomination.

The state election code allows Californians to file for any congressional race in the state, regardless of where they live.

SIXTH DISTRICT REPUBLICAN

William S. Mailliard, 50, has been a professional public servant for the past 20 years, and a representative in Congress since 1952.

Mailliard is the ranking minority member of the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee, a senior member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, and serves on that committee's Far East and Pacific Subcommittee, State Department Organization and Foreign Operations Subcommittee, and Special Subcommittee for Review of the Mutual Security Programs.

In 1963, Mailliard was a delegate to the United Nations General Assembly. Since 1964, he has served as congressional adviser to the U. S. delegate to the Organization of American States.

Mailliard was born in Marin and grew up in San Francisco. He inherited wealth from his family's food brokerage business.

Mailliard graduated from Yale University in 1939, and entered the Navy for seven years. He was assistant naval attache at the U. S. Embassy in 1939 and 1940, then served in various posts and in the South Pacific. He is the only member of Congress who is a rear admiral.

After World War II, Mailliard served as assistant director of the California Academy of Sciences, assistant director of the California Youth Authority, and as secretary to Gov. Earl Warren.

He and his wife, Millicent, live in San Francisco and Bethesda, Md. They have seven children, four from his former marriage.

SIXTH DISTRICT DEMOCRATIC

Phillip Drath, 54, is a general contractor.

He was an unsuccessful "peace" candidate for the Democratic nomination in the First District in 1966, but narrowly lost to Marin Supervisor Thomas T. Storer.

Drath says the main issues facing the nation "are the American confrontation in Asia and the confrontation between the black community and the white in this country. Unless some basic changes are made," he warns, "tragedy is imminent."

Drath favors a foreign policy "which is free from expansionism and power politics, and a national policy which supports the material and spiritual good of all Americans. I want to see to it that the money we now waste killing people overseas is used to help people here at home."

The war in Vietnam is "immoral and indefensible and should be ended," he declares. A Quaker, Drath long has supported peace causes.

Last year, he sailed to North Vietnam to carry medical supplies to civilian war casualties.

Drath and his wife, Marjorie, live at 35 Bellevue Drive, San Rafael.

William W. Turner, 41, is a senior editor of Ramparts, a liberal political magazine published in San Francisco.

Turner was a special agent with the Federal Bureau of Investigation for 10 years, but was fired in 1961 when he asked Congress to investigate the FBI. He says he has been "actively involved" in the assassination investigation by New Orleans District Attorney James Garrison.

Turner's principal campaign plank has been a call for a new investigation of the assassination. He also favors reform of the CIA. "The over-inflation of our so-called security establishments and the right-wing mentality that directs it has been a major contributory factor to the policy, domestic and foreign, that has created strife in Vietnam and at home," he says.

Turner opposes wiretapping, and has called for a ceasefire of the Vietnam War during peace talks.

A native of New York, he moved to Mill Valley almost four years ago. He and his wife, Margaret, live at 925 Vernal Avenue. They have one son.

FIRST DISTRICT REPUBLICAN

Don H. Clausen, 44, was a Del Norte County supervisor and operated an insurance business and a flying service before his election to Congress in 1963.

Clausen attended schools in Ferndale and college at San Jose State. During World War II, he served in the South Pacific as a Navy carrier pilot.

Some of his accomplishments for Marin cited by Clausen are: appropriations to acquire and develop Point Reyes National Seashore; establishment of the Oceanographic Research Center in Tiburon, and flood control funds for Coyote Creek in Tamalpais Valley and Corte Madera Creek in Ross Valley.

Clausen is a member of the House Public Works subcommittees on flood control, roads, rivers and harbors and economic development.

Clausen says that Asian nations threatened by communism should conduct their own wars, and that South Vietnamese and free Asian military units, with our material help, could replace Americans in the war within one year.

Clausen and his wife, Ollie, live in Crescent City when they are not in Washington, D. C. They have two daughters.

FIRST DISTRICT DEMOCRATIC

Barry Gill, 46, is a Napa city councilman, and teaches English and humanities at Napa Senior High School.

He is a former member of the Napa County Democratic Central Committee and former president of the Napa Democratic Club.

A native of Minnesota, Gill graduated from San Francisco State College and did graduate work in political science at the University of California. During World War II, he served as a cryptographer in the Army Air Force.

"I am convinced that the basic cause for much of the unrest in our society is the war in Vietnam," he says, adding the war should be ended "by a negotiated settlement between all of the warring parties."

Charging that the war has caused the U. S. to neglect major domestic issues, Gill says the war "also has caused young people to lose their confidence in the ability of the American system to work.

"We need a resurgence of hope and belief," he says. "The country can't afford to be polarized into warring camps or victimized by politicians who escalate the prevailing cynicism and despair."

Gill and his wife, Rosemary, live in Napa. They have six children.

Donald W. Graham, 32, is a fifth grade teacher at Laytonville Elementary School in Mendocino County. He also teaches public administration and political science at Santa Rosa Junior College and at the John F. Kennedy University in Martinez.

He is president of the Mendocino County Young Democrats and a member of the Mendocino County Democratic Central Committee.

A native of West Virginia, he received a master's degree in public administration at Golden Gate College and attended Golden Gate Law School for two years.

Graham served as a Navy officer during the Korean War.

He urges "an honorable peace" in Vietnam. "We have succeeded in containing communism as indeed we should have," he says, "but now it is time to negotiate a settlement that will continue to contain them, as in Korea, but will end the sacrifice of American lives and American resources."

FIRST DISTRICT PEACE AND FREEDOM

A native of New York, he attended the universities of Frieburg and Berlin in Germany, and Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, Md. He previously taught at Hofstra College in New York and at the University of San Francisco.

Hoffman urges immediate withdrawal from Vietnam, adding that the U. S. is losing the war there. He says he does not "ascribe to the theory of Communist world domination, but views the Vietnamese War as a struggle for national determination."

"War has become the American way of life and our chief export," he declares.

"If we dare to make changes in a radically sick society," Hoffman argues, "a new life will be possible with even higher standards of living."

Bagley Challenged Within His Party

Assembly Race Also Attracts Democratic, Minor Party Hopefuls

The Seventh Assembly District, which includes all of Marin and the southern portion of Sonoma County, has been represented since 1960 by Republican William T. Bagley.

Bagley is seeking re-election this year, and is opposed in Tuesday's primary by Charles C. (Clay) Barham of Novato.

The Peace and Freedom Party has no candidate.

Because they are unopposed, Mertle and Bionda automatically will face the winner of the Republican primary in the November general election.

ROBERT E. MERTLE
Unopposed Democrat

He is chairman of the Assembly Judiciary Committee and a member of the government organization and the revenue and taxation committees. Bagley also is a representative of the Legislature on the State Judicial Council and on the California Council on Criminal Justice.

Bagley promises to "fight to achieve economy in state government, equality of opportunity for all peoples, solutions to core city problems, and progress for our North Bay community."

Born in Woodacre, Bagley attended San Rafael schools, graduated from the University of California and received his law degree from the University of California Law School in 1952.

Bagley, who has had close associations in the past with Richard M. Nixon and Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, said he will work to elect whomever is the GOP presidential nominee. A member of the moderate Republicans in the Assembly, Bagley supported George Christopher for governor in the 1966 GOP primary.

Bagley's opponent charges that Bagley "is a better Democrat than a Republican," but Bagley has the endorsements of the GOP leaders in the Assembly and of the past three chairmen of the Marin County Republican Central Committee.

Bagley helped write the state's "open documents" bill and this year has authored legislation to replace the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District with either a San Francisco-Marin district or a regional Golden Gate Authority, to further improve public access to public records, to open to the public meetings of the University of California Board of Regents, to reform bail procedures, to provide new compensatory education programs in core cities, to increase summer employment of youths, to require the state to pay interest on overdue claims by local agencies, and to consolidate state tax collection agencies.

CHARLES C. (CLAY) BARHAM, 35, is executive secretary to San Rafael cosmetics tycoon William Penn Patrick, an unsuccessful ultra-conservative candidate for governor in 1966.

WILLIAM T. BAGLEY

CHARLES C. BARHAM
Seeks Bagley seat

A native of San Francisco, Barham majored in chemical engineering at San Francisco City College. He served in the Army in Trieste, Italy, in 1951 and 1952.

Barham moved to Marin last August.

He describes himself as "a real Republican." He was a precinct worker in San Mateo County for Barry Goldwater in 1964, and supported Joe Shell for governor in 1962. He was president of the Marin County Young Republicans, but resigned when he became a candidate.

"I oppose the mass trend towards centralized power and authority," he says, adding that "our first line of defense against excessive government is in Sacramento."

Nine of the 39 members of his initial campaign committee were found to be members of the American Independent Party of former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace.

Barham is opposed to any further state purchases of park land in Marin. "Why not seek open space park reserves in the more scenic land-locked counties of the state, instead of taking more and more land off the tax rolls here?" he asks.

Barham sharply criticizes what he terms the state's "crisis in higher education," urging that teachers be paid "in proportion to their class time."

Barham charges that "the permissiveness of our judiciary has brought us to the point of disaster," and that the U.S. Supreme Court "has completely altered our form of government."

He and his wife, Joanne, live at 13 Thornton Court, Novato. They have two children.

ROBERT E. MERTLE, 38, is a businessman and active Democratic Party worker who lost a bid for the Democratic nomination for assemblyman two years ago to James E. Pockrus.

Mertle is a member of the Marin County Democratic Central Committee.

A graduate of the University of California with a bachelor of science degree in business administration, Mertle is founder and president of Pelafoam, Inc., a Richmond firm making plastic foam insulation and packaging materials. He also is vice president of Luma Industries, producer of polyethylene coffee can lids and strawberry baskets.

In 1966, he served as county chairman for Supervisor Thomas T. Storer's unsuccessful congressional campaign in the First District.

He is a member of the Marin Council for Civic Affairs, the Marin Committee for Fair Play and the Marin Conservation League.

Mertle favors "tax reform to rescue the overburdened homeowner, and equality in jobs, housing and education."

He and his wife, Dixie, live at 12 Tarrant Court, Santa Venetia. They have three children.

AL R. BIONDA JR., the American Independent Party candidate, favors repeal of the Rumford Housing Act.

"The basic human right of private ownership of property is a symbol to the whole world," he states. "It's a symbol because most of the world's people do not have this right."

He charges that Governor Reagan and Bagley have joined "in deserting their own party platform, promises and principles" in supporting the open housing law.

"Why Did My Cleaner Refuse to Clean My Suit?"

Your suit is trimmed with suede leather. Your cleaner was wise in declining to clean the garment because the leather is dyed with a fugitive dye. The dye, in cleaning, would have bled into your suit. You would have been most unhappy.

There appears to be a rising number of complaints about the color from leather trim, both suede and grain leathers, bleeding when drycleaned. In most situations where bleeding does occur your professional cleaner may be able to remove the fugitive dye. However, the process may make it necessary to redye the leather to restore its color.

Your cleaner, apparently, tested the leather trim on your suit. When the dye bled, he wisely refrained from cleaning it.

The Supervisorial Contests—

Voters in three of Marin's five county supervisorial districts will vote Tuesday to seat at least one—and up to three—new supervisors.

Incumbent supervisor Ernest N. Kettenhofen in the Second District and Thomas T. Storer in the Fourth District face strong challenges in their campaigns for re-election to second four-year terms.

Third District Supervisor Peter H. Behr is not seeking re-election, and six persons are seeking his seat, Margaret B. Azevedo, Rev. Samuel L. Banks Jr., Bernardino A. (Ben) Farlatti, Carl Hepp, Donald J. O'Leary and Michael Wornum.

IN THE FOURTH District, incumbent supervisor Thomas T. Storer is opposed by Louis H. (Bud) Baar and Richard I. Lynch. The name of Michael D. Healy will also appear on the ballot, but he withdrew this week as an active candidate.

The outcome of the Second District race, Kettenhofen and Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., will be determined Tuesday. But in the Third and Fourth districts, unless one of the candidates manages to get a majority of the votes cast in his district, the two top vote getters in each will have a run-off in the Nov. 5 general election.

The terms of supervisors John F. McInnis in the First District and William A. Gnoss in the Fifth District do not expire for two years.

THE SECOND District includes Fairfax, San Anselmo, Sleepy Hollow, Ross, Kentfield and Greenbrae. The Third District includes southern Marin south of the Corte Madera ridge. The Fourth District includes most of Corte Madera and Larkspur, portions of San Rafael, and Kentfield, San Geronimo Valley, and West Marin, including Bolinas and Stinson Beach.

SECOND DISTRICT

Ernest N. Kettenhofen, 51, is the 1963 chairman of the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

Before his election to the board in 1964, Kettenhofen served as president of the board of Marin General Hospital. He is on the board of governors of the California Maritime Academy, where he graduated with a bachelor of science degree.

He also serves as a director of the Redwood National Bank in San Rafael.

During World War II, Kettenhofen was a Navy reserve officer and a captain in the Merchant Marine.

Kettenhofen owns a ranch in Lake County, a resort at Lake Tahoe, the Industrial Center Building in Sausalito and an apartment building in San Anselmo.

He defines the major issues in Marin as "property tax reform, efficent government, balanced transportation which excludes a freeway in the Ross Valley, and orderly economic development of Marin while conserving the natural beauty of the county for both the residents of today and of the future."

Both Kettenhofen and Storer claim authorship of the board of supervisors' vote to "freeze" this fiscal year's property tax rate of $2.30 per $100 assessed valuation for next fiscal year, too.

To charges by his opponent that he favors a freeway through the Ross Valley, Kettenhofen says, "I and my opponent both are utterly against any east-west freeway. The only difference is that I think he is right in agreeing with me, and he thinks I am wrong in agreeing with him." Kettenhofen favors a scenic road through a northern ridge route.

He and his wife, Polly, live at 78 Alta Vista Avenue, San Anselmo. They have two boys and two girls.

Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., 36, is an assistant manager of a San Francisco investment firm.

He was a member of the Fairfax City Council from 1964 until April, when he did not seek re-election in order to run for county supervisor. He served as mayor in 1966 and 1967.

Arrigoni also served for two years on the Fairfax Park and Recreation Commission before being elected to the council.

A native of San Francisco, he attended elementary and high schools in San Francisco, and was graduated from the College of Marin and the University of Arizona with a bachelor's degree in business and economics.

Arrigoni served as a Coast Guard officer from 1953 to 1955.

"Urban sprawl at its worst" will ruin Marin within 10 years unless "adequate steps" are taken now to solve problems of transportation, taxes, conservation, flood control and planning, he warns.

"I do not pretend to have all the answers," he says, "but I am convinced there is too much idle talk and not enough action, too many ineffective reports and studies and not enough implementation," says Arrigoni.

Highway 1 and 17 should be removed from the state freeway system, Arrigoni says, so a scenic parkway to West Marin can be developed. He also urges chartered buses for commuter groups and pressure to force Greyhound to improve its service.

Arrigoni and his wife, Patricia live at 35 Oak Tree Lane, San Anselmo. They have two sons.

THIRD DISTRICT

Margaret B. Azevedo, 53, has been a county planning commissioner since January, 1965, and also served on the commission from 1956 to 1959. She was chairman in 1966 and 1967.

"I've spent 15 years gaining knowledge of the county's problems and taking leadership in seeking solutions," she says. "I've helped to organize homeowner groups, school bond elections, foundations to save tidelands and seashores, and conferences on the future of Marin.

"I've served on state and local commissions on planning and transportation; now I'd like to put this experience to use in elected office."

A native of Berkeley, she graduated from the University of California, then worked as a recreation director for Oakland and for a Works Progress Administration program in Oakland. During World War II, she was a supervisor of community services in war housing projects.

MICHAEL WORNUM

She calls for "effort to preserve environmental values and still accommodate development growth," promotion of a bus-ferry system, and a shift of some of the local property tax load to state and federal sources.

Government should be run in a businesslike way, but cannot be run as a business, she says.

Marin has "a strong tendency to grow only for the rich," she says, "but we need middle and low income housing, too." She defends her vote for Marincello on the ground that "we have to accommodate growth positively and intelligently."

at 1877 Centro West, Tiburon. He is principal of Pacific Heights Adult School in San Francisco. They have two children.

Rev. Samuel L. Banks Jr., 41, is pastor of the Village Baptist Church, a congregation he founded in Marin City in 1958.

A native of Arkansas, he went to high school in Vallejo, served in the Navy and later graduated from the College of Marin and San Francisco Baptist College.

Banks served two years on the Marin County Committee on Racial Discrimination.

In 1965, he founded an organization called Negro Enterprise "to seek freedom through self help."

Banks favors a statewide petition being circulated to eliminate property taxes, declaring that taxpayers are not getting "their full money's worth." Government's need should be financed from income taxes, he says.

Banks also favors a guaranteed annual income.

"My concern is the entire climate of Marin County, with conservation of property, conservation of life, and conservation of our collective ideas," he says.

Banks and his wife, Bobbie, live at 73 Buckelew Street, Marin City. They have one son.

Farlatti is a director of the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau, president of the Tiburon Chamber of Commerce, president of the Marin County Hotel and Motel Association, and a director of a corporation that operates parking lots at San Francisco International Airport.

Government must be run as a business, he insists.

The best way to increase tax revenue would be through more tourism and clean industry in the county, he says, charging that the county government has prevented commercial development.

Farlatti also says that county employees can produce more than they are producing, and that local governments have been "overplanning and overstudying to a point of expensive inaction."

Farlatti favors improvement of Highway 101, rapid transit to San Francisco, amalgamation of water districts, and planning for the future by regulation "without so restricting the future, that we eliminate it."

Carl Hepp, 50, is a freelance advertising agent.

He is president of the Mill Valley Republican Assembly. He and his wife, Nan, are co-founders of the Parents Association for Neighborhood Schools.

and a member of the Mensa Society.

During World War II, he served as an infantry captain.

"Marin County's most urgent need is tax relief for the homeowner," he says, "and I will make every effort to effect economy in county administration if elected." He adds that he would "never presume to speak for the people except on administrative matters.

"I don't propose to spend the money better," he says, "I propose to save it."

Citing the increasing costs of county government, particularly in the planning department and county administrator's office, Hepp favors overhaul of "the Rube Goldberg contraption the county has for a tax structure."

He and his wife live at 155 Elm Avenue, Mill Valley. They have two daughters.

Donald J. O'Leary, 38, is an attorney and San Francisco business consultant.

A native of New York City, he graduated from the Georgetown School of Foreign Service and the Georgetown Law Center.

O'Leary served as a captain in the infantry during the Korean War.

He has served as chairman of the Experiment in International Living in Marin, and as chairman of the Tiburon Citizens Committee's commercial committee.

O'Leary served on the Tiburon Planing Commission and on the Marin County Human Rights Commission in 1966 and 1967.

He favors a five-point plan to hold down government costs: strict fiscal control, a "buy Marin" program, consolidation of special districts, property tax relief to the elderly and promotion of family tourism for extended stays in Marin.

"Marin cannot continue to increase already heavy property taxes on homeowners to support necesary county services and ignore the benefits of selective enticement of tax-producing industries to the county," he says. O'Leary adds that the county should sponsor a program to attract "non-polluting technical and research-oriented companies to base their western operations in Marin County."

He also calls for a three-point approach to Marin's transit problems: an efficient regular service of local buses moving on east-west roads connecting with high-speed buses moving north and south; water transportation to San Francisco and other points from several shoreline areas in Marin, and immediate planning for the eventual rapid transit and auto tubes that will connect Marin and San Francisco.

O'Leary and his wife, Loris, live at 5 Francisco Vista Court, Tiburon. They have two children.

Michael Wornum, 43, is an architect and planner, and recently opened his own city and regional planning firm in Sausalito.

He was elected to the Mill Valley City Council in 1960, and served as mayor in 1964 and 1965. He was a member of the city's Architectural Advisory Committee from 1958 to 1960.

Until Wornum left the council in April, he was chairman of the Marin County-City Service Committee, a member of the Association of Bay Area Governments' regional planning and goals and organization committees, a member of the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission and of the Bay Area Transportation Study Commission.

A fourth generation Marinite on his mother's side, he was a Royal Air Force flight officer in World War II.

Wornum favors a shift of taxes from property to income, a ferry system with connecting buses, replacement of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District with a Marin-San Francisco District, rezoning of Marincello to reduce its density, subsidization of Greyhound from bridge tolls, and a reversible lane on the bridge for buses and car pools.

Government should be businesslike, he says, but cannot be run purely as a business looking for the most financial return. Good planning and value judgments are required, not just a computation of money return, he says.

Marin must plan both for development and conservation "before the bulldozers appear — it's too late then," he says. "We can't afford conservation without development."

Supervisorial Contests Top Ballots In County

Supervisor in 1963 and unseated incumbent George H. Ludy. He served as chairman of the board last year.

Storer attended Merced High School and St. Mary's College, and graduated from the University of California and Hastings College.

He was wounded twice and decorated twice in the Korean War while serving as an infantry platoon leader with the Marine Corps.

Storer long has been an advocate of water transportation to solve the commuter logjam, and repeatedly calls for elimination of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District. The district's assets, however, should be turned over to a new agency responsible to Marin and San Francisco supervisors, he says.

Storer was the Democratic nominee for Congress in the First District two years ago, but lost to Republican Don H. Clausen.

He favors joint use of navigational facilities at Hamilton Air Force Base for military and civilian aircraft, with an industrial complex near the base, and increased recreational facilities.

Storer and Supervisor Kettenhofen each claim credit for the "freeze" of the county's property tax rate at $2.30 per $100 assessed valuation next fiscal year.

Storer also favors state legislation to exempt homeowners from increases in assessments when they make improvements.

Storer and his wife, Inez, live in Point Reyes Station. They have four children.

Louis H. (Bud) Baar, 50, has been a member of the San Rafael City Council for 11 years, and is a past chairman of the San Rafael Fire Commission.

A native of San Francisco, Baar graduated from Tamalpais High School and attended the College of Marin.

"The people of Marin and particularly of the Fourth District are suffering from a leadership gap on the board of supervisors," he says, adding that the present board has not "held the line on expenditures."

Baar favors a four-lane "scenic highway" along the east-west ridges to West Marin, and criticizes the county planning department for spending too much on advance planning, which he terms "daydreaming with what the future is going to bring."

The number of county employees must be cut, he says, charging that county government "is overspending and overbudgeting and has gone overboard on planning."

Baar also says he favors "meaningful tax relief, workable transit solutions, practical conservation policies" and economy in county government.

A native of San Francisco, Lynch attended Tamalpais High School. He served in the Navy during World War II.

Lynch says he would "like to do something about the mess Marin is in," adding that the county property tax rate "is just about the craziest thing in the whole world."

He favors a four-lane highway to West Marin, one-way toll collection on the Golden Gate Bridge, and less spending by the county.

Lynch says he wants to represent the ordinary citizen, and will fight for the unemployed and the unfortunates.

He and his wife, Elvera, live at 105 Baltimore Avenue, Corte Madera. They have four children.

Michael D. Healy, 35, a psychologist with the Mill Valley School District, was the fourth candidate to file for fourth district supervisor. However, earlier this week, he withdrew from the race and urged his supporters to vote for incumbent Storer.

Nevertheless, his name will still appear upon the ballot.

Healy said his withdrawal was based upon his concern that his candidacy might help Baar unseat Storer and charged that Baar "lacks not only the vision to deal effectively with the issues, (but) he also poses a threat to what progress has been made thus far in this county in its concern for the welfare of all its citizens."

Earlier he had criticized Storer for allegedly using his position "as a stepping stone to a judgeship and the congressional seat" and more specifically for voting in favor of Marincello and failing to support "the poor" in the War on Poverty controversy in the San Geronimo Valley last summer. In withdrawing, he emphasized that there were still philosophical disagreements between himself and Storer.

In his campaign, prior to his withdrawal, Healy had endorsed public transit and opposed freeways.

Special Districts Select Their Governing Boards

Seats on the governing boards of 10 special districts expire this year, but there are election contests in only four of the districts.

Six have no contests because the number of persons filing matched the number of seats which are expiring. In these districts, the persons who filed will be seated automatically, and their names will not appear on the Tuesday ballot.

THE CONTESTED elections are:

Marin Municipal Water District, Division 5 — Incumbent Robert G. Anderson of Sausalito and Arthur L. Crebassa of Tamalpais Valley, a teacher, for one seat. Division 5 includes Sausalito, Marin City, Tennessee and Tamalpais valleys, Tiburon and Belvedere.

Novato Sanitary District — Carlos Rivamonte and Edwin Grundstrom Jr., both incumbents; Kathleen F. Kilpatrick, housewife; Albert H. Tresch, property manager, and Betty Jean Machado, economic engineer, for two seats.

Marin City Community Services District — Jesse E. Berry Sr. and Arthur Miller Jr., incumbents; Mrs. Doretha Mitchell, community worker; Octavia O. Harris, housewife, and Frank J. Phillips Sr., barber, for two seats.

Muir Beach Community Services District — Frank F. Harris, incumbent; Richard C. Bain, civil engineer, and Dr. Jamshid A. H. Bakhtiar, for two seats.

THE UNCONTESTED elections are:

Bel Marin Keys Community Services District — James L. Zoeller and William C. Hanson, incumbents, and Anthony M. Sarganis, for three seats.

Homestead Valley Sanitary District — Gustaf F. Wolf, incumbent, Louis G. Harding and Medford J. Schwarz, for three seats.

Gallinas Village Community Services District — Herbert C. Belben Jr. and Walter E. Rudolph, incumbents, for two seats.

COURT JUDGE KEATING IS UNOPPOSED

The six-year term of Marin County Superior Court Judge Thomas F. Keating expires this year, and he is unopposed for re-election to his third elected term.

Keating, 62, served in the California Senate from 1937 to 1950. He resides at 63 Twin Oaks Drive, San Rafael.

State Bond Issues On Ballot

Two state general obligation bond issues will be on the primary ballot Tuesday.

Proposition 1, the Veterans Bond Act of 1968, would authorize the state to issue up to 200 million dollars in bonds to help California veterans to buy or improve homes or farms.

PROPOSITION 2, the Junior College Construction Bond Act of 1968, would allow the state to issue up to 65 million dollars in bonds to help local school districts build junior college facilities.

This proposition could help Marin Junior College District build a new campus at its Novato property, as well as new facilities. The district, however, would have to compete with 65 other districts for the funds.

Under Proposition 2, bond funds would be spent only after annual appropriation by the Legislature. The funds would be given to districts for specific projects on a matching fund basis, and local districts would be permitted to levy a special override tax to raise their share.

THE 1967 Legislature, when it passed Proposition 2 onto the voters, figured the bond funds would last for three years.

Proposition 1, if passed, would be the 14th state bond measure passed for veterans since 1921. The state has loaned over two billion dollars through veterans' aid programs.

Each proposition requires a simple majority to pass.

Local Issues Enliven Marin Primary Voting

Voters in several cities and special districts face eight local measures on Tuesday's ballot, from the Vietnam War to tax rates to bond measures:

Measure A — A $510,000 bond issue in the San Anselmo School District. Passage requires a two-thirds vote.

A $950,000 bond issue failed last October, and the district trustees reduced the proposed measure to take care "of only the most vitally needed projects."

These include a six-classroom unit at Red Hill School, a multipurpose structure for teaching, music training and physical education at Hidden Valley School, and correction of drainage problems at Sleepy Hollow School.

Measures B and C — A $350,000 bond issue (B) for a new central fire station, and a $200,000 bond issue (C) for a new central police and city administration building, both in Fairfax. Passage of each requires a two-thirds vote.

THE TWO measures were proposed by the past city council, but the new council voted its disapproval of the measures 3-2 on May 13, largely on the ground that the projects would be too expensive.

Measure D — A Sausalito resolution calling for a "political solution" to the Vietnam War. Passage requires a majority vote.

The measure commends President Johnson's peace initiative, and urges "that he further seek a political solution through negotiations with all parties involved."

MILL VALLEY voters passed a similar measure in April, before the President limited the bombing of North Vietnam and before peace negotiations began.

Measure E — A proposal by Sausalito School District trustees that the district's property tax rate for general purposes go from the present $2.25 to $2.40 per $100 assessed valuation. Passage requires a simple majority.

If the proposal fails, the rate will revert to 90 cents on July 1, set in 1937 by the voters as the district's base rate. The present rate has been in effect for the past nine years, but on March 5, voters defeated a proposed increase to $2.45 with an indefinite time limit.

THE DISTRICT'S overall tax rate is $3.255 this fiscal year, the total including the $2.25 general purpose rate, 50 cents in overrides, 47 cents to recoup losses in the area-wide fund and 3.5 cents in bond payments.

Measure F — A proposal to raise the property tax rate in the Marinwood Community Services District from the present $1 to $1.35 per $100 assessed valuation. Passage requires a majority vote.

Measures G and H — A proposal to unify the four elementary school districts in the Tomales Joint Union High School District and set up seven trustee areas (G), and to transfer to the proposed Tomales Joint Unified School District the liability for the bonded indebtedness of the existing districts as of June 30, 1969 (H).

Passage of the proposed unification requires a majority vote, and assumption of the debt requires a two-thirds vote. Both need area-wide approval.

THE FOUR districts are Tomales Bay Union, West Marin Union, Watson and Bodega Bay. The unification would be effective July 1, 1969.

The unification plan for the district, which includes a portion of Sonoma County, was drawn by the Marin County Committee on School District Organization. A similar measure was defeated by voters in 1964.

There are 13 candidates seeking the seven seats in the seven trustee areas. They will be elected at-large, but must live in the areas which they would represent if the unification is approved.

THE CANDIDATES are:

Area 1—Dr. Bruce B. Daniels of Point Reyes Station.

Area 4 — Roy A. Parks of Tomales, rancher; Herbert H. Angress of Marshall, dairyman, and David B. Burbank Jr. of Fallon.

Area 5 — Harold Meadows Jr., dairyman, and Joseph Tremari, Tomales High School District trustee, both of Petaluma.

Area 6 —Le Roy R. Erickson, rancher and carpenter; Mrs. Evelyn M. Mazzucchi, housewife, and Raymond A. Romelli, all of Valley Ford. Mrs. Clara Perucchi of Bodega Bay was a candidate, but withdrew from the race.

Area 7 — Mrs. N. Louise Passalacqua of Bodega Bay, unopposed.

51 Candidates File For Central Committee Posts

A total of 51 candidates filed for the county central committees of the Republican and Democratic parties, but, because the number of candidates matched the number of seats in some districts, only 30 will appear Tuesday on partisan ballots.

The state's two new parties, the Peace and Freedom and American Independent parties, also can have county central committees, but will have no balloting in Marin because only three candidates filed for the Peace and Freedom committee and none for the American Independent committee.

FILING FOR the 22-member GOP central committee in contested districts were:

Second District — Gerald E. Misner, Charles Michals, James McNab, Rodgers C. Broomhead, and Matthew A. Graham, incumbents, and Howard R. Onstott, Frank M. Sloan and Grant J. Halsing, for five seats.

Fourth District — Harry Diner, Frank P. Myer and Alfred J. Bianchi, incumbents, and Eric W. Lane, Jane King Fairchild and Paul R. Eastman, for four seats.

FILING FOR the GOP central committee in uncontested districts were:

Third District — David Winslow, Robert D. Huber, Tally P. Mastrangelo, Katharine J. Williams and Henry J. Broderick, all incumbents, for five seats.

Fifth District — Esther A. Schimbor, J. Wallis Madocks, and Edward V. Lathrop, incumbents, for three seats.

First District — Gary W. Thomas, incumbent, Joseph D. Dahlman, John E. Cascone, Charles W. Pierce, Frank Salomon Jr. and Richard H. Breiner, for five seats.

Fifth District — Robert D. Carrow, Ernest Schallinger and Joseph A. Forest, incumbents, and Jerry R. Herman, for three seats.

Filing for the Democratic central committee in uncontested districts were:

Second district — Albert E. Gately, M. Michael Anthony, Mrs. E. Barrett Guthrie, James Andrew Smith and Herbert Gaius Hawkins, all incumbents, for five seats.

Third District — Frank J. Phillips Sr., Lee V. Holman, Marvin B. Haiken and S. Robert Politzer, all incumbents, for six seats. The other two committeemen will be appointed by the new central committee.

Fourth District — Gordon Wade Pusser, Michael D. Healy and Mrs. Ellen Tirza Straus, incumbents, for four seats. The fourth member will be appointed.

IN THE Peace and Freedom Party, Gary B. Grunset and Willard Carpenter Jr. filed for the Third District seats, and Elizabeth M. Woodbury for the Fourth District. These three uncontested candidates can appoint the rest of their 22-member committee.

Because no candidates filed to create a Marin County American Independent Central Committee, the state organization of the party can appoint all 22 members.

The Napa Valley Has Much To Offer

There is new fascination this year in the lovely Napa Valley at Marin's doorstep.

This favored strip of Northern California, where America's finest vintages are grown and bottled, wants it known there's more to see and taste than vineyard squeezings.

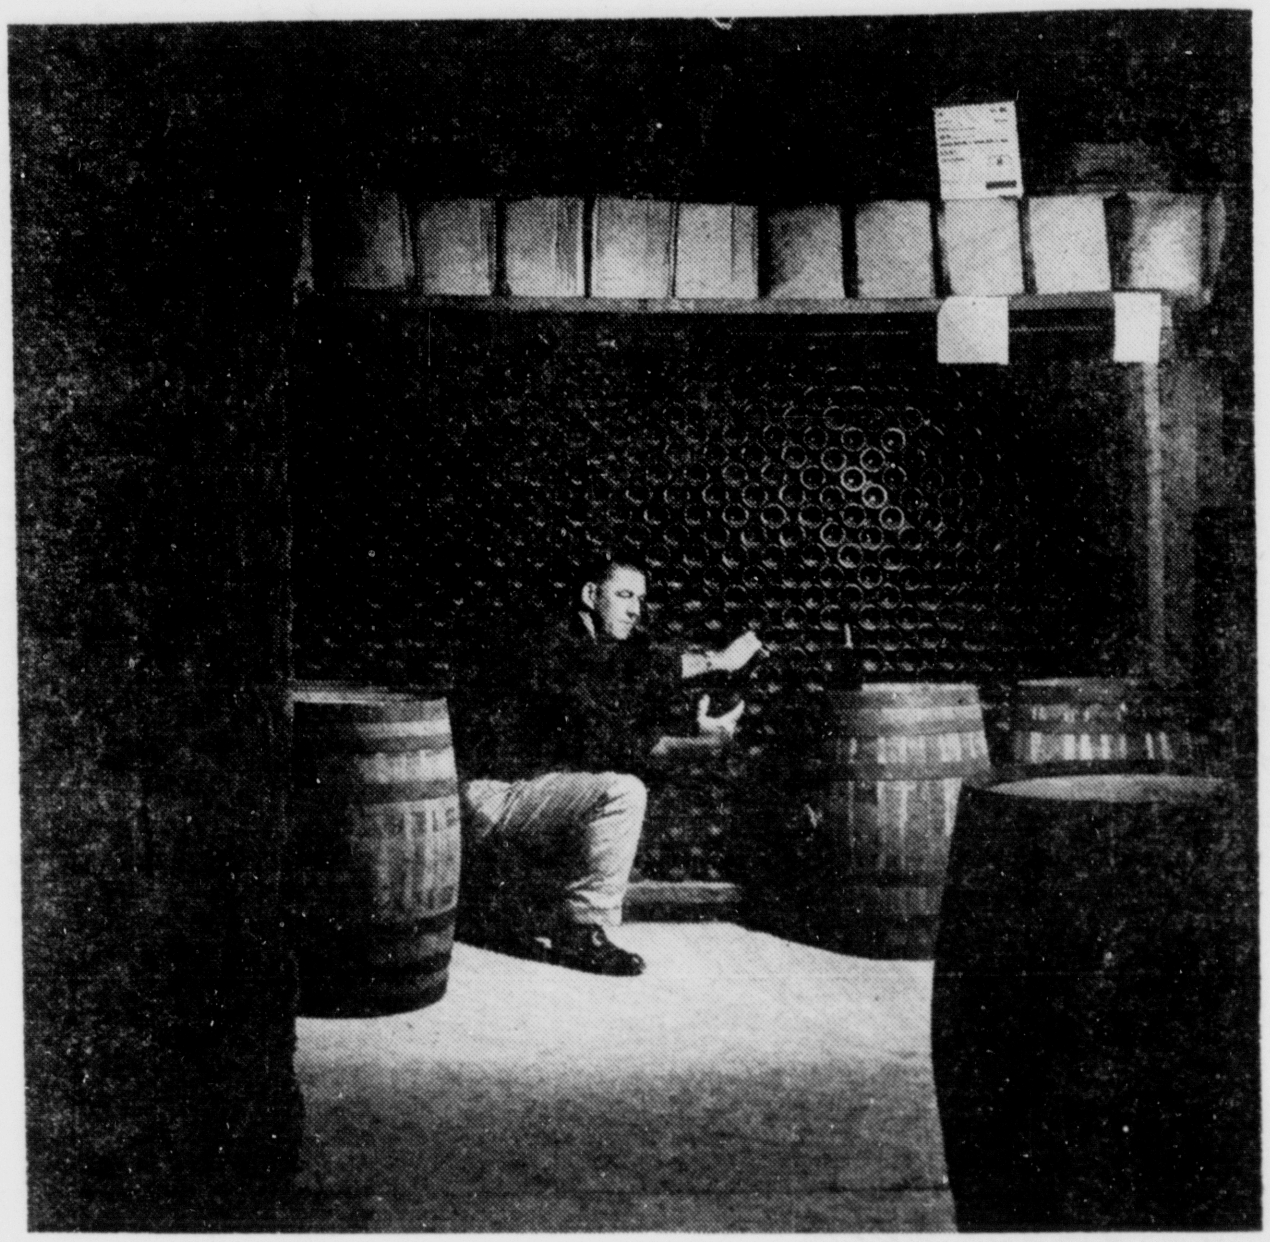
Napa is the takeoff point for the stone wineries and vineyards, which stretch along State Route 29 for 20 miles north to Calistoga. Right at Napa is the new Silverado golf complex.

Less than 20 miles to the east is Lake Berryessa, a man-made bonanza for boaters, skiers and fishermen. The latter is benefiting from a recent planting of fighting Kamloops trout. Motels, camping and trailer accommodations welcome visitors.

Near St. Helena is an interesting beeswax candle factory to visit; Yountville offers a quaint art gallery in an old depot.

At Calistoga, historic town celebrated in the 1880s by Robert Louis Stevenson, there are geysers and health spas featuring mud and mineral baths. Just west of town is the petrified forest, giant fallen redwoods, turned to stone by volcanic action millions of years ago.

From Calistoga, motorists can go on into Lake County, centered on beautiful mountain-girted Clear Lake; or turn west past the petrified forest to meet the new Highway 101 freeway north of Santa Rosa and the return to Marin.



WORKMEN IN a Napa Valley winery near St. Helena exhibit care and skill while preparing America's premiere vintages for the aging cellars. Many are third-generation employees, some of whom own a share of the wineries they serve. (Redwood Empire Association photo)

Lisbon's Fair Of Thief Lures Flea Market Fans From Afar

On the east side of an old section of Lisbon in the Campo de Santa Clara, the addicted flea market followers will find the Feira da Ladra—the Fair of the Thief.

Since it is immediately behind the imposing white Renaissance Church of Saint Vincent de Fora, it might be worth your while to delay your shopping quest for a visit to this exceptional building and its cloister. Here you will see enchanting decoration with stunning blue and white tiles of the 18th Century introduced to Portugal by the Moors.

AT THE FAIR, vendors, dealers and peddlers assemble and present their wares and goods from morn till night, every Tuesday and Saturday. And though most of the merchandise is hardly what one would come to Europe to buy, you might make a lucky find.

In the large melange of assembled junk, some neatly arranged, some otherwise, there are antiques of metals in particular and prints and other second-hand objects that may attract your attention.

While there are far more colorful markets in Lisbon, they are not flea markets. They are fish and food markets.

FEIRA DA LADRA is popular with the folk of the area and is also visited by occasional tourists who arrive by car or taxi, the latter irresistibly inexpensive. So is the transatlantic air fare.

Trans World Airlines, for example, offers a two-week Portuguese tour, including first-class hotels and transatlantic round-trip jet fare from New York, for as little as $322.

The Stampede City—

The Travel Pages

Would you believe Calgary, Alberta, is a tourist attraction without its world-famed Stampede?

It is, and at any time of the year.

THE CITY of 305,000 is growing up, literally. Skyscraper office buildings, hotels, shopping and apartment complexes are a-building. The secret of the activity is oil.

Calgary, long the center for western beef, now has the added status of "the oil capitol" of Canada.

And Calgary is growing up culturally too. It has an immense and beautifully designed auditorium containing facilities for every type of function from a solo artist to grand opera, from a small private banquet room to a great convention hall.

THE GLENBOW Museum, downtown, has definitely "unstuffy" displays galore; rooms furnished in pioneer style, a trapper's cabin built without nails, an extensive gun collection, a huge teepee made from fourteen buffalo skins, even replicas of the crown jewels. . . . Next door, the library houses the Glenbow Art Gallery.

If you prefer living specimens, visit, without charge, Canada's first inland aquarium, which overcame a unique problem — no salt-water. They truck it across the Rockies from Vancouver in specially built rubber-coated tanks.

And go upstairs to the Horseman's Hall of Fame. Meet there in living wax, Commissioner McLeod, first commissioner of the North West Mounted Police, as he signs a treaty with Blackfoot Chief Crowfoot.

IF YOU LIKE things even older, Calgary will oblige with its fascinating Dinosaur Park near the zoo. Be sure to take your camera as there are photogenic replicas of the great prehistoric animals whose petrified bones have been found in the Badlands of Southern Alberta.

Calgary has many lovely parks and scenic drives — no flat bald prairie there at all. The city is built on hills along two winding rivers, and on a clear day the Rockies stand out in the distance like a painted backdrop.

THE WEATHER can be fascinating too. Calgary is in the path of those mysterious, gentle Chinook winds that turn winter overnight into balmy spring.

Calgary remembers its past, but it plans for the future too. Its Allied Arts Center is unusual, bringing under one roof education and recreation in art, crafts, theater, the dance, music . . . See this center in action and take home new ideas.

You will want to shop, of course. Calgary has fine stores, with souvenir specialties ranging from cowboy hats to jewelry. An excellent boutique for authentic souvenirs, just half a block from Easton's Department Store, is Old Cabin Crafts.

ACCOMMODATION is plentiful and varied. Off the Banff-Calgary Highway, just north of the city, is Motel Village, a compact grouping of over a dozen modern motels, complete with a central store, service station, coin laundry, etc.

Motor hotels are good. For anyone boasting a "wee drap" of Scottish blood, the Highlander is a must. Its coffee shop is inexpensive and its Black Angus Dining Lounge caters to gourmet appetites.

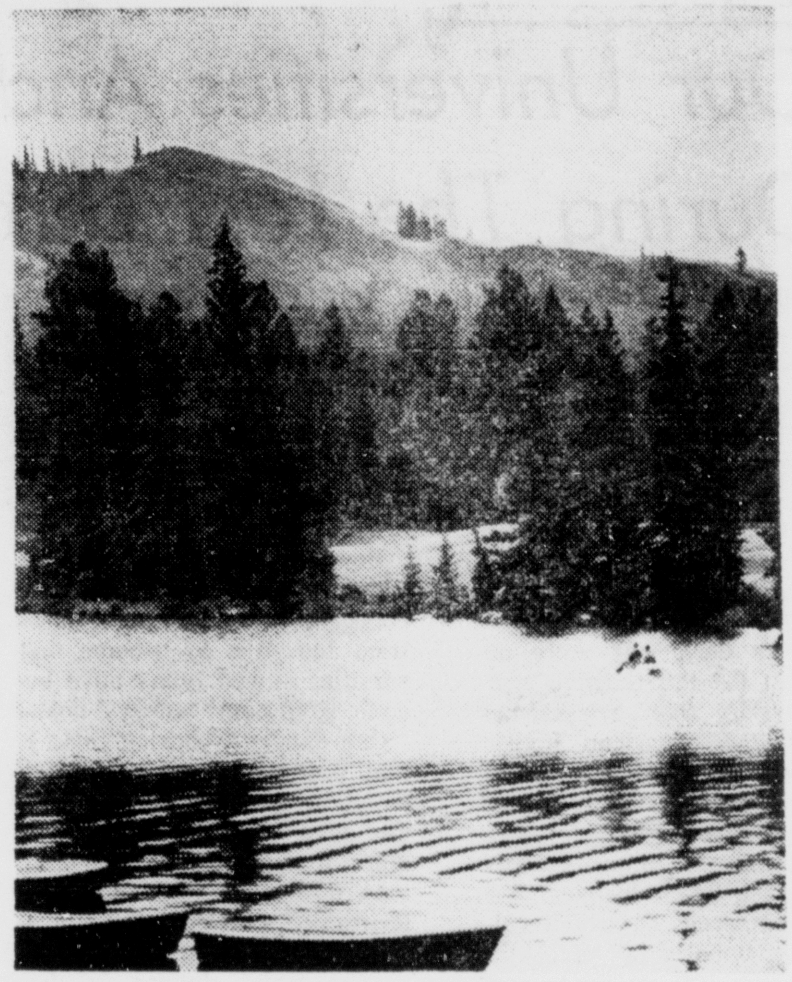
Hotels? The dignified Palliser is right downtown, older, yet modern enough to have TV in every room. The new 12-story Summit is different — it's actually circular.

FOR NIGHT life there are shows, a theater and several dine and dance spots. For sophisticated dancing, try the penthouse at the Top of the Summit; for intimate atmosphere where food is Bavarian and music liltingly continental, the basement Gasthaus is the place.



AROUND CALGARY, home of the famed Stampede rodeo, visitors to that Alberta Province city will find breathtakingly beautiful scenery with mountains, water and greenery. All this is within easy reach of the bustling city of 305,000.

Our Universities And Colleges During The Last Three Decades

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

THE HIGHER LEARNING IN AMERICA: A REASSESSMENT by Paul Woodring; McGraw-Hill, 234 pages, $6.95.

THE STOLEN ELECTION by Lloyd Robinson; Doubleday, 229 pages, $3.95.

In 1918, Thorstein Veblen write "The Higher Learning in America." In 1936, Robert Maynard Hutchins used the same title for a volume.

Paul Woodring, college psychology professor and longtime education editor of the Saturday Review, has added "A Reassessment" to the title.

Veblen's book was more an argument for the German type of university than a reasoned appraisal of American higher education. It is the assessment made by Hutchins in 1936 that Woodring re-assesses.

He finds some improvements in the last three decades, but also some areas in which colleges and universities have failed to change with the times, and some in which they have gone astray.

Greatest change in makeup of our higher education establishment has been the growth in number, enrollment and prestige of state colleges. And as they have grown, Woodring notes, the importance of the smaller liberal arts colleges has declined.

However, the state colleges, which evolved from teachers' colleges, have in some cases tried too soon to become universities — and many have become so in name only, he notes.

One danger Woodring finds is that young professors, indoctrinated in graduate schools with the idea that "research" is more important than teaching, may downgrade the quality of instruction, particularly for lower division students.

"The great danger is that when the younger men take over, the college will acquire some of the worst traits of a second-rate university," he writes.

Woodring holds that the great increase in college enrollment may not mean a corresponding increase in desire for education, because "most students are in pursuit of a status symbol called a degree." And he reaches the obvious conclusion:

"As more people go to college the value of a degree will depreciate just as the value of a high school diploma has decreased in recent decades, because no symbols possessed by millions can give assurance of high status."

Woodring is generally understanding and permissive toward the new generation of voluble student agitators. He does not think highly of them as revolutionists, however, observing: "Most of the college students who identify themselves with the New Left are the overfed, overprotected offspring of affluent parents who have little to gain and much to lose from a revolution." He concludes they are mostly doing it for "kicks."

Over-specialization, over-emphasis on graduate schools and "research" are making the undergraduate "the forgotten man of American higher education," Woodring warns. A reversal of this trend is one of his most cogent recommendations.

He also inveighs against the "multiversity" with its huge classes and lack of faculty-student contacts.

THE TILDEN-Hayes election of 1876 has been so much written about that there might seem little need for a further treatment, but Lloyd Robinson has nevertheless done a worthwhile job in "The Stolen Election."

His book, aimed primarily at high school youth but not "written down" to the extent to annoy the adult reader, goes in very thoroughgoing fashion into the machinations by which Rutherford B. Hayes was seated in the White House despite Samuel Tilden's election.

He incorporates much material that came to light only as recently as the 1930s. And he does it all without becoming unduly outraged or partisan — which is a refreshing departure from most other treatments of this seamy episode of U.S. history.

"The Stolen Election" thus escapes being just another book about the Tilden-Hayes fiasco to be, instead, an especially good one for the history student or casual reader.

SPORTS ILLUSTRATED'S "Book of the Olympic Games" will satisfy the less demanding fan, but hardly the really dedicated sports aficionado.

In the readable style associated with the Time-Life magazine, it offers a condensed history of the games and then concentrates upon the highlights of past athletic spectacles. The depth and detail that the more devoted buffs of track and field and the other games will require is missing. They may, however, be somewhat mollified by the large and impressive array of photographs, many in color, that has been assembled, and by the more comprehensive statistical data and graphs covering and comparing past performances that are to be found in the closing pages.

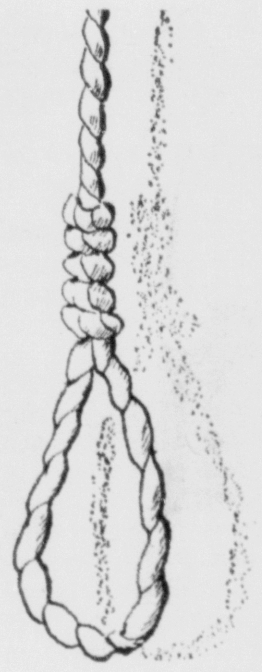
Selling for $4.95 hardcover, $1.95 paperback, it is timely in view of the approach of the 1968 summer games at Mexico City. But again: the more technically-minded followers of the sports will have to look elsewhere for the kind of informative publication that will meet their needs.

A BOOK about Jan Masaryk, late foreign minister of Czechoslovakia, and his mysterious death to be titled "The Masaryk Case" is being rushed to completion in light of recent events in that country. The book by Claire Sterling, formerly foreign correspondent for The Reporter magazine, is expected to be published by Harper and Row in early 1969.

FORMER Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara is the author of a book entitled "The Essence of Security: Reflections In Office," which will be published by Harper and Row in August. McNamara noted in the preface that the volume contains "neither memoirs nor personal recollections," but "actual policy statements, edited and adapted for clarity and logical sequence."

Sleuths & Suspense

FREAK-OUT by Mel Arrighi; Putnam, 190 pages, $4.50. Reviewed by Gary Tischler.



What with the lurid come-on cover and the title, you'd think you have a nice psychedelic murder mystery here.

You haven't.

It's still a rather conventional "who-dun-it," with contemporary artifacts and characters, such as: a lawyer who has lost 10 straight cases (loser as hero); his girl, who writes pornographic novels; a neurotic young man who thinks he's killed an underground movie star during an LSD trip; an Andy Warhol freak of a character who makes above-named movies; an Edward Albee type who writes lurid, murky plays; a sexy teen runaway who lives with a band called the The Beasts, and a peace-love society a-la The Diggers.

Still, it's kind of tongue-in-cheek, slightly nasty fun and games with some surprises.

A Look At Spain By Michener

JAMES MICHENER
'Professional tourist'

IBERIA by James Michener, Random House, 818 pages, $10. Reviewed by Alvah Bessie.

James Michener is a professional tourist and every few years he comes up with an enormous book, either fiction or non-fiction, covering his most recent travels or continuing interest in foreign lands.

In this way he has made a considerable reputation out of lengthy accounts of Oceania, Japan, Hawaii and Israel, among others. Now he has "done" Spain, and the reader interested in this fascinating country will be able to pick up an enormous amount of undigested information—and enjoy a remarkable series of fine photographs made by a young man named Robert Vavra.

The photographs, unfortunately, are far more evocative of Iberia than the text. For while Michener presents himself as an authority on the history, language, religion and philosophy of the peninsula, its music and theater, dance, poetry and drama, painting, sculpture and architecture (both lay and ecclesiastic), its food and drink, amusement, literature and geography, flora and fauna, the most important resource of Spain is singularly skimped: its people. The aristocracy, the wealthy and "government officials" are quoted, but not the working people who constitute the majority.

Even stranger is his omission of any comprehensive analysis of the Spanish civil war, the central fact of Spain's recent history, or of the Spanish scene today, 30 years after the "victory" of Francisco Franco. These omissions are doubly strange because Michener makes it plain that he was deeply grieved by the defeat of the Spanish Republic, for which he had contemplated fighting "in the Abraham Lincoln Brigade . . . Some of the men I respected most in American life were so serving, and when I thought of them doing the job that I should have been engaged in, I felt ashamed . . ."

Why, then, didn't Michener enlist? He gives three reasons:

1. "I was not invited."

2. He was (correctly) convinced America would soon be at war and "I was willing to wait until we made our entrance, satisfied that the Republic could hold out till then." (It couldn't.)

3. The people engaged in enlisting Americans for the Brigade were "Communists," whom he had never been able to trust.

Reviews Of New Reading

It is scarcely worth laboring the point, but nobody was "invited" to fight in Spain; people volunteered and Michener "rarely volunteered for anything." Less honest, however, if he was as well-informed about the course of the war as he wants the reader to believe, is his contention that in 1938 "The defense of a free democracy had been subordinated to the expanded goal of establishing a Communist government . . ." (Page 697). Such a "goal" never existed.

With such an interpretation of the conduct of the war it is scarcely surprising that on those few occasions when Michener refers to the war itself or details one of its more celebrated incidents (such as the siege of the Alcazar of Toledo, the fascist massacre at Badajoz, etc.) he chooses to rely on accounts written by Franco apologists, rather than the opposite. Example:

"Facts concerning the Alcazar are so confused and open to challenge that I have relied upon one principal source, 'The Siege of Alcazar,' by Cecil B. Eby (1965), which is in the main pro-Franco." (Page 140). Or, concerning the current "Bible" of the war, Hugh Thomas' 'The Spanish Civil War,"Michener says, "It seems to me that he writes the general truth concerning these sad events . . ."

These "sad events" determined the subsequent history of Spain — anl determine it today. Not a week passes that we do not read of mass demonstrations of workers and students, supported by priests, directed against the regime, demanding an expanded democracy and a decent standard of living. (The minimum wage in Spain is 96 pesetas a day — currently worth $1.37.)

Such facts do not seem to trouble the professional tourist.

Uncovering The Roots Of Radicalism In This Country

INTELLECTUAL ORIGINS OF AMERICAN RADICALISM by Staughton Lynd, Pentheon, 189 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Harvey Bragdon.

With meticulous scholarship, Lynd shows the continuity of American radicalism from its origins in the writings of the mid-18th Century English radicals, through its brilliant expression in the Declaration of Independence, and the abolitionist movement which resulted in the second American revolution, the Civil War, to the present. It is the author's purpose to shows that the radicalism of today has had a long and honorable history and that an acquaintance with that history may help in sharpening intellectual tools for the work of the future.

The American radical tradition, the author contends, is: "that the proper foundation for government is a universal law of right and wrong self-evident to the intuitive common sense of every man; that freedom is a power of personal self-direction which no man can delegate to another; that the purpose of society is not the protection of property but fulfillment of the needs of living human beings; that good citizens have the right and duty, not only to overthrow incurably oppressive governments, but before that point is reached to break particular oppressive laws; and that we owe our ultimate allegiance, not to this or that nation, but to the whole family of man."

Since this is an exploratory sketch rather than a definitive analysis, it may help the reader to read Bernard Bailyan's history, "The Ideological Origins of the American Revolution." Bailyan's book will provide a broader view of the development of ideological positions and help put radicalism in perspective with other revolutionary views incongruous and contradictory with it.

Because a major portion of the book deals with the radical concepts of the Declaration of Independence, it too should be read. It would help in future editions of Lynd's book if the Declaration could be added as an appendix for easy reference.

The World Through The Eyes Of 16-Year-Old

The world of 16-year old Andrew Bar was like a cocoon, self-contained and nurtured by an idealism which sought realization only in perfection.

Heretofore Andrew had resisted recognizing those elements of reality which impinged upon his peaceful sanctum and threatened to compromise his ideals. But his incompatible parents, oblivious of their son's private world, stripped away the linings of the cocoon and converted it into their "confessional."

Bitterly and defiantly Andrew listened as each parent struggled to win his affection and loyalty by painfully exposing him to images and ideas he did not want to perceive. As they unburdened themselves, Andrew became smothered beneath realities he could not cope with but could no longer disregard. Contradiction and hypocrisy threatened to destroy the promise of the future he had attempted to construct.

Balanced precariously on the fine edge of doubt and distrust, he was unwilling to plunge forward into maturity, all the while knowing that a plunge in the opposite direction meant insanity or death.

Georges Simenon encapsulates this one segment of a boy's development, narrowly confining the reader's scrutiny to the immediate conflict and limiting his perception and interpretation to one focal point — the view through Andrew's eyes. Even the characterization of the parents has no life or identity outside of Andrew's focus. By not resolving the conflict into a predictable future, tension is heightened.

Simenon augments this atmospheric charge stylistically, tersely compressing dialogue and description to achieve the emotional overtones of the moment: anxiety, hostility and desperation.

This is a continuation of the excellent Wine and Food Society Guide series of cook books. with Robin Howe providing a tempting array of recipes that range from familiar standbys to the Oriental exotics.

She also provides some historic background on soups and some general instructions on their preparation.

But it is the more than 200 recipes making up the body of the book that provide the best reason for acquiring it. The selection is varied and well chosen, generally on the gourmet side, and Mrs. Howe's directions are clear and concise. From minestrone a la Milanese to eel soup, from Iranian pomegranate soup to turnip soup, they are all there, along with garnishes, iced soups, wine and beer soups, and soups, soups, soups.

Uncle Sam's Air Arm During First World War

HOSTILE SKIES by James J. Hudson; Syracuse University Press, 338 pages, $10.95. Reviewed by Richard B. Lyttle.

Sub-title for this book is "A Combat History of the American Air Service in World War I," and Hudson takes great pains to make it just that.

A major research work on a phase of warfare history that has been so painfully romanticized fills a long-standing gap. Others have written well and carefully of their flying and battle experiences, but Hudson takes the story from United States' entry in the war until the armistice.

The excitement of the early air wars really need no embellishment from pulsing adjectives. Hudson's low kep account does credit to the courage of men who flew the flimsy craft and to the men who organized, struggled with supply problems and overhauled and serviced the machines.

This solid history is illustrated with 44 photos.

On The Stereo Scene

By JOHN SUNIER

CLASSICAL MUSIC OF INDIA — Nonesuch H-72014:

Though assembled from older material re-channeled for stereo effect, this is a very well-balanced and entertaining recital of Indian music.

The ever-present sitar is left in Ravi Shankar's able hands on other recordings while this one presents such diverse instruments as the transverse flute, reed-box drone, cup-harmonicon, fiddle, stick zither, and oboe. A folder of scholarly notes with musical examples is enclosed in this bargain-priced album.

MUSIC FROM THE MORNING OF THE WORLD — The Balinese Gamelan Orchestra — Nonesuch H-72015:

While there are several good LPs of this exotic and hypnotic music available, the stereo reproduction on this one surpasses them all.

If you have never heard the shimmering brilliance of the gamelan orchestra — made up of a variety of metallic xylophone-like instruments — by all means pick up this terrific LP. The liner notes are short and sweet, but add immeasurably to one's appreciation of the music.

REVELATION

The day they said my days were few
I blinked my eyes,
And when I turned and looked anew
Saw bluer skies.

The nightingale had sung before,
Now . . . . . audibly,
The rambling rose that hugs my door
Is new to me.

My children's smiles that mean so much
Are doubly clear,
My husband's face, his tender touch
Are doubly dear.

Too late we learn how precious, Time,
How quickly gone!
How vital to leave something fine
That can live on!

Each piece utilizes materials readily available. Legs on table and bar, for instance, are one-inch square aluminum tubing, as is the framing for the wardrobe. Table and bar tops are plastic laminate. The bar uses pre-finished hardwood plywood. Send $1 to Independent-Journal, Post Office Box 215, Briarcliff Manor, N.Y., 10510, and ask for Easi-Bild's Book No. 661 — "How to Build Family Room Furniture." All are covered in it. The table, incidentally, can be constructed to any size. The bar features sliding panel doors for storage. And all three pieces are useful in any room in the house.

Wood Fence In Its Natural Shade Will Beautify Yard

Want to do something nice for your garden?

Highlight planting beds with a backdrop of weathered fencing. Rough, silvered wood has a beauty all its own, but it's also one of the finest complements possible for plant materials.

Though new fencing will appear raw, it begins acquiring its silver sheen in just a season.

Homeowners can hasten the process by finishing the wood with bleaching oil or a clear water repellent. In sunny yards, the fence will weather more rapidly if sprayed regularly with the garden hose.

For a shaded yard and home owners too impatient to wait for nature, new fencing can be finished with a single coat of exterior-grade, semi-transparent stain in a driftwood shade. The transition between stained finish and weathering will be barely perceptible.

Hibiscus anyone?

You'll find a variety to fit every climate in California including our own. And if they're not all the tropical types, they're hibiscus, nonetheless, providing exotic blooms prized by gardeners.

The tropical beauties pictured in the Hawaiian travel posters are undoubtedly the most popular. And, no wonder: Color choice ranges from frilly double golds through the reds to a single-petaled white.

THIS SHOULD please the most discriminating home landscaper when it comes to obtaining just the right color. The fast-growing shrubs, with their lush foliage, lend themselves to landscaping. Is it any wonder that in areas where winter frost damages the tropical hibiscus, gardeners still plant them and take precautions to protect the plants?

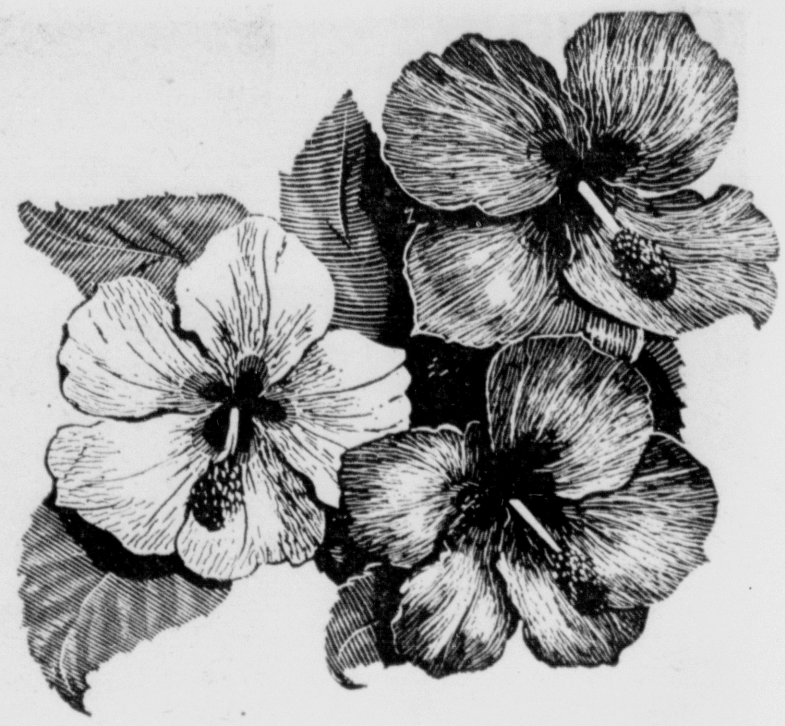
Where it is adapted, the tropical hibiscus is in bloom longer than other members of the family.

The California Association of Nurserymen advises that they're worth a little effort to insure their happiness. Give them sun — you seemingly can't overdo it — and plenty of water and food during the growth-bloom period.

YOU'LL FIND a good selection of tropical hibiscus at your nursery this time of year. Large-size plants will provide you with loads of bloom this coming summer. No matter if planted in the open ground or in a container for patio enjoyment — you'll find them real "people pleasers."

Another hibiscus suited to Marin is Rose of Sharon — a deciduous shrub. A slender tall grower, it's best in a sunny or part-sun location in the summer garden. Many nurseries have anywhere from a few to a half dozen colors available.



FOR THE Marin gardener searching for something exotic and especially beautiful, the tropical hibiscus with its showy blooms offers the perfect solution.

There's A Time To Think Small

When landscaping a small garden, think small!

If you don't, you could be asking for trouble.

THERE ARE two reasons why Marinites often fail to think small enough. They seem to forget that our climate makes everything grow fast. Secondly, Californians are "on the move," moving into new homes — where fast-growing shrubs are needed for rapid fill-in. So they invariably overplant, an action to be regretted five years or so in the future.

This isn't to say one shouldn't plant trees or fast-growing shrubs in a small garden. Many suitable trees and large shrubs (that look like trees) are available.

OTHERS THAT fit well into small gardens are the newer dwarf-type magnolias, Catalina and Carolina cherry, graceful gray olive, and moderate growing species of the eucalyptus family, among evergreens; flowering fruit trees (mostly non-fruiting), lovely white birch —an in areas where they prosper — Japanese maples and dogwood, among deciduous varieties.

The widely used oleanders and Wax-Leaf Privet shrubs have, in recent years, been available in tree form (already headed on a tall, single trunk) in nurseries. These make interesting additions to small garden areas.

Large shrubs that fit small gardens are Pineapple Guava, with its grayish foliage and tangy fruit; Strawberry Tree, with summer and fall clusters of strawberry-like fruit; and the Hopseed Bush with its eye-appealing deep plum color foliage.

Clumps of Golden Bamboo in the ground or confined to a tub, Heavenly Bamboo, New Zealand Flax, and the many dwarf conifers are ideal. The list of such shrubs is long and we can only scratch the surface with these few out-of-the ordinary varieties.

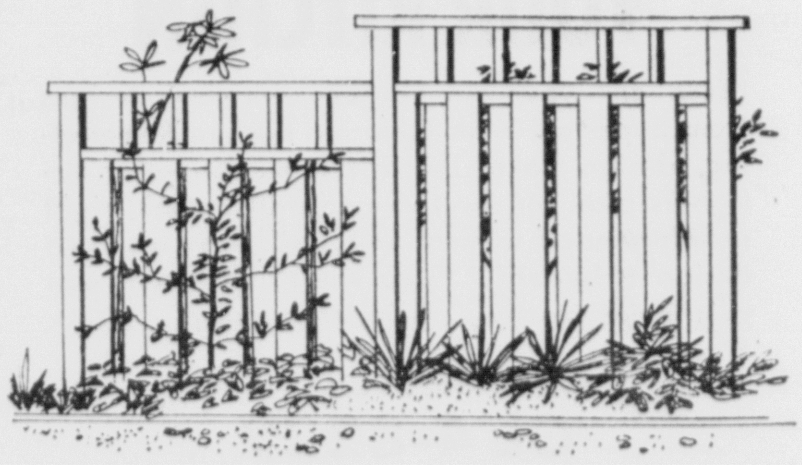
Baffling The Neighbors



A NICE WAY to "baffle" the neighbors is this board-on-board design of a stepped screen that provides an excellent privacy screen between yards. Use one-by-four inch cedar boards, overlapping edges, two-by-four rails and four-by-four posts. Center nailing strip is a two-by-two. Decorative crown is made with short pieces of two-by-four set edge out between top rail and a two-by-six cap.

Edging Is Icing On Cake

Without It, Yard Lacks Eye Appeal

WHEN YOU NEED an edging, you can rely upon low-growing annuals such as this planting of petunias. For color, annuals cannot be surpassed. And the variety they offer through different seasons heightens their appeal for edging use. Nurserymen have a fine collection of annuals available now to put the frosting on your graden this summer. (Photo courtesy of the California Association of Nurserymen)

An edging in the garden is like "frosting on the cake." It adds a sense of completeness.

Whereas cake may be good to eat without the trimming, a garden without its share of edging material lacks appeal.

The term edging should not be mistaken for formality. Nor even for plant material, in all cases. Concrete, wood and rock are also used effectively for edging in the landscape.

ANNUAL FLOWERS are the most widely used of all edging plant material. For color they are unsurpassed, and, the variety which they offer through the different seasons heightens their appeal for edging use.

Consider this list of annuals for edging which the California Association of Nurserymen considers tops in summer gardens:

Petunias — all the flower forms and colors —are ideal for edging. There are many that are new for 1968, which you'll want to consider for continuous color and effect.

THE FLUFFY, light-blue puffs of ageratum are favorites with all gardeners who have met them. More and more home gardeners are "discovering" this gem which provides lots of color for very little work. These are well-adapted for sunny locations.

Also in shades of blue, and in the deeper blue-purple, are the compact forms of lobelia, with their masses of tiny blooms. These are outstanding performers for summer-long color in partial sun situations. Shearing back when the blooms start to dwindle in late summer will bring another growth bloom cycle.

Verbena in mixed colors creates a vision of old fashioned lovelines, where bright, cheery colors are desired for effect.

LOW-GROWING zinnias are another plant to consider for edging purposes. Whether you select the wee Thumbelina-types or intermediate Pompons, you can't go wrong. Give them a sunny spot for best result.

High on the list of edging annuals is the dwarf marigold. Its brightness is a summer-long phenomenon, to be used along a sunny path or as a border around a planting of shrubs.

And, what list would be complete without alyssum, the modern descendants of those weedy annuals that used to come up wherever we didn't want them. Newer varieties in white, violet and pink tones are widely used. Try any of the alyssums to define a border or a walk in your garden and you'll see why.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

- The secret to long bloom with most plants is to keep faded blooms picked off. Letting them go to seed saps energy from the plant.
- Keep pinching fuchsias to encourage new growth. Feed them each month with liquid fish or other food which your nurseryman can recommend.
- With the promise of warmer weather, apply mulches throughout garden area. A layer of two to three inches of peat moss, bark, or specially prepared mulching spreads will conserve moisture and pay off in more luxuriant plant production. It keeps out weeds, too.
- Rumpled growth and buds that "blast" and never open properly are usually a sign of thrips in roses. Your nurseryman can recommend the proper spray to control these rasping pests.
- Keep a sharp eye to watering hanging baskets. With nothing, but the container, between the roots and the drying effect of air and sun, these generally require more frequent waterings than the rest of the garden.
